About the Strike. Some Direct Action. President Optimistic. Gen. Johnson Worries.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

THE STRIKE situation in San Francisco seems less gloomy. Mr. Green, head of the American Federation of Labor, says no general strike was authorized by his federation. Apparently he believes that striking against employers and working conditions is one thing, striking against an entire city is another, calling for careful consideration.

SAN FRANCISCO reports that powerful steel tanks of the United States Army, strong enough to plow their way through brick walls, and quite indifferent to sticks, stones and bottles thrown, have impressed the public, strikers and others.

IN SAN FRANCISCO, alleged headquarters of Communists, called "reds," were invaded by young men carrying heavy clubs, wearing labor union badges. Communist headquarters was smashed, inhabitants driven out, many arrested by police.

Those thus invaded, if they really were Communists and "reds," were the victims of the "direct action" which is understood to be what they themselves recommend. They are, therefore, not in a position to protest against methods that ought not to be necessary where courts exist.

THE GENERAL STRIKE committee, voting 207 to 180, for arbitration, expressed a desire that President Roosevelt intervene. The President, for whom fish are said to be biting well, as he sails his battleship across the Pacific to Hawaii, does not plan to intervene, and notifies Miss Frances Perkins, his Secretary of Labor, that he is quite sure "common sense and good order" will prevail and lead to a "reasonable solution."

The President said, "I have full confidence in the board of arbitration and its agencies to arrive at a reasonable solution."

General Johnson, of NRA, on the spot in San Francisco, "cracked down" verbally on both sides, accusing the shipping industry of taking a position "extreme and unreasonable."

He says the steamship men must moderate their attitude, and advises the citizens of San Francisco to "run the reds out like rats," adding, "I am for organized labor and collective bargaining with all my heart and soul." But, "when the means of food supply, milk for children, and necessities of life for the whole people, are threatened, that is bloody insurrection."

MR. GREEN, head of the American Federation of Labor, which did not authorize the strike, says it is "strictly local in character and possesses no national significance."

The able leader of organized labor in the United States is mistaken about that. The strike has GREAT national significance. Americans want to know whether the country is to be run by the government as organized originally, or by private organizations. No one questions the right to strike, but when organized labor says to six hundred thousand citizens, "you may not eat or travel except with our permission," that has much "national significance."

THE GENERAL STRIKE seems considerable to worry General Johnson, whose NRA has been telling employers that they must "bargain collectively," that is to say, through union agents, with employes, whether they want to or not. He now tells union labor that what is happening in California will "set the clock back ten years on labor organization."

RUSSIA, where flying is taken seriously, produces a new parachute record. Nikolai Evdokimoff, aviator in the Russian army, established a new parachute record, jumping 26,575 feet in 142 seconds. Nobody ever dropped as far in a parachute, and Evdokimoff did not open his chute until within 650 feet of the ground, which made the great speed possible. An open parachute would have prevented it.

Evdokimoff, who has jumped one hundred times in three years, came down faster than two miles a minute, 16 feet the first second, 48 feet the next second, 148 feet in the first three seconds, 256 feet in the first four. You know how falling bodies increase in speed according to "the square of the time."

It took courage to drop through space 26,000 feet, nearly five miles, before opening the parachute.

It must have been a good parachute to stand that shock.

THE CASE of the Connor baby, supposed to be kidnaped, found half starved after it had eaten grass, and drunk rain during five days, is a warning against taking things for granted, and a warning to detectives and others to use their eyes and try to detect.

The child apparently wandered away and lost itself, not far from home. It was taken for granted that it had been kidnaped, and for five days, apparently, nobody had brains enough to search the neighborhood carefully.

Downtown Bank Begins Pay-Off Under U. S. Plan

TOM J. HORNE

CAFE MAN GETS FIRST CASH

Tom J. Horne, part owner of Kramer's Restaurant, 208 Sixth avenue, was the first man to receive his money from the closed Bank of America Trust Company today, under the government's plan of guaranteed deposits.

Horne received his bank balance of $624 in cash shortly after 10 a. m. this morning when the bank reopened and began the pay-off to depositors whose balances had been verified. By a coincidence, he had also received the first beer license issued by the County Treasurer's office.

There was no crowd when the bank opened its door.

Walter C. Brenneis, deputy secretary of banking in charge, refused to permit photographers to take pictures inside the bank, and declined to give at first any information to reporters because, he said, "I'm just a janitor here."

Asked to explain why Horne was the first to get his money when it had been announced the depositors would be paid alphabetically, he said:

"The first group of depositors had to be called by telephone, after balances were verified. He had put in his application immediately and his name was picked

'DOUG' FACES MORE LOVE CHARGES

Lord Ashley Reported Ready to Again Name Fairbanks

By GEORGE LAIT
International News Service.

LONDON, July 19. — New troubles loomed ahead today for troubles loomed ahead today for American film star, and Lady Ashley, whose husband is suing for divorce, naming Fairbanks as corespondent.

The additional grief that lurks in the offing, it was learned today, concern new charges other than misconduct alleged in the original divorce bill, based on the continued association of Lady Ashley and Fairbanks since the divorce petition was filed last February.

Lord Ashley, it was understood, has instructed his solicitors to file a supplementary petition covering part of the period since the suit was instituted. Lord Ashley's solicitors refused to confirm or deny the report. They admitted they still were "investigating."

PARTY IN IRELAND

One of the solicitors said:

"It is premature to state additional charges have been filed, but as in all cases of this nature the solicitors must examine all information coming into their hands."

For some time Fairbanks has maintained an elaborate country estate at North Mimms, near Elstree, where he lived while engaged in making the film "The Private Life of Don Juan." It was understood that Lord Ashley's new charges will deal with alleged associations between Lady Ashley and the film star during the time the film was being made.

No specific reference is made in current reports to the week-end house party at Luttrelstown, Ireland, in March, when both Fairbanks and Lady Ashley were guests of Thomas Plunkett. At that time they were reported to have traveled together from London to Ireland.

WHEREABOUTS MYSTERY

Fairbanks has left North Mimms and is understood to have gone to Monte Carlo. It also was reported Lady Ashley was in Monte Carlo and another report said Fairbanks had returned to England but was remaining in seclusion.

Although he announced a week ago he intended to return to the United States this summer after completing the "Don Juan" film, Fairbanks has made no preparations for the journey, as far as could be learned. There was likewise nothing to indicate that there had been any recent developments in the reported negotiations for a reconciliation between the actor and Mary Pickford, who is suing him for divorce in Los Angeles.

Successor to Langer Seizes Capitol, Bans Assembly Session

BULLETIN.

BISMARCK, N. D., July 19.—(AP.)—The North Dakota House of Representatives, meeting in defiance of Lieut. Gov. Ole H. Olson's proclamation revoking a special session of the Legislature, convened today.

BISMARCK, N. D., July 19—(AP.)—Lieut. Gov. Ole H. Olson, acting governor, took possession of the chief executive's office today.

He walked into the office accompanied by two friends. National Guardsmen at the same time were posted in the corridors of the state house. There was no disturbance.

Olson immediately posted a proclamation in the corridors of the state house revoking a special session of the state Legislature, called by William Langer, ousted Governor. Doors of the two assemblies were locked.

CORRIDORS GUARDED

National guardsmen were posted in the corridors but were not before the executive offices at the time Olson appeared at 10 a. m.

Adj. Gen. Earle Sarles, who announced he would stand behind Olson, was in his offices downstairs at the time.

Legislators favoring Langer had indicated they would attempt wholesale impeachment of state officers unfriendly to the ousted governor, and that this might include the four judges of the state Supreme Court who ruled Tuesday

PWA WARNED POLICE WILL BALK TOLL

Asks If U. S. Will Back Collectors With Army

By JOHN COWAN
Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Mayor McNair will call out the Pittsburgh police and arrest Allegheny County Authority toll collectors if they attempt to tax South Hills residents for the use of the existing tunnels and bridges.

This was the ultimatum of the Mayor to Public Works Administration officials today at an interview with representatives of the South Hills Civic Federation protesting tolls on the Liberty tubes and bridge.

The Mayor's speech was short. He said his "dander was up," and it was. Public Works Administrator Harold L. Ickes had no appointments open, and when he could not be seen, the Mayor and his party called at the office of Deputy Administrator Henry M. Waite. They were told that Waite had resigned and had gone to Cincinnati, but that Clarence McDonough, PWA chief engineer, would be glad to hear them.

FORMALITIES WAIVED

On reaching McDonough's office the Mayor waived formalities. He said:

"I'm jumping out right away to Philadelphia, but I want to protest against collecting tolls on our bridges and tunnels in Pittsburgh completed 10 years ago and paid for. As Mayor of the city I think that the city should have something to say about it."

McDonough asked:

"Do you expect to have one tunnel and bridge with tolls and another tunnel and bridge without tolls?"

"Yes; we think we should have a little time to think it over. Give us a hearing."

McDonough declared that the contract was being made with the Allegheny County Authority and that Administrator Ickes had ruled that protests should be made to that body.

The Mayor sprang to his feet and picked up a bulging briefcase. He shouted:

"The federal government is sending toll collectors into our

UNION MEN RETURNING TO WORK

San Francisco Nears Normalcy; Trolleys Run Unguarded

SAN FRANCISCO, July 19.—(AP.)—Signs of rapid return to normalcy were observed on all sides today as San Francisco and Oakland began shaking off the headache of a general strike.

Although not called off, the general walkout was disintegrating, with various union groups returning to work.

Resumption of street car service by the Market Street Railway was expected here shortly. East Bay transportation service will start again tomorrow.

Approximately 50,000 union workers in San Francisco are still on strike, although many have returned to their duties of "public convenience and necessity," declared Edward Vandeleur.

UNION HEADS CALLED

Vandeleur, president of the San Francisco Labor Council and chairman of the general strike committee, called the committee into session again to consider the situation. Vandeleur said:

"We are still waiting for the President's mediation board to report back on our resolution offering to arbitrate. We have been given to understand that it has been passed on to the ship owners for their consideration."

Vandeleur reported everything "quiet and peaceful" in labor circles, and denied the general strike had been called off.

Officials of the Market Street Railway announced that "as many cars as possible" would be placed in service, while Municipal Railway heads said the city's lines had established a record in number of cars in operation and passengers carried.

CARE UNGUARDED

The municipal lines operated without police guards and no molestation was reported. Test cars were sent out by the Market Street Company last night with police escorts, but no instances of intimidation were reported. The municipal lines operated 234 cars and in 24 hours had carried some 300,000 passengers.

The produce district here, patrolled by National Guardsmen, was a scene of intense activity.

Auto ferry boats carried full loads of trucks bearing fresh produce and as soon as they arrived they were dispatched to various parts of the city to supply grocery stores.

So many scores of laden trucks arrived at Oakland that no attempt was made to count them. Trucks without police convoys far outnumbered those with escorts.

KING PARDONS BOTTLE HURLER

EDINBURGH, July 19.—(AP.)—A man who hurled a bottle or large glass at King George and Queen Mary was discharged today at a police court hearing and, it is believed, had the King to thank for it.

The object was thrown Saturday as their majesties were motoring to Edinburgh for Harthill. It struck the pavement a few yards behind the royal car.

Police immediately seized the man. King George expressed a wish that the man be freed, it was understood.

'Bullet Cane' Blast Brings Cafe Scare

Three men armed with a "bullet cane" were sought by police today after their weapon exploded in a White Tower restaurant at 608 Cedar avenue and tore a hole through a telephone directory.

The men fled. Police want to know why they were carrying the disguised firearm.

QUEBEC, July 19.—(AP.)—Prime Minister J. Ramsey MacDonald, of Great Britain, and his daughter, Ishbel, arrived here today for a vacation of at least two months in the Maritime Provinces of Canada.

LUPE, 'TARZAN' RECONCILED

International News Service.

HOLLYWOOD, July 19.—"Tarzan" is not going to lose his mate after all.

At the last moment, when Superior Judge Robert Kenney, his clerk, his bailiff and a crowd of spectators were waiting, Lupe Velez informed by the court by telephone that she was not going to divorce her Johnny—Johnny Weissmuller, screen "Tarzan" and Olympic swimming champion.

The phone call was not unexpected for Miss Velez had said at her birthday party last night that she had changed her mind about getting a divorce.

As a result of Miss Velez's decision to drop the divorce action, Weissmuller was expected to go back home today. He has been living at the Hollywood Athletic Club since their last separation which brought on the divorce complaint.

Ex-Klan Official Given Prison Term

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., July 19.—(AP.)—Edward Young Clarke, former high official in the Ku Klux Klan, was sentenced in Federal Court here today to five years in the Atlanta Penitentiary on six counts of using the mails to defraud in connection with the organization of Eskaye, a fraternal order. His wife, Mrs. Martha Ann Clarke, was sentenced to two years in the Women's Federal Industrial Institute at Alderson, W. Va.

Roosevelt's Mother Dines With Lebrun

PARIS, July 19.—(AP.)—President Albert Lebrun, of France, and Mme. Lebrun today entertained Mrs. James Roosevelt, mother of the President of the United States, at a "family" luncheon.

Mrs. Roosevelt came here yesterday from London to visit her sister, Mrs. D. D. Forbes, a resident of Paris.

Ingram Pair's Yacht Aground on Coast

CHATHAM, Mass., July 19.—(INS.)—The schooner-yacht Rhodos, owned by John L. and Paul S. Whitman, of Ingram, near Pittsburgh, and carrying a cruising party of 10, was aground today off Harding Beach. While efforts were made to float her off the sandbar, the Whitman party spent the night at a hotel.

John Whitman, 25, graduated from Carnegie Tech with a master's degree in mechanical engineering last year. His brother, 21, is a senior in the mechanical engineering department. They live at 68 West Prospect avenue, Ingram.

TROOPS ASKED IN ONION STRIKE

International News Service.

KENTON, O., July 19.—Sheriff Wilbur Mitchell, declaring that the rioting in the strike of 400 onion weeders in the fertile Scioto marshlands was beyond control of his force of special deputy sheriffs, today requested that Gov. George White send state militiamen into the area.

At Columbus, Gov. White indicated that an Ohio National Guard observer would be sent to the marshlands immediately to determine whether use of the militia was necessary.

The fighting started after special deputies attempted to disperse a mob of between 75 and 100 persons which had attempted to picket a road leading into the village of Alger, where many of the major onion growers live.

Crippled Girl's Screams Trap 4 in Cemetery

A flirtation started at a carnival in North Braddock and ended in Homewood Cemetery, Forbes street and Dallas avenue, early today resulted in the arrest of four men.

Those held were William C. Hester, 24, of 1703 Weinman street; James Smith, 21, of 1702 Montier street, and Clarence Burger, 26, of 43 Hart street, all of Wilkinsburg.

Arraigned in Morals Court, Magistrate J. W. McGowan held the three, and the driver of the car, Edward E. Burger, 41, of 11 Princeton boulevard, for court on morality charges. Burger had originally been arrested on charges of disorderly conduct, but the charge was later changed.

The girls were rescued through the quick thinking of Lorraine Nau, 17, of 211 Division street. Rankin, a cripple on crutches. Lorraine and the two other girls, Frances Muck, 17, and her sister, Patricia, 15, both of 514 Hawkins avenue, North Braddock, were offered a ride home by the men, she testified.

The men took them to Homewood Cemetery. During an argument among the men, the Nau girl said she got to the eight-foot wall and with the aid of a passerby, who had been attracted by the screams of the girl, she clambered over and summoned police.

'End Walkout,' Only Thought, Declares Author of 'Chickie'

(The following impression of San Francisco under general strike conditions was written for International News Service by Elenore Meherin, author of "Chickie" and other novels.)

By ELENORE MEHERIN

SAN FRANCISCO, July 19.—It is zero hour. The entire city of San Francisco waits breathless as the unparalleled drama of its general strike now approaches stirring and momentous climax. Unrest and suspense are apparent everywhere. Small groups of men gather on street corners. They talk in low voices, excitedly; other groups of housewives confer anxiously in the now partially opened stores. One thought is paramount —whether the workers are right or the shippers are right, settle the difference between them and quickly!

For a week the eyes of the world have focused on the epic conflict. For three days a million men, women and little children faced possible starvation. Business ceased. Streets became quiet as aisles in a forgotten church. No movies, no dancing, no jaunty machine rides hither and yon, no night clubs, not even a convenient restaurant—but stay at home, open a can of beans, twiddle your thumbs and be thankful if you ordered an extra head of lettuce and if you had money enough to lay in a stock of meat.

This is San Francisco's strike-time program, now slightly—very slightly relaxed. How does San Francisco like it when she is boxed on the ear and sent to bed without her supper? Especially when she had nothing to do with tying the can on the cat's tail?

"Not too hot!" was the tart comment from Nob Hill where the capitalists live to the outskirts of the Mission where labor

DOUMERGUE CALMS NEW ROW OVER STAVISKY SCANDAL

CHECK FORGERY CHARGED TO EX-PREMIER

PARIS, July 19.—(AP.)—Premier Gaston Doumergue was believed to have averted the wreck of his cabinet today by spreading the words "the boys must be good."

The veteran statesman made a lightning decision at a railroad station last night and sent his friends to tell former Premiers Andre Tardieu, Edouard Herriot and Camille Chautemps and party leaders that Tardieu's charges that Chautemps and Radical Socialists knew the late Serge Stavisky was swindling the country must be limited to a controversy between Tardieu and Chautemps, without involving parties.

TRUCE PERILED

Resignation of Herriot and other Radical Socialists from the cabinet was threatened because of Tardieu's charges, which they claimed broke the political truce under which the Doumergue cabinet was created in the grave days of last February.

Doumergue then boarded a train for a vacation, smiling and refusing any comment on cabinet friction.

Because he has the whiphand threat of dissolution of Parliament, for which deputies are not ready, Doumergue is expected to maintain the truce between the parties.

Chautemps and Tardieu were brought face to face last midnight at a stormy session of the Chamber of Deputies committee investigating the collapse of Stavisky's Bayonne municipal pawnshop.

Pale and broken by the shock of the suicide of his niece yesterday, Chautemps denied Tardieu's charge that he forged Tardieu's name to a Stavisky check stub for 300,000 francs (about $19,500).

Chautemps accused Tardieu of seeking to "strike at the national government and cause a breach of the truce with a view to bringing about dissolution of the cabinet. His (Tardieu's) deposition can be considered the first act in an electoral campaign."

FORGERY DENIED

Called in to testify before the investigating committee concerning the check stub, Tardieu said Chautemps had forged his name.

Then Chautemps was summoned, only a few hours after his niece had killed herself. Friends said she brooded over charges made against the family as a result of the scandal.

Chautemps demanded proof of allegations made by Tardieu. The latter failed to produce the proof but stuck by his guns. Then Chautemps denounced him.

Tardieu said he did not know Stavisky, but that his Radical Socialist successors (Herriot was the first) knew who Stavisky was and what he was doing.

The check stub, he claimed, was part of a scheme "to get something on me."

Stavisky's operations cost the public millions, overthrew two governments, bringing France at one time on the verge of civil war, and an investigation of them has been splotched with murder and several suicides.

M'NAIR PUSHES FREE PORT

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Mayor McNair took initial steps to obtain a free port for Pittsburgh under the recent Celler free port act, approved last week by the President.

Under this act materials from abroad may be admitted duty free and after being fabricated can be reshipped.

The Mayor's plan is to erect mammoth processing plants on Neville Islands where raw rubber could be manufactured into tires and many other uses; olive oil could be brought duty free from Spain, bottled in Pittsburgh; and hundreds of other commodities from abroad could be brought up the Mississippi and Ohio rivers in original containers.

According to the Mayor it would make Pittsburgh a great free inland port, comparable with Hamburg in Germany.

The Mayor called on officials of the Free Zone Administration recently set up in the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce and presented an elaborat plan.

McNair said:

"I had a very encouraging interview with federal officials. I was told that Pittsburgh is the first inland city to take advantage of the free port act, and I am looking for favorable consideration."

city. I have jurisdiction there. I'll call out my policemen and drive them off. Will you call out the standing Army to keep them there? I'm going to Philadelphia. Good day."

And the Mayor strode out. He refused to divulge the purpose of his Philadelphia trip.

SOUTH HILLS GROUP HEARD

After the Mayor's exit the interview with McDonough took on a more formal aspect. A. C. Purdy, chairman of the South Hills Civic Association presented a lengthy argument against the tolls as protested by the residents of the South Hills district. In this he was joined by Frederick Bigger, of the City Planning Commission; Mrs. E. H. Schroder and J. L. Galbraith.

In the formal protest it was declared that the necessity for an extra bridge and tunnel has not been proven and cannot be determined until the major improvements now in use have been completed and tried out for a period of years. It was declared:

"It is unwise to expend $8,560,000 until the necessity is proven. We further submit that the ramps of the proposed Duquesne Bridge in downtown Pittsburgh, with its one-way streets and 'run-arounds' will further complicate downtown traffic.

TUBE RELIEF SEEN

"We urge in behalf of the South Hills residents that the County Commissioners proceed with the available county funds with the completion of major projects now in use—Saw Mill Run boulevard extension, from the circle to West End Bridge. Banksville road from the circle to McFarland road. Mt. Washington boulevard from the end of the present construction to Saw Mill Run boulevard, grade separation at south end of Point Bridge and Carson street and grade separations at north end of Liberty Bridge and north and south ends of Liberty Tunnels. The completion of all the foregoing major improvements need not be made at one time, but as necessity demands as long as county funds are available.

"The completion of Saw Mill Run boulevard extension and Banksville road and Point Bridge separations will relieve traffic on the Liberty Tubes. This work, done by the county, will afford work to the unemployed, and the County Commissioners have the bonding power to proceed on part of the work forthwith."

Before his departure from Pittsburgh, the Mayor said:

"If it's necessary, we'll radio President Roosevelt. He should be in Washington to hear us."

Undisturbed by the Mayor's expedition, city and county officials have arranged to meet tomorrow to discuss plans for the toll ramp at the south end of the tunnels.

M'NAIR MAY BAN TRAFFIC TAGS

That muddled situation in Traffic Court offers no obstacles to Mayor McNair.

He'd just tear up the 20,000 tags awaiting disposition and start off with a clean slate without tags and fines.

For the observance of traffic laws, the Mayor indicated he would ask Pittsburghers to observe the rules, adding:

He added further:

"They talk about Traffic Court being two months behind. Why, Common Pleas Court is two years behind. You don't hear any criticism about that, though."

M'NAIR'S UNION EDICT INDORSED

By JOHN COWAN
Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Mayor W. N. McNair's edict for Pittsburgh municipal employes to withdraw from labor unions today was heartily approved here.

Employes of the federal government and states and municipalities, it was pointed out, are administrative functionaries and as such have no right to strike. A precedent was recalled in the Boston police strike in 1920 when Calvin Coolidge, then Governor of Massachusetts, declared that striking policemen were virtually mutineers.

The attitude taken by government officials is that in private industry concerned with production, that the right to strike is a proper weapon. However, municipal employes are under a separate basis, they declare, and may be compared with the United States Army. If soldiers and officers in the Army should decide to strike, they would be classed as mutineers and could be put to the death penalty.

Traveling Artist To Paint M'Nair

Harry Mathe, 21-year-old Louisiana painter, on a tour of the world, was in Pittsburgh today to put Mayor McNair on canvas. He also proposes painting the Mellon Institute and the Blockhouse. On his tour, he is painting many of the natural wonders of the world and famous buildings. He started the trip on his twentieth birthday.

NAZI MURDER TOLL IS 2,000, SAYS STEEL

Von Papen Now Rules Germany, Declares Ex-Reich Official

NEW YORK, July 19.—(AP.)—Johannes Steel, former German official who fled from the reich because of his opposition to the Nazi program, declared in a copyright story in the New York Post today that "a quiet wave of murder is sweeping the concentration camps" of Germany.

The writer said that the inmates of the camps "have, according to a secret order of Gen. Goering (Premier of Prussia), been cut off completely from the outside world." Steel writes:

"Their relatives have been without news from these prisoners for three weeks. It seems that massacres have taken place which are beyond human imagination.

"The toll of deaths has been put by absolutely reliable sources at no less than 2,000 men and women."

Steel says:

"The army, during the last week, has been able to consolidate its position and the military dictatorship is complete. (Vice Chancellor Franz) Von Papen at this moment is the man who runs everything. He has come out on top."

Steel says Hitler "is the absolute prisoner of the Reichswar (army) which watches every move he makes and is waiting for the moment when Hitler's prestige has dissipated to such an extent that he can be put away safely."

BLAST FOLLOWS DOLLFUSS DEFI

VIENNA, July 19.—(AP.)—Three hours after the expiration of Chancellor Dollfuss' five days of grace for the surrender of explosives, a heavy explosion today wrecked the upper station of the lofty Nordkitte cable railway, connecting Innsbruck with snowclad peaks.

The manager of the cable lines and three other employes were recently discharged on the ground they were Nazis.

The thrilling Nordkitte trip into the clouds has for years been one of the most popular excursions for tourists visiting Innsbruck. The lines made money, even in depression years.

Possession of bombs or other explosives now merits the death penalty under a decree of Chancellor Dollfuss in his recently-opened campaign to wipe out Nazis.

Osteopath Arrested On Narcotic Charge

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., July 19.—(INS.)—Arrested for violating narcotic laws, Dr. Russell M. Perry, local osteopath, was released today on his own recognizance pending securing of $2,000 bond.

Making no specific charges other than violation of the Harrison act on June 5 and earlier dates, the information was made by William P. Cantelupe, of the State Bureau of Drug Control.

Virginia Marvin, Actress, in Reno

RENO, Nev., July 19.—(AP.)—Virginia Marvin, musical comedy star who appeared on Broadway in "School for Husbands," has established residence here to sue for divorce from Karl Godwin, magazine illustrator.

The actress, who also played in "No, No, Nannette" and "Night in Venice," expects to file the suit in the next few weeks.

Public Debt and Bureaucratic Dictatorship Are Raising Grave New Issues—Richard W. Child

By RICHARD WASHBURN CHILD

IF THE opposition wants to take issues with the administration it certainly has three grounds to cultivate. Regardless of where the merit lies, the country is indicating clearly enough that it has three questions to ask.

ONE—Has disregard for the Constitution, for democracy, and the representative system so permanently twisted our government out of shape that we may expect our liberties and initiative and our resources to be permanently saddled by a busybody rabbit-warren on government payroll and possibly by a backmailing officialdom? Are votes to support the new system to be bought by spendthrift appropriations which are exacted from the taxpayers?

TWO—How dangerously near to going broke does the new indebtedness take us—i. e., toward the point where neither taxes nor credit can support the load?

THREE—Is recovery to be sought in the normal national channels of an American business which is 90 per cent based on honesty and good sense, or are we to lean upon a system which can only have one Roosevelt and one phrase-making Johnson genius, but is certain to have thousands of little third rate dictators supplying laws and business management by tin can regulations? If it is going to require half the population on public payroll to tell the other half how to run industry, we ought to know about it.

PARTY politics plays no part in this unless the fundamental doctrines of the Democratic party are a little stronger against the defeat of individual liberty than those of any other party and are more in favor of decentralization, not centralization of government power.

If the money which, with haste and therefore more or less wisdom, has been circulated in public works is responsible for the stimulant feeling rather than any net result of the NRA, we should take account of that fact.

If the NRA has given business more jitters than joy there is no crime in business saying so.

If the experiment of running the lives of people from central bureaus and by commandments never has been a practical function of government during all of history, we should state it.

We had a taste of the blackmail and corruption and devastation of "Thou shalt not" in prohibition.

It is not impossible that we may taste blackmail, corruption and the withering inefficiency of attempts to issue "Thou shalls."

IT IS NOT impossible that the net ultimate result of this planning system, where the planners have no responsibility to stockholders nor to keep out of the red, may lead to such a blight upon the small businesses that nothing but the large campaign contributors will be left in the production field.

The whole subject needs to be boosted up onto the scales. How does it weigh?

Hugh Johnson will not help by jumping up and down on one pan while Senator Borah leaps upon the other.

On the contrary, it is worth something today to go back to the testimony of a man who had more experience than any other living man in what is called economic planning in emergency—the head of the War Industries Board, Bernard Baruch.

He once told the War Policies Commission:

"If we can solve our industrial problems in war by this method, why can't we use the same methods in peace? The answer is—incentives in peace are individual freedom and the hope of reward. Incentives in war are love of country, idealism and defense against a common danger. President Wilson struck the keynote of the whole matter when he said, 'The highest and best form of efficiency is the spontaneous co-operation of a free people.'"

In 1931 Baruch said:

"We must neither militarize industry nor call upon any peace time agency to assume the task. What is required is leadership of a type that will persuade co-operation. This leadership must be backed by sanctions of far greater force than can or ought to be used in times of peace. It is a spontaneous sort of function utterly inappropriate to any imaginable form of bureaucratic organization."

IT WOULD be useful to know whether Baruch has changed his mind.

It would be even more useful to know whether with due regard for efficiency, for protection of labor, for industrial peace and freedom from strikes and, above all, for CONFIDENCE the GOVERNED in the NRA—the men who run American business—would vote to maintain or to abolish the governing bureaucracy which tells them how their business shall be run.

WHITNEY WILLS $62,808,829

NEW YORK, July 19.—(AP.)—Harry Payne Whitney, sportsman, left a net estate of $62,808,829.46 when he died October 26, 1930, a transfer tax appraisal filed today showed.

The gross value was placed at $72,740,838.97, and it was estimated there had been a shrinkage of about 30 per cent in the value of the estate, due to the decline in the value of securities.

New York state levied a tax of $9,513,013, Deputy State Tax Commissioner Jacob Manicoff said.

The widow, Mrs. Gertrude Vanderbilt Whitney, and three children, Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, Flora Whitney Miller and Barbara Whitney Henry were the principal beneficiaries.

BANK AMERICA PAYING OFF

at random from among those whose balances were verified.

"We will continue paying alphabetically as soon as we get the system running."

The bank closed yesterday morning when the Pennsylvania Department of Banking took it over. Within a few hours, officials of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation arrived here and set up the necessary machinery to pay off depositors.

Starting at the top of the alphabet, workers began verifying the deposit balances and other workers notified depositors by telephone that they could get their money this morning. James E. Markham, counsel for the insurance corporation, said. He declared he could not estimate the number who will be paid today, but hoped it would be about 100. He added:

"Small and large accounts will be paid today, as we go down the alphabet.

"And we want people to know that there is no expense of any kind, even notary fees, for them to get their money."

The insurance plan guarantees deposits up to $5,000, Dr. William D. Gordon, secretary of banking, stated.

The institution was placed on a restricted basis when its president, W. P. Ortale, was charged with embezzling $106,700 of the bank's funds. Ortale has since denied any guilt, said he wished to help in reorganizing the bank, and has accused Gordon of blocking his moves.

Seek Missing Girl In Stowe Township

Stowe Township police have been asked to search for Julia Myles, 13, of 814 Pine Hollow road, who disappeared from her home Tuesday evening and has not been heard from since.

Described as being shabbily dressed in black satin skirt and green silk waist, no stockings and wearing a pair of old high-top shoes with the tops cut off, the girl is thought to have gone to the city, probably in search of employment. Her parents, according to police, are in straitened circumstances, but the girl is not old enough to work.

COUNTY AIRPORT PASSED UP IN RATE FIGHT

TWA Makes Good Its Threat to Omit City From Route

Transcontinental and Western Air answered County Commissioner C. C. McGovern's charge of "bluff" by flying over Pittsburgh without stopping for the first time today.

A new flight, scheduled to cut the time between coasts to less than 18 hours, made the first survey run from Los Angeles to New York today, carrying a full load of passengers, among whom was Louis B. Mayer, president of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Company.

TWA had threatened to pass by the county airport unless rates were reduced. McGovern, a few days ago, charged they were bluffing.

LAND AT COLUMBUS

Instead of stopping at Pittsburgh as TWA officials say they would prefer, the ship landed at Columbus for refueling and was scheduled for a nonstop trip to New York. Ordinarily Pittsburgh is used as a refueling point.

Leslie P. Arnold, assistant to the president of TWA, in Pittsburgh today in another effort to bring about an equitable readjustment of rates expressed surprise over County Parks Director A. M. Marion's refusal to give the airlines a hearing before making recommendations to the commissioners. In a letter to Marion, Arnold said:

"We were surprised to learn that, in spite of our repeated requests to be heard, you had made your recommendation to the commissioners without consulting with any of the airlines concerned in an effort to arrive at the true facts of the case.

"In view of these facts, we respectfully ask for your reconsideration of the entire matter and that a hearing of all concerned be arranged for some date in the near future."

'90 PER CENT WRONG'

Arnold also told the director he was "90 per cent wrong" in his recommendations to the commissioners. He said:

"I estimate that about 90 per cent of the deductions contained within your letter (to the commissioners) are incorrect and while it would be too lengthy a letter to make a detailed explanation of each item, I will make mention of a few of them."

Among other things, Arnold reiterated his statement that airport charges had increased 112 per cent against an increase of only 55 per cent in business from May to June of this year.

The TWA official appealed also to McGovern urging that a hearing be held out of fairness to the operators and calling attention to today's survey flight passing over the city.

This flight, Arnold said, when put into daily operation will be the fastest scheduled run in the world. He said the trip will be made from coast to coast in less than 15 hours.

Ted Husing Divorced At Trial in Reno

RENO, Nev., July 19.—(AP.)—Mrs. Helen G. Husing won an uncontested divorce from Edward B. (Ted) Husing, nationally known radio sports announcer at a brief private trial before District Judge Thomas F. Moran here yesterday.

Custody of a daughter, Peggemae Husing, 9, who is in Reno with Mrs. Husing, was determined in a separation and property agreement approved by the court.

$5,000 Fire Ruins Truck and Flour

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., July 19.—About $5,000 damage resulted today when fire destroyed a large truck and its eight ton load of flour, owned by C. T. Schomaker and Sons, of Pittsburgh, while en route from Pittsburgh to Canton. Charles Cochran, 30, of Pittsburgh, driver, was burned on the hands attempting to extinguish the blaze by throwing flour into it.

Earthquake Kills Soldier in Panama

COLON, Panama, July 19.—(AP.)—Yesterday's earthquake caused the death of Priv. Kenneth L. Kierman of G Company, Fourth Infrantry, of Elmira, N. Y., who jumped from the second story of a Fort Davis barracks during the tremblor. Another member of the company was less seriously hurt when he jumped from the third story.

Schooner Aground, Tibbetts Stranded

Al Smith and Tammany Bury Hatchet

NEW YORK, July 19.—(AP.)—Alfred E. Smith, the once irreconcilable warrior, is back in Tammany Hall.

James J. Dooling, the hall's new leader, announced today that the former governor had come back to the hall to confer on the matter of a revision of New York City's out-dated charter, a matter which Smith is directing as chairman of the City Charter Commission.

Smith's recognition once more of the hall marks evident peace between two factions which have been in bitter opposition since John F. Curry was elected to head the hall five years ago. Curry's ouster and Dooling's succession apparently have caused the hatchet to be buried.

In some instances—such as the Tammany march in the inauguration parade for Franklin D. Roosevelt—Smith has maintained outward friendliness for his fellow sachems, but at the municipal election last fall he refrained from indorsing Curry's election slate.

Upon his visit to the hall, Smith also discussed Tammany's political situation—principally as it affects this falls election of a city comptroller to succeed the late W. Arthur Cunningham.

Upton Sinclair's Books Banned in Prussia

BERLIN, July 19.—(AP.)—All novels and other literature by Upton Sinclair, widely known American author, were ordered confiscated and banned today in Prussia.

Sinclair's books have been among the best sellers in Germany.

Sinclair for years was a leading publicist of the Socialist party in America. But last fall in announcing he would be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor of California he said the collapse of Socialism before Nazis in Germany showed the "futility" of building up a Socialist party in the United States along strict party lines.

ASTOR REPORTED GIVING BRIDE $500,000 TRUST FUND

SAME AMOUNT ONCE PLANNED FOR EILEEN

Tucky's Father, Heir's Lawyer Won't Deny Settlement

By DAVID P. SENTNER.
International News Service.

NEW YORK, July 19.—A wise little birdie (a sky blueblood) is chirping that John Jacob Astor, III, has just concluded arrangements for a trust fund of $500,000 for his bride, the former Ellen Tuck French.

This amount is the same young Astor planned to settle on Eileen Gillespie, his first fiancee.

None of those who should know would venture to disagree with the little birdie although they declined to confirm the report.

FATHER UNINFORMED

Francis Ormond French, father of Ellen, today told International News Service via telephone from his home in Dedham, Mass., that he had not heard of such a settlement on his daughter. He was asked:

"Do you think it is improbable?"

He replied:

"I wouldn't say that."

The settlement was reported to have been arranged through the New York law firm of Tibbetts, Lewis, Lazo & Rand.

George F. Lewis, attorney for young Astor, was asked to comment upon the report. He said:

"As personal counsel for Mr. Astor, I don't care to discuss the private affairs of my client."

"Would you deny the report?"

"I don't know who made the report."

"Will you deny it?"

"All I can say is that I do not care to discuss the private affairs of a client."

COUPLE IN NEW YORK

Mrs. Astor's father scoffed at reports that his daughter and her husband had cut short their Pacific Coast jaunt on account of the strike or for any other reason. French said:

"They only intended to stay out West for 10 days or so. They are planning to return to Newport in a few days where they will remain for the summer. The Astor estate at Chetwode is all ready for them."

4 MEN FINED AS 'MASHERS'

Four alleged "mashers" were fined $25 or 30 days in the Workhouse by Magistrate Charles F. Papale in East End Police Court today.

They were arrested last night by Inspector Jerry Deasy and Lieut. Michael O'Connor on charges of disorderly conduct after the police officers say they saw the men flirting with women in the neighborhood of Shady avenue and Walnut street.

Those fined were Joseph Indovina, 27, of 5441 Walnut street; Arthur Schamberg, 33, of 710 Ivy street; Harry Snyder, 22, 5723 Woodmont street, and Harry E. Rahr, 38, of 6100 Walnut street.

Deasy said that Rahr, in an automobile attempted to flee when the police approached him.

Dummy of Official Hanged in Tax War

DANVILLE, Ky., July 19.—(AP.)—As a protest against the new state sales tax, a dummy representing J. Sterling Towles Boyle County representative in the General Assembly, was hanged from a tree in the Boyle County Court House yard early today.

As soon as the dummy was discovered it was taken down by police. It bore a hand-bill charging Towles with breaking his "pledge to the people of Boyle County" to vote against the tax.

MAN FINDS HE'S ALIEN AT 56

Imagine the surprise of Michael Oliver Wakinshaw, 56, of 849½ Coast avenue, Banksville, when he learned that after voting for 35 years, serving on a Criminal Court jury and acting as a county constable, he would not be allowed to vote this year because he is not a citizen!

Wakinshaw, born in England, came to this country with his father when one year of age. Thinking his parent was naturalized, the Banksville man bothered no more about his citizenship.

Yesterday Wakinshaw was told when he attempted to register, that he was not a citizen. He said:

"It is an embarrassing position to be in—passing myself off as a citizen—a big shock when I found I wasn't."

'NAZI' BED BUGS PART COUPLE

CHICAGO, July 19.—(AP.)—Joseph Pierron, "Nazi" commander, whose storm troops the police said were unpleasant insects, was sued for divorce by his wife, Elizabeth.

In his role of apartment house janitor, Pierron fought for the Nazi cause, his wife said, by dispatching his "brown shirts" to attack anti-Nazi beds.

CLEAR ESCORT OF MURDER

PAULSBORO, N. J., July 19.—(AP.)—Robert P. Lynch, 45, held by police in the death of Mrs. Mabel Peterson, Williamsport (Pa.) woman, was partially exonerated today by W. Clayton Apgar, chief of Gloucester County detectives.

Lynch was "not involved directly in her death," Apgar said of the man who surrendered to Camden police last night, saying he accompanied the woman on a trip from her home to New Jersey Monday.

Mrs. Peterson, identified through a diamond in one of her teeth, collapsed in a Paulsboro street early Monday and died soon afterwards.

The stains in Lynch's car have been explained "satisfactorily," said Apgar, and the blood on his clothing came as the result of an injury Mrs. Peterson suffered when she fell in the home of her sister, Mrs. William Bruen, of Nutley, N. J., where they visited before going to Camden.

'Reformed' by Knife, In Prison Again

INDIANAPOLIS, July 19.—(AP.)—Howard J. Buck, 33, on whom surgery was once tried as a means of reformation, pleaded guilty yesterday to a charge of petit larceny and was sentenced to serve one to five years in prison.

He will be taken to the Michigan City Penitentiary, the institution from which he was once released by former Gov. Harry G. Leslie so that a surgical operation might be performed to relieve a condition which it was believed caused him to have criminal tendencies.

TRAIL STUDENT IN BEAUTY'S DEATH

Murder Charge Filed Against Youth in College Tragedy

NORMAN, Okla., July 18.—(AP.)—A murder warrant intensified the hunt today for Neal Myers, panicky college boy who fled the scene of Marian Mills' tragic death.

"We may have some more information shortly as to the whereabouts of Myers," said County Attorney Paul Updegraff as he filed the murder charge eight days after the death of Miss Mills, 20-year-old University of Oklahoma beauty queen, allegedly the victim of an illegal attempt to prevent motherhood.

Telegrams were dispatched to Texas border points, asking the youth's detention, upon receipt of rumors that he had been seen in Brownsville and across the international boundary—in Matamoros, Mexico.

Last Thursday Myers, 21 and a pharmacy student at the university here, abandoned his motor car in Houston, Tex., and fled on foot. Two days earlier he had frantically summoned a doctor to a little duplex apartment here. When the physician arrived, he found Miss Mills on a bed, dead, and Myers gone.

Authorities have been told by Mrs. Hazel Brown, 39-year-old fraternity house cook and student confidant, who owned the apartment where the death occurred that Myers and Miss Mills had been there for more than a day, attempting to prevent maternity by the use of a "quack" remedy.

At the time she died, Miss Mills' parents, Prof. and Mrs. Elbert M. Mills, of the university, thought she was attending a house party in Tulsa.

Weather Conditions

Pressure is relatively high over the southeastern states and low over the interior of the country, with the principal center of low pressure over Eastern South Dakota (Huron, 29.68 inches). There is a thunderstorm condition in the front of the low pressure over Wisconsin and Illinois, with generous showers and over North Dakota, north of the center of low pressure, with only light rainfall. Showers occurred also in Eastern Tennessee, Georgia and Western North Carolina. The weather continues moderate, except in the Missouri Valley, where high temperatures occurred again yesterday. The highest reported is 104 degrees at Kansas City and at Columbia, Mo. The high temperatures extended northward over Nebraska and southward over Oklahoma and Arkansas to Southern Texas. From July 1 to July 18 maximum temperatures were 100 degrees or above at Kansas City and Columbia on 13 days; Concordia, Kan., 15 days; Dodge City, Kan., 14, and Wichita, 12. The highest temperature reported during this period is 114 degrees at Concordia, Kan., on the 13th.

GRILL HICKMAN IN PARTY DEATH

SAN FRANCISCO, July 19.—(AP.)—The murder trial of Millard Hickman, accused of the murder of Miss Louise Jeppesen, entered its final stages today with the 45-year-old marine engineer still on the stand under cross examination.

The defendant yesterday withstood a barrage of questions as Prosecutor Peter Mullings attacked his story denying that he strangled the 23-year-old Utah girl to death in Golden Gate park here May 13.

Mullings drew from the defendant an admission of discrepancies between his testimony on direct examination and earlier statements to police.

But Hickman parried:

"How can I deny them? I was questioned for hours, in many different rooms by many different people. Questions were hurled at me. I answered them as best I could, trying to tell the truth as I am now. But since that time I've had plenty of time to reconstruct the entire evening, and now I recall details that escaped me then."

Hickman's attorneys contend the defendant was in his hotel room with another girl at the time Miss Jeppesen was believed to have been murdered.

Ill Child's Air Race With Death Futile

PHILADELPHIA, July 19.—(AP.)—An emergency trip by airplane to carry a 12-year-old girl from Berwick to Philadelphia for treatment of an unusual illness proved futile yesterday as the child died in a hospital.

The girl, Margaret Reese, of Nanticoke, was rushed to a Philadelphia hospital after her condition became critical. She had a disease of the heart.

Kidnaped Child Rescued From Fayette Shack

WAYNESBURG, Pa., July 19.—(AP.)—Search for an abducted 12-year-old girl ended early today at a lonely Fayette County shack, where the girl was found and two men arrested.

The girl, Valerie Sakosky, daughter of Stanley Sakosky, of Mather, is under a physician's care at her parent's home.

Police said Martin Rosinsky and Stanley Gieta, both of Ronco, Fayette County, found in the shack with the girl, will be arraigned today before a Waynesburg justice of the peace on kidnaping charges.

The search for the girl began last night after companions told her father two men enticed her into an automobile near her home shortly after 6 p. m.

Led by County Detective Fay Headley, of Greene County, Waynesburg police started in search of the machine. Alarms were broadcast over the state police teletype system.

Descriptions of the alleged kidnapers and their machine were furnished by companions with whom the girl had been playing.

Detective Headley said the machine was traced to Ronco, where it was found at the side of the shack in which the girl was imprisoned. The officers forced open a door and found the girl cowering in a corner, the men standing nearby.

After returning the girl to her home, the officers lodged Rosinsky and Gieta in the Greene County Jail, pending questioning and filing of formal charges.

Police said Rosinsky moved to Ronco from Sharon, Pa., recently.

CONNOR KIDNAP INQUIRY ENDED

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., July 19.—(AP.)—After thrashing up several puzzling angles, police today dropped the case of 21-months-old Robert Connor, the child who mysteriously disappeared for five days.

Robert continued to improve and was given his first solid food in a week.

At the White Plains Hospital, where he was transferred from Grasslands Hospital yesterday, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Connor, visited him for the first time since his rescue from the woods near his home in Hartsdale.

Hospital officials said he might be sent home after several days of rest.

Capt. Philip J. McQuillan of the Greenburgh police said today he was convinced Bobby had not been kidnaped, but added that should new evidence warrant it, he would take up the case again.

Federal investigators returned to New York.

District Attorney Frank H. Coyne re-asserted that he did not consider the case closed, adding:

"I cannot accept the theory that the child wandered away. On the other hand, I have nothing to disprove it."

W. Va. School Inmate Confesses Killing

GRAFTON, W. Va., July 19.—(AP.)—Authorities announced today that an inmate of the State Industrial School for Boys at Pruntytown has confessed he and a companion killed James Powell, 16, a trusty, and threw his body into the Tygart Valley River.

Search was started immediately for the body. The police quoted the inmate as saying the two slugged Powell with a rock.

MAD DOGS RUN WILD, RAID FARMS

Livestock and Children Bitten; District Armed Camp

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., July 18.—(AP.)—Southern Cambria County farms, transformed into veritable armed camps, bear more testimony today to the savagery of a trio of rabies-ridden wild dogs raiding throughout the countryside.

Three persons, together with a score of cattle, sheep and other farm livestock, have fallen victims to the infected fangs of the dogs.

Fearful of their children and remaining livestock, the farmers are keeping shotguns and other weapons close at hand, awaiting new forays by the maddened trio. Some have set up all night watches.

POSSES ON TRAIL

Posses of farmers, accompanied by representatives of the State Health Department, have combed the woods in ineffectual searches for the dogs. Members of the posses braved summer heat in heavily padded garments to protect themselves in case of sudden attacks.

The raids are concentrated in a 71-mile area in the vicinity of Stoney Creek Township. Residents sent new appeals yesterday to the State Health Department for aid.

Within the area, heavily wooded tracts form daytime hiding places for the dogs, from which they descend for night-time prowls.

Dr. Ira Mitterling, of Hollidaysburg, state veterinarian, aided by Somerset health authorities, is checking all farms in the region for additional rabies-infected livestock victims of the canine scourge. As found, the victims are to be destroyed.

CHILDREN BITTEN

Throughout the region, emergency supplies of anti-rabies serum, rushed from Pittsburgh, have been stocked by village authorities and individual farmers in outlying sections.

Two of the human victims of the dog trio were children of Austin Bingler, a Stoney Creek Township farmer. They were injured as the dogs attacked Bingler's automobile from the roadside. Bingler beat the dogs off without injury to himself.

The third victim was a farmer of the same region, wounded as he attempted to save several cows from an attack.

Investigators reported inability to determine the original owners of the dogs or their source. The dogs made their first appearance a week ago with the attack on the Bingler children. Witnesses described them as moderately large and apparently of mongrel breeds.

LINK G.O.P. CHIEF IN INSULL DEAL

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—The Texas Republican national committeeman, R. B. Creager, was one of those who received fees from the Insull Central Power and Light Company in Texas in an effort to acquire the municipal power plant at Brownsville, according to testimony before the Federal Trade Commission today.

Creager's law firm received more than $13,000 from the Insull utility, Carl H. Depue, trade commission examiner, testified. Depue added that the Central Power and Light Company spent more than $25,000 in an unsuccessful effort to acquire the Brownsville plant.

The testimony was brought out in a report showing that the Central Power organization spent almost $2,000,000 acquiring five Texas municipal plants and unsuccessfully trying to buy three others. Depue explained that in one instance the Insull firm spent a million dollars more than the value of certain property in an effort to bar opposition firms from the field involved.

GENERAL STRIKE COLLAPSE AT HAND

fice. A few had gasoline available.

Vandeleur said teamsters still were on strike with sanction for working given only those who operated gasoline trucks, along with ice, milk and bakery wagons.

Butchers and culinary workers returned to their jobs.

George R. Reilly, manager of the Laundry Association, took the stand that all laundries must open at the same time and the strike committee was expected to act on the situation.

Union labor was interested in the Market Street Railway's proposal to resume service, Vandeleur said.

"The carmen have a real complaint against working conditions. The Market Street Railway Company has never signed the transit code."

Taxicab drivers, members of the chauffeurs' union, were to meet late today to consider returning to work. Officials of large taxi companies reported a "favorable vote was anticipated."

SHIPS TO LOAD

Meanwhile shipping companies went ahead with plans for dispatching vessels from this port, which felt the first effects of the strike when the longshoremen walked out May 9.

Wireless message flashed across the seas, ordering captains of vessels again to return here.

Although no definite program was outlined, it was expected the members of President Roosevelt's labor disputes board would hold further conferences with representatives of the strikers and employes.

The presence of Gen. Hugh Johnson, NRA administrator and spokesman for the board, was expected to lend strength to the board's position in carrying on settlement negotiations.

The board was to follow up its appeal for both sides to submit immediately to arbitration, first calling off the general strike and permitting all men to return to their jobs.

VOTE ORDERED

The strike "strategy" committee of Alameda County, in which 500,000 of the area's 1,300,000 residents reside, announced a vote would be taken at Oakland tonight on a proposal to end the walkout.

Resumption of East Bay (Alameda County) transportation service controlled by the Key Route system, including its ferryboats on the bay, employing a total of 900 men, was announced for tomorrow by the carmen's strike committee after a meeting with officials of the company.

Bullets whined around an automobile in which United States Senator Robert F. Wagner, of New York, sent West to investigate the maritime dispute, and his party were riding on the Portland (Ore.) waterfront. One of the bullets struck a machine carrying E. P. Marsh, conciliator for the United States Department of Labor.

Mayor Angelo J. Rossi announced a pledge to run every "Communistic agitator" out of San Francisco.

The pledge, announced through an emergency citizens committee, said:

"I pledge to you that I, as chief executive in San Francisco, to the full extent of my authority, will run out of San Francisco every Communistic agitator, and this is going to be a continuing policy in San Francisco."

The proposal to end the strike in the East Bay cities of Oakland, Alameda and Berkeley was announced by William H. Spooner, secretary of the Central Labor Council. The question to be voted on, He said, will be for return of all union members to work tomorrow.

42,000 TO VOTE

Spooners' statement said the call for a vote by the 42,000 union workers in the East Bay was made because of developments in San Francisco where the general strike committee has permitted some organizations of labor to resume employment.

The entire union labor force in the bay area numbers nearly 100,000. Approximately 80,000, it was estimated, joined actively in the mass walkout which started here Monday and spread to the East Bay Tuesday. Estimates now are that approximately 20,000 already have returned to work under strike condition permits.

An order from the general strike committee approving the reopening of all union restaurants automatically returned to work from 4,000 to 5,000 culinary workers last night. Some 1,200 retail butchers previously had picked up knives and cleavers again. Hundreds of teamsters were operating trucks under union "permit."

LEADER REBUFFED

An attempt by Harry Bridges, militant longshoremen's representative, to have the San Francisco general strike committee rescind its resolution urging unconditional arbitration on the maritime walkout failed when the committee repeatedly voted his motion down after it had been refused consideration by Edward Vandeleur, chairman. Bridges insisted the committee should back the longshoremen in their demand for control of hiring halls.

Raids by asserted "Vigilante" groups on alleged radical headquarters continued last night as men armed with clubs smashed and battered their way into the International Workers of the World meeting place and a club, police said was a Communist "hangout."

Some 300 alleged Communists rounded up in police raids pleaded not guilty to vagrancy charges and were held for jury trial, at their demand, under $1,000 bail each. District Attorney Matthew Brady, who appeared as prosecutor, declared he did not intend to become "hysterical" over asserted Communistic activities and that "freedom of speech" should be respected as long as it did not advocate violence and overthrow of the government by force.

English View of the Strike in California

The London Morning Post on Tuesday, July 17, printed the following editorial, giving its interpretation of the English view of the California general strike situation.

THE queen of the Pacific lives dangerously: seven times she has been swept by disastrous fires and once by a terrible earthquake; but, if report is to be trusted, she has never been in a more serious case than at the moment, when she is threatened, not by any act of God, but a form of suicide.

For two months her dockers have been on strike, apparently over such grievances as have at one time or another disturbed the peace of Liverpool and London. These longshoremen complain that the casual methods of employment, which rule in their trade, lead to hardship and favoritism, and have been demanding changes which the employers are unwilling to concede.

To force a settlement the "steering committee" organized and proclaimed a general strike. The mere rumor and report of this measure is said to have driven many of the inhabitants in a panic out of the city and led others to hoard food in the expectation of a famine.

YESTERDAY morning the general stoppage began. The trams did not run; five thousand petrol stations were closed for lack of supplies; the great thoroughfare of Market street was empty, save for a few crawling motors; the water front was dead and the only life was at fishermen's wharf, where hungry people made a brisk market in boiled crabs.

The machinery of law and order is functioning after the American fashion. Governor Merriam is working to keep the railways open; State Troops, National Guards and special constables have been mobilized, no doubt with tear gas, tanks and machine guns; Mayor Rossi is using emphatic language against the radicals who aim, he says, at nothing less than revolution; and he swears to keep all essential services working.

The strikers have graciously permitted hospitals to be supplied with bread, meat and fuel, although with a certain lack of logic they condemn equally innocent people, who are unfortunately in good health, to starvation. Such pretenses to humanity are hypocritical; the strikers in effect propose to reduce San Francisco to terms by starvation or what they call a food blockade, as cruel and criminal a device as can be imagined.

THEY intend, however, to make arrangements to feed their own people, having heard that the general strike in England failed because the strikers were in the way of starving themselves with the rest of the population. We do not know how this lie got abroad; the truth about the general strike in this country is that the conspiracy was defeated by the British nation, which rose up and did its own work. Such a conspiracy can always be defeated by the courage of the citizen.

We hope in the interest of humanity that what happened in England will happen in San Francisco and that the Pacific slope will refuse to be starved and blackmailed into surrender.

In the meantime, General Hugh Johnson is said to be going to San Francisco, which seems (at this distance) rather a pity. We do not know if he is in any way responsible for this particular strike; but if anyone has ever asked for superfluous trouble it is the chief of the National Recovery Administration.

EITHER the act, or General Johnson's interpretation thereof, gave the trade union leaders of America the chance of seizing power. They snatched at the opportunity; and the result has been a fierce epidemic of strikes over the length and breadth of the United States.

General Johnson professes to be amazed at the result. He wonders how any set of people cannot settle such quarrels round a table. It seems that he has yet to learn the full possibilities of trade unionism; and it is probable that he will find much more to wonder at before long.

It may prove more difficult than he imagines to set the genie of trade unionism back into the bottle.

WAGNER PARTY FIRED ON IN STRIKE ZONE

PORTLAND, Ore., July 19.—(AP.)—A complete investigation of the waterfront shooting incident which imperiled Senator Robert F. Wagner and several others was promised here today by Mayor Joseph Carson while the New York senator said the affair must have been a mistake.

Special waterfront guards fired at an automobile load of officials late yesterday when they said the machine failed to observe a command to halt. Senator Wagner was in a car just ahead of the one fired at and in which one bullet lodged.

E. P. Marsh, conciliator for the United States Department of Labor, was in the car struck.

After being questioned, the guards were ordered by Chief of Police B. K. Lawson to return to duty. Later, however, they returned and spent the night at police emergency hospital.

CITES ARMY RULE

Myrle Wilson, 27, former Army regular, declared "half" orders were interpreted literally in the Army. The other guards questioned were Randall Schudite, 22; S. M. Frank, 22, and A. R. Thomas, 34.

In the car struck by the bullet was Marsh, Fred Ross, attorney for the Longshoremen's Union, who was driving; Roscoe Craycraft, member of the Longshoremen advisory board, and D. E. Nickerson, chairman of the Portland strike strategy committee.

B. A. Green, union attorney, drove the car in which Wagner rode. With them were Max Stearn, a newspaperman, accompanying the Senator; Matt Meehan, a longshoreman, and C. L. Vines, of the Seamen Union.

AUTO FIRED ON

The party viewed the municipal terminal and was leaving when the shooting occurred. Under heavily armed policemen and special guards paid by waterfront workers, ships have been loaded and unloaded at the terminal despite the longshoremen strike.

Green charged the guards with firing many times at the other car and said he heard no command to halt.

The party was moving out of a waterfront terminal when the incident occurred and the guards charged the second machine did not stop to be checked out of the area, as is necessary under the special strike guard.

The wages of the special guards are paid by waterfront employers. These guards, as well as regular police, have been protecting non-union workers loading ships at the terminal.

Senator Wagner arrived here Tuesday night to observe the strike situation for the national administration.

PICKETS ACTIVE IN MINNESOTA

MINNEAPOLIS, July 19.—(AP.)—Picketing received new impetus today as the truck drivers' second strike within a few weeks entered its third day and union leaders received reports that an early movement of trucks by employers was contemplated.

There were few reports of violence, and no serious disorders, but roving cars of pickets grew more numerous.

At strike headquarters it was indicated that leaders were apprehensive of a movement of trucks on the part of employers and strike pickets watched the city market area, scene of the major trouble where two men were killed in the previous truck strike last May.

No attempts had been made for concerted truck movements.

The Rev. Father Francis J. Haas, federal mediator, after concluding conferences with the union leaders and the employers, took steps to confer with the local regional board and with Gov. Floyd B. Olson.

ALIENS FACING DEPORTATION IN STRIKE

WASHINGTON, July 19.—(AP.)—Rising hope spurred the federal government today in its efforts to settle the quarrels that have torn California with strikes.

Heartened by President Roosevelt's plea for a "reasonable solution" according to the dictates of "common sense" officials were working hard, but walking warily and not saying much.

Responding to a request from Acting Gov. Merriam that aliens engaging in strike disorders be deported, Secretary of Labor Perkins replied that federal officials at San Francisco were instructed to "act with promptness" wherever the immigration law was violated. She outlined the provisions of the law.

FINANCIAL PHASES

Earlier she had been asked whether the government, in its attempt to bring arbitration, might have talked over the advisability of reminding ship owners about the assistance the United States gives in the form of mail subsidies. Making clear the Labor Department has nothing to do with subsidies, she acknowledged that "financial phases have been discussed in my presence."

The status of Hugh S. Johnson as official representative of the National Longshoremen's Board, the presidential peace agency, was explained by officials. It was said that his designation did not mean that he was in charge but that his status was similar to that of Senator Robert F. Wagner, who is representing the board in peace efforts in Portland, Ore.

DEPORTATION PLANS

Miss Perkins told Mr. Merriam immigration authorities would cooperate with California "to the full extent authorized by law" and at the same time pointed out the legal provisions.

Deportation of aliens, she said, was possible on these three grounds: Unlawful entry into the country; advocation of anarchy or the teaching of Communism; a prison record of one year or more for crimes involving moral turpitude or more than one sentence on the charge after entry.

President Roosevelt's first public comment on the strike was given through Miss Perkins. She received the message from the Chief Executive, who is aboard the cruiser Houston, Hawaii-bound.

SEATTLE FEARS NEW RIOTING

SEATTLE, July 19.—(AP.)—Tense police guards maintained close watch today on a group of 500 striking longshoremen encamped throughout the night at Smith's Cove, scene of yesterday's rioting.

The area, where ships have been loaded with non-unioh labor, quieted down early last night, but later strikers took up a position at Piers 40 and 41 following a demonstration downtown.

The demonstration followed two police raids on Communist headquarters in one of which James Archer, district organizer of the Marine Workers' Industrial Union, and editor of their publication, was arrested.

Taken into custody with him was Walter J. Stack, of Baltimore, reported to be a member of the national advisory board of the union, and a girl giving the name of Catherine Carter, but believed by police to be a University of Washington student. They were all held on open charges.

Franklin Editor Wills Cash to Chance Friends

FRANKLIN, Pa., July 18.—(AP.)—Four young persons who struck up friendship with an older man at a baseball game four years go are remembered in the latter's will, each receiving $3,000.

The beneficiaries, Margaret Elizabeth Fry, 11, of Geneva, O., and her uncles, Robert Walker, 18, and Frank M. Walker, 13, and an aunt, Anna Laura Walker, 13, were named by Orrin R. Graham, veteran newspaper editor of Franklin. The Walkers live in Franklin.

Graham died July 9 in an automobile accident, en route with several companions to another baseball game.

Injunction Set In Box Firm's Suit

An injunction restraining acts of violence and interference with the business of the Keystone Box Company, Twenty-eighth and Smallman streets, four of whose truck drivers went on strike several weeks ago, was agreed to by counsel after a hearing before Judge Samuel H. Gardner, in Common Pleas Court.

The company had filed an action against Local 249, International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs and Helpers, Mark H. Nolan, president of the company, told the court crowds of men had thrown missiles at the trucks.

STRIKE PERILS WATER SUPPLY

KOHLER, Wis., July 19.—(AP.)—A threatened water shortage spurred efforts today toward mediation of the strike at the Kohler plumbing equipment manufacturing plant.

Walter J. Kohler, president of the company and former Governor of Wisconsin, said the strike was blocking coal shipments to the plant and that if fuel ran out the company would be unable to operate pumps for the water system of this "model" industrial village.

Union workers started picketing Monday. They demand recognition of their union as the collective bargaining agent for employes, increased wages and shorter hours. Kohler said few of the pickets were employes of the company.

FORBECK TO RUN AGAINST TIGHE

Technicalities against the candidacy of Earl J. Forbeck, McKeesporter and leader of the rank and file ticket seeking control of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, had been cleared away today.

Failure of the quarterly report from Forbeck's lodge to reach Amalgamated headquarters in West End had been standing against his name. The report now has been submitted, Louis Leonard, secretary-treasurer, stated.

Forbeck is seeking to displace M. F. Tighe, president for 15 years.

AT LAST!

A motor oil we can recommend—

CHIEF-PENN

100% PURE PENNSYLVANIA

For months we sought a good motor oil, one that we could conscientiously recommend to our customers—and here it is—CHIEF-PENN—a motor oil that lasts longer—and makes your car last longer—than any other motor oil. A broad statement, but true. CHIEF-PENN will lubricate your car satisfactorily—summer or winter—over the longest period of time, or for the greatest number of miles—under all conditions.

CHIEF-PENN is not a cheap motor oil —but it Will Cut Your Oil Bill in HALF gives more lubrication

Motorists from all walks of life have cut their oil bills in half by using CHIEF-PENN grade exclusively. Its unusually tough body and amazing heat resistance assure at least a thousand miles more of perfect motor lubrication. Add to this the freedom from motor-lubrication worries and expense and you can readily visualize the satisfaction and saving CHIEF-PENN users enjoy.

made right—priced right

Most motor oils must undergo 36 gruelling hours of terrific heat in their refining, but not CHIEF-PENN. This richest of oils requires but a scant 15 seconds, because it is refined by an exclusive, patented, distilled-in-vacuum process. By this 15-second process all the life, the "oiliness," is saved for motors. CHIEF-PENN is everything the name implies: Richest of All Motor Oils. CHIEF-PENN gives 100 cents and more in honest-to-goodness motor lubrication for every dollar expended.

60 years' refining experience

CHIEF-PENN is made from the best, most carefully selected and tested crude oil of 2400 producers in the Butler field. It is refined by the most approved methods and must fulfill the most exacting requirements before it leaves the refinery. And the refiners have had more than 60 years' successful refining experience, exclusively with 100% Pennsylvania crude oil—their products enjoy a world-wide reputation for quality.

makes your car last longer

CHIEF-PENN oil fulfills every motor-lubrication requirement and gives most economical motor performance. And yet it sells at rock-bottom prices. CHIEF-PENN, the Richest of all Motor Oils, will last longer, give finer lubrication, and resist heat better than any other oil made. It is absolutely guaranteed to give full satisfaction. Give your motor the protection that only CHIEF-PENN Motor Oil provides.

WRITER VIEWS SAN FRANCISCO UNDER SIEGE

devils, as crowds of men and women surged into the markets this morning when, for the first time since last Saturday, fresh vegetables were available.

Certainly everyone is thinking. Dinners may be scant, but discussion is plentiful and incisive. Housewives who formerly knew labor and capital only as vague terms now glibly argue "collective bargaining," the right of workers to organize and the imperative need of some government court of arbitration.

Said one irate woman, slicing a withered tomato:

"What is the matter with us, that we dumbly sat by and allowed this little boys' fight between the ship owners and the workers to reach such savage proportions? What right have these two factions to so terribly injure the business of San Francisco? With the finest harbor in the world, we blandly sit by and allow all our shipping to sail into other bays. It's ridiculous!"

LAW'S SHORTCOMINGS

A lawyer of financial weight replied:

"But we can't compel settlement. There is no law at the present time which permits the government to step in and settle differences between employer and employe, unless the parties desire this mediation. There should be! When the shippers and the men couldn't agree and it became evident the entire city must suffer irreparable loss, government should have had power to step in, put the companies into temporary receivership, arbitrate the difference and hand down a decision which both parties would be compelled to accept just as they accept a judgment in the civil or criminal courts.

"Our present procedure in disputes between labor and capital is reminiscent of the jungle, when might was the only right. We might as well allow two men to settle a civil suit by shooting each other and the neighbors if they chanced to get in the war. Force can not and never has justly settled anything."

LABOR'S ONLY WEAPON

The strike is labors only weapon, said a quiet worker of some 50 years—intelligent and reluctantly a party to the walkout.

"We'd still be working 16 hours a day and for starvation wages if we waited until capital volunteered us any change. They'd bottle up the sun and the air if they could, and make us pay for it. In the past, the working classes have gained only what they've fought and bled for. Only yesterday babies of 7 and 8 years were put to work in the textile mills. My grandfather was crippled for life because of these childhood outrages. I don't like this mass strike. It can't win and it can gravely hurt the cause of labor. But I can well understand the temper of the men who brought it about."

RADICAL CRITICIZED

Harry Bridges, spokesman for the extreme radical element among longshoremen, came in for seething criticism. A woman who runs a small shop and hires only union help, said:

"I'm glad labor is putting that interloper in his place. I don't believe the rank and file of workers ever wanted this general strike. A few soap-box orators inflamed their imaginations. Of course the men have a grievance. Ship owners are notorious, and always have been, for their oppressive methods. The stevedores are worked like slaves; they have just cause, but how can they hope to gain redress by making everyone mad?"

A mother said:

"And they'll permit us to buy food for our children, will they? I've worked all my life. I have neither capital nor education. I'm for labor, but no one with an ounce of spunk and one drop of American blood in his veins will stand for this high-handed dictation. They got off on the wrong foot when they try to bully a whole community. That is what they're doing, isn't it? Look at these bundles. I can't understand the storekeepers taking it?"

POLICEMAN'S ATTITUDE

A policeman, smiling and twirling his club, said:

"Of course I'm for the laboring classes. I come from them. But they touched off a bomb whose effect they could neither measure nor control when they called this mass strike. It blows us all to bits along with our enemies."

In the Mission district where Wednesday evening great truck loads of fruits and vegetables were set on the counters and quickly purchased, the feeling was one of incredible intensity. Men and women talked ardently, hopefully. But they wanted the strike settled—wanted to get back to work, feed their families.

A handsome woman behind the bakery counter of an immense market at Twenty-third and Mission, said:

"It is always the worker who pays. Now the ship owners will have to arbitrate. They should be compelled to do this. It's a pity we were forced into this general strike, but nothing is ever won without sacrifice."

A doctor in the San Francisco hospital going through the wards and pointing out the men who have been injured in this bitter strife, said:

"The sacrifice was unnecessary. In the end the differences will be arbitrated. Why not before all these heads were cracked?"

Victim of Theft Doesn't Know It

HARRISBURG, July 19.—(AP)—W. Charles Sanker's brief case was stolen—and returned to him, before he knew a theft had been committed. The brief case contained Masonic jewelry, lodge papers and checks which Sanker said were valued at $4,000.

Sanker, whose home is in New Castle, left the brief case in his automobile during an overnight visit. A policeman found it lying on the street and returned it to the owner. The contents were intact.

ARE YOU still young—excited at what tomorrow may bring—IS LIFE STILL AN ADVENTURE? If so, you'll want to attend the last two days of Gimbels Pre-Inventory Clearance Sale.

As we write this it is 10 A. M. Wednesday—the store is crowded. We thought we had thousands of clearance items. The advertisements for Thursday night's papers are lying before us complete, ready to go. But, frankly, we haven't any idea now whether the items we listed will be on hand for Friday selling (except a few listed in the left-hand column which are now tucked away in the stockroom and marked "don't touch").

We know there are thousands of things for you. Our budget books say that today there are two million eight hundred thousand dollars' worth of goods on hand. The mark-down sheets convince us that all the Spring and Summer things have made up their minds to sell in this Clearance regardless of former price. But what those things are you will have to discover.

If you are the adventurous one you'll be down here tomorrow, perhaps with a list, but more likely with just your bargain-hunting instinct to guide you.

Unlike many stores, we have only two clearances a year. Our policy is to talk constantly about new things; then twice a year to clear the shelves and start over. This is the shelf-clearing time. Every lot that is not complete in size and color, every item for which the season is ended must get out of the store and off the books. In addition there are many items bought at season-end savings from our manufacturers and offered at the same savings.

We don't believe in crying "wolf" nor in making predictions, but the cotton crop is terribly short and prices on many lines of goods are advancing. As we write this, they tell us on the long-distance telephone that wholesale buying is difficult because markets are stiffening. We pass on to you the suggestion that where you can anticipate your requirements you might be exceedingly wise to do it at

MORALS TRIAL CALLS FILM 'EXTRAS'

LOS ANGELES, July 19.—(AP)—Motion picture extras were summoned today in a long parade of defense witnesses in the "Hollywood morals" trial of Dave Allen, former head of the movie colony's Central Casting Bureau, and Gloria Marsh, titian-haired film extra.

The defense had more than 30 witnesses under call in its efforts to show that Allen was "framed" by enemies who wanted another person in his position.

Allen and Miss Marsh are accused of offenses against public morals at an alleged "wild party" in the apartment of June D'Long, movie extra, and the state's star witness.

Two Los Angeles police officers took the unique positions of defense witnesses in a criminal case when Detectives Lieuts. Robert L. Griffen and James C. Kleinfeld testified yesterday concerning a visit they made to Miss DeLong's apartment the night of the alleged party last April 26.

TEACHER FIGHTS 'RED' CHARGE

INDIANA, Pa., July 19.—(AP)—James J. Stewart, history teacher at the Plumville High School, has appealed to Dr. James N. Rule, state superintendent of schools, for a public hearing on reasons for his refusal of a permanent teacher's certificate from James P. Chapman, superintendent of Indiana County schools.

Stewart, 29-year-old graduate of Allegheny College, claimed Chapman charged him with being a Bolshevik in the midst of a class session several years ago, and has since been antagonistic.

Stewart said the Bolshevik charge came after he told his class that "we just went in and took it," referring to the government's acquisition of property for the Panama Canal. Haled before the school board, the young history teacher said he was able to prove his teachings through similar statements of President Theodore Roosevelt.

CLAIM BANKER'S LIFE INSURANCE

EBENSBURG, Pa., July 19.—(AP.)—The Cambria County Court has enjoined three insurance companies from paying out $70,000 on policies on the life of Jacob M. Murdock, indicted bank official who committed suicide recently.

Receiver John Vallely, of the First National Bank of Johnstown, obtained the writ yesterday for the expressed purpose of conserving as many assets as possible for creditors of the closed institution.

John B. Bates, former business associate of Murdock's and until recently the head of a Johnstown automobile agency, was named in the policies as beneficiary. A prior judgment involving the insurance policy proceeds had been entered against Bates.

Murdock was under indictment for trial in Federal Court at Pittsburgh on charges arising from conduct of the bank's affairs at the time he shot himself.

DR. GARBISCH RITES HELD

WASHINGTON, Pa., July 19.—Funeral services were held today for Dr. Henry C. Garbisch, pioneer chiropractor in Pennsylvania, who died Tuesday in his home after an illness of three years. He was 58 and retired from active practice seven years ago.

He was a charter member of the Rotary Club of Washington; the First Evangelical Lutheran Church, and for many years was a member of the Board of Examiners, Bureau of Medical Education and Licensure of Pennsylvania.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. H. C. Garbisch; two daughters, Miss Amelia Garbisch, of New York, and Miss Ruth Garbisch, of Los Angeles; three sons, Erwin H. Garbisch, of Philadelphia; Norbert H. Garbisch, of Butler, and Edgar W. Garbisch, of New York.

Roosevelt Foe Nominated in Utah

SALT LAKE CITY, July 19.—(AP.)—Don B. Colton, who represented the First Utah District in Congress for 12 years, was back in the political limelight today, seeking election to the United States Senate on a platform which brands the Roosevelt administration as a "reign of fear."

Colton, who was defeated for re-election to Congress in the Roosevelt landslide of 1932, was nominated by acclamation for senator at the Republican state convention here yesterday.

Turks and British To Probe Slaying

ANGORA, July 19.—(AP.)—The Turkish government today accepted "in principle" the British suggestion that the fatal shooting of a British naval surgeon, Lieut. J. W. Robinson, Saturday by Turkish soldiers, be investigated by a joint Anglo-Turkish commission.

WIFE TO TOOT AS MAN DRIVES

FRANKFORT, Ky., July 19.—(AP.)—A woman with a problem in domestic relations to solve drove into a Frankfort garage the complained:

"My husband never sounds the horn in passing cars or making turns. I have warned him many times he will get us in a bad accident, but he pays no attention to me."

Frank English, the proprietor, agreed that something should be done about it. He said:

"Well, I believe we can fix that."

1 Dead, Second Hurt In Motorcycle Crash

UNIONTON, Pa., July 19.—Robert Shively, 23, of Morgantown, W. Va., was killed and Robert Miller, of Fairmont, W. Va., probably fatally injured when their motorcycle collided with a truck driven by George Asel, of Uniontown, on the Uniontown-Point Marion highway near Point Marion, early today.

Neighbor Sounding Fire Alarm Injured

Discovering his neighbor's garage ablaze, Frank Redwine, 33, Negro, of 12 Vania way, was cut by flying glass early today when he broke a window in the home of C. C. Williams, Negro, of 10 Vania way, in his attempts to awaken the Williams family. The fire originated in the Williams garage and spread to the house. The damage was estimated at $200 by firemen.

TWO TRAGEDIES LINK ALFONSO

VIENNA, July 19.—(AP.)—The newspaper Telegraph today linked former King Alfonso of Spain with another automobile tragedy.

The newspaper printed a dispatch from Klagenfurt saying that a deaf man was struck and killed by Alfonso's automobile at Krumpendorf on Wurther Lake yesterday. The former king's chauffeur was the only occupant of the car at the time of the accident, said the newspaper.

Kidnap Note Bared As Childish Prank

NICHOLS, Conn., July 19.—(INS.)—Ruth Emily Hadlock, 13, was safe at home here today amazed that her childish prank of dropping a note from her father's automobile near Delphos, O., Tuesday, stating she was kidnaped, could cause such widespread alarm.

The child, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Perry F. Hadlock, has been amusing her sister and a friend in the rear seat of her parents' automobile on the long ride from the World's Fair, Chicago, to her home here by exchanging notes.

BLAST PERILS 25 IN MINE

KITTANNING, Pa., July 19.—(AP.)—Twenty-five workers narrowly escaped death as a 250-pound gas tank exploded in a mine of the New Castle Lime and Stone Company.

Flames which followed threatened a 2,300-volt electric power line, operating ventilating apparatus for the mine.

The 25 men were at work nearly a mile from the scene of the blast. Police and firemen who extinguished the flames said they would have been smothered if the flames had decommissioned the power line.

JAPAN SOURCE OF SMUGGLED DOPE IN U. S.

By KINGSBURY SMITH
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Confidential information received in official quarters disclosed today that Japan is one of the chief sources of supply for drugs being smuggled into the Pacific coast.

Furthermore, the government has received evidence these drugs are being sold for distribution to American drug addicts by Japanese traffickers in California and other points along the West coast.

Federal narcotic agents recently seized an illicit drug cache in one of the coastal towns, which revealed that Japanese were actively engaged in the smuggling and peddling of morphine, cocaine and heroin. Several arrests were made, but the details are being suppressed to give the agents an opportunity to round up the rest of the gang.

FAR IN LEAD

Meanwhile, information has been made available to this government by the international narcotic supervisory body at Geneva that Japan has estimated its legitimate requirements for heroin this year at seven times more than that required by any other nation.

This government has reason to believe that a considerable quantity of these drugs, which Japan claims it needs for medical and scientific purposes, is finding its way into the illicit traffic.

Seizure of heroin on the Pacific Coast have bared Japanese wrappings and other identification marks.

Japan, according to the information supplied by the narcotic supervisory body, has estimated its legitimate requirements of heroin for this year at approximately 813 kilogrammes for Japan proper, Korea and Kwantung.

RUSSIA SECOND

This is seven times more than the requirements of Soviet Russia, which filed the next largest estimate. Russia, with a population of 147,000,000, as compared with Japan's 86,000,000, including Korea and Kwantung, estimated its current medical needs at only 100 kilogrammes.

The Japanese requirements are five times the combined requirements of such thickly populated nations as Great Britain, France and Germany. The combined estimates of these three nations totaled only 144 kilogrammes, with France the largest consumer, estimating a need for 82 kilogrammes.

This country supplied no estimate, the use of heroin for legitimate medicinal purposes having been virtually abandoned here.

WATER 'WITCH' FINDS WELLS IN DROUGHT

KANSAS CITY, July 19.—(AP.)—They may call him a "witch" but he'n about the most sought after man in this section of the country.

His name is Conrad Crome. He's a retired farmer of near Marysville in Northeastern Kansas.

With sections of Kansas and Missouri suffering from a water famine that grows in seriousness with each sun-baked day, farmers and townspeople whose water supply has been exhausted compete for his services in "witching" water for them.

He goes from farm to farm and town to town and with a "magical" forked peach tree limb marks the spot where, he says, drillers may find subterranean water veins for wells.

Whenever he walks over an underground stream, the forked limb pulls downward, indicating, he explains, that water flows directly below. Some folks look on with awe as he practices his olden art, but the water witch claims no supernatural power. He has a theory that a super-abundant amount of personal electricity has something to do with it. He says, proudly:

"I have seldom failed in my 30 years as a water witch to locate water when the driller has followed my instructions."

Meanwhile, in many other sections of the drought-stricken area, water for human and livestock use is being hauled for miles.

But down in the South Missouri Ozarks the native hillmen predicted plentiful rains soon would begin to fall. When "horns" of the new moon point downward, they say, the water will pour out. They are pointing downward now. Too, the rain crows are "croaking" in approved manner to bring rain.

Roosevelt in Close Touch With U. S. By Radio

WASHINGTON, July 19.—With serious events taking place in various parts of the country and the President far out in the Pacific Ocean, the public is naturally curious to know how he keeps in contact with the situation and how quickly he learns of what happens. It is obvious to every one that, through the Navy wireless, President Roosevelt is in communication with the executive offices in the White House at Washington, but the closeness of this touch may not be realized.

During his cruise in the Atlantic and Caribbean, the White House forwarded important papers and messages to the President by air mail over the Pan-American system as well as by wireless. He received a big batch of mail while in Porto Rico and he was caught again with air mail in the Canal Zone. Mail from the President came back in the same way. One pouch was sent off by air mail when he entered the canal and another when he left it on the Pacific side. These arrived in Washington the first of the week, a day apart.

Now that he is on the Pacific, mail is forwarded to him by way of San Francisco. It goes in duplicate, one set being sent by train and the other by air mail, so that, if, by any accident, one set was destroyed, the other would remain. From San Francisco, such mail as has collected there is forwarded to Hawaii by fast steamer. After this delivery, the next mail to be received by the President will be when he arrives at Portland, where he is due on August 3.

Messages forwarded by wireless are sent either "in the clear," as those in plain English are called, or in code. Quicker results are, of course, obtained with the plain messages, but only because of the time necessary for decoding. All wireless messages are comparatively short. But some of them run as long as two ordinary typewritten sheets. To illustrate the speed of communication, a dispatch has been sent to the President since he has been in the Pacific and a reply received within 40 minutes. Answers to code messages have been received in about twice that time.

The greatest portion of these transfers of information during the past few days has been concerned with the strike situation in San Francisco and on the Pacific Coast. Every development in it has been related to the President over the Navy wireless, so that he is as fully cognizant of what is going on as if he were receiving the news at his office in the White House.

In these circumstances, however, one wonders just how much of a holiday rest the President is having.

OTHER DAYS, OTHER CUSTOMS

According to some of the insiders, a curious situation has developed within the Republican party. As outlined by the new national chairman, Henry P. Fletcher, it is planned to try to bring young men into the organization and, in order to do so, to "go liberal" to a certain extent. But, looking forward to the presidential campaign of 1936 and speculating on candidates who would represent this policy and appeal to the Middle and Far West, which it is conceded must be propitiated, the leaders are rather stumped for a choice. Ultra conservatives in the party, who try not to fool themselves, have pretty generally come to the conclusion that unless things change decidedly, it would be hopeless to nominate an eastern stand-patter in 1936, and so they are turning their eyes westward.

Strange as it may seem, the most likely and most prominent personality that has come to their minds is Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho. Strange, not because of any lack of qualifications for the place, nor even of age, but because Borah never has been in the good graces of the ultra-conservatives. While his party regularity is untarnished—he did not go off with the Bull Moosers and has not kicked over the traces with any other movement—he has never been amenable to discipline and has played a lone hand. In the past, whenever the possibility of his being nominated for President has been mentioned to Borah, he has always parried the approach by saying, "Oh, they (meaning the crowd in control) would never have me."

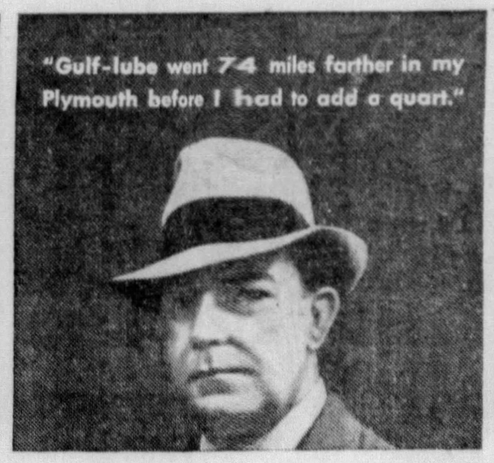
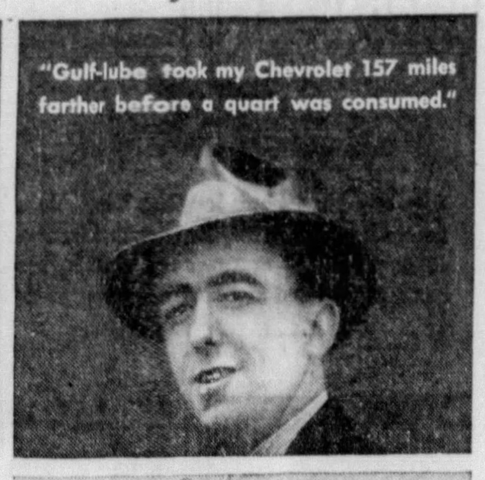
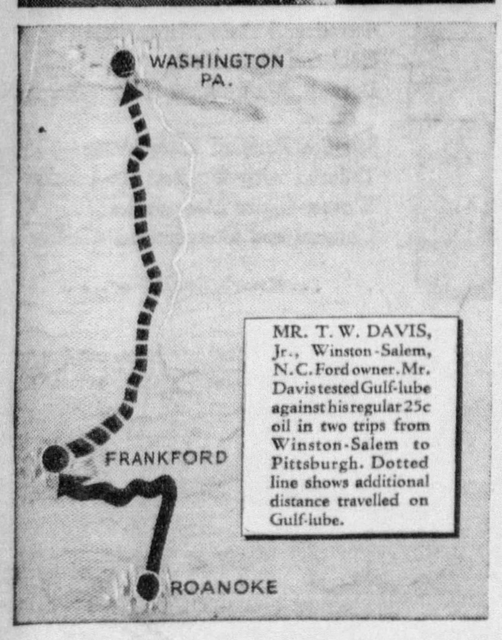
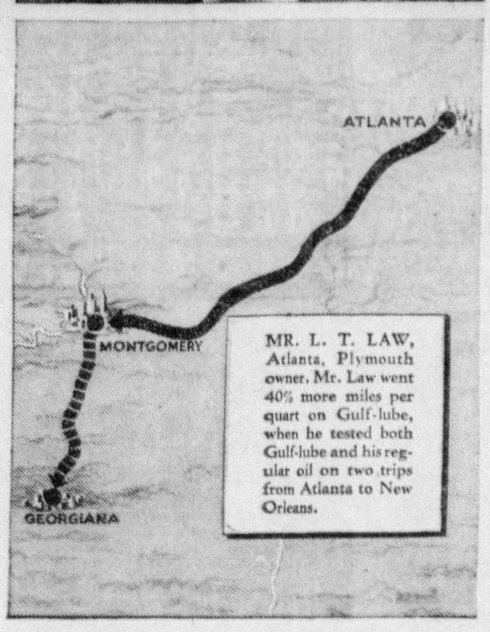
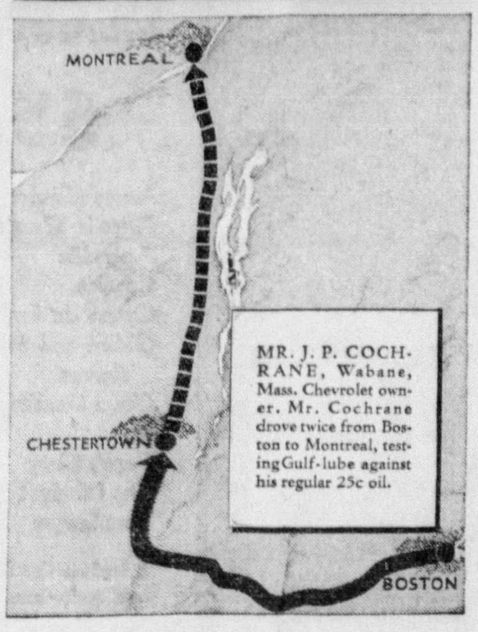
Is there any one 25c* motor oil that will save money for owners of popular-priced cars? Read the results of tests made independently by a North Carolina Ford owner, a Georgia Plymouth owner, and a Massachusetts Chevrolet owner...











IF you want to spend less money for better lubrication—listen to what these motorists have to say about 25c* motor oils!

For each of the car owners shown above speaks with authority! Each of them tested Gulf-lube against their regular 25c* oils—all leading brands—under identical driving conditions! Here's how it was done . . .

Using their regular oil, each of these men set out for some distant point, and checked the distance they travelled before their oil level dropped a quart.

Then, they repeated the trip using Gulf-lube. And Gulf-lube took them anywhere from 74 to 226 miles farther before they had to replace a quart! That's money worth saving!

Try it! Switch to Gulf-lube, the "high-mileage" motor oil. You'll buy far less oil between crankcase drainings. And you'll get better, surer, sweeter lubrication—for the oil that lasts longer is a better oil. Gulf-lube is 25c* a quart at all Gulf stations.

FRENCH WOMAN MOTHER OF 13 AT ONE TIME

By WILLIAM J. GOOD
International News Service.

CHICAGO, July 19.—While the world marvels over the birth of quintuplets to Mrs. Oliva Dionne, of Callender, Ont., and of quadruplets to Mrs. L. R. Wyckoff, of Blue City, Ia., Dr. Charles E. Fisher, widely known medical research authority of Chicago, takes a dive into musty records and comes out with the statement such multiple births are by no means new in the history of the world.

Think for a moment of the Marquis de Trazegnies, of France, the record of whose birth is a matter of medical history. He was one of 13 children, born at one time. The entire group grew to adult age, so the records tell us.

The records further relate the father was away from home at the time of the unusual multiple birth and returned barely in time to save his own offspring from an ignoble fate. The townspeople suspected the brood originated from multiple fathers and accordingly condemned them all to be drowned. The father returned in the nick of time, however, and acknowledged them as his children, thus saving their lives.

NINE AT ONE TIME

Record of another celebrated case was preserved for posterity by Dr. Franciscus Picus Mirandulae, an Italian physician. An Italian woman, whose name is given in the record as Dorothea, was progressive in her motherhood.

Dorothea presented her husband with nine children during her first confinement and 11 in her next. Thus she became the mother of 20 children on the two occasions. The record is silent on whether or not the children lived.

Another mother who "progressed" in the number of children born at one time was Lady Maldemeure, who lived in the Parish of Seaux. We have the word of Ambroise that Lady Maldemeure bore her husband two children at once one year after their marriage. A year later she gave birth to three at one time, and the following year she again gave birth to triplets.

SEXTUPLETS RECORDED

Then making up the lost ratio of increase, she presented her husband with quintuplets in her fourth year of married life. The following year she gave birth to sextuplets, during which episode she died.

There is also the well-authenticated birth of seven children at one time to Mrs. Anna Breyer-Romers in the little town of Hamelin, in Germany—of "Pied Piper" fame. The story of this multiple birth is written in the town's official records and is further commemorated by a tablet that was set in the wall of the house where the children were born. The house was rebuilt in 1818, and the tablet may be seen there today.

In Madrid, Spain, the wife of one Benito Quesada gave birth during the day of November 22, 1885, to three babies, and that night four more were born to the same woman, so reliable records tell us.

BIRTHS IN U. S.

There are several records of quadruplets in the United States, and there are records of at least two sets of sextuplets born in the United States within the last hundred years.

On June 27, 1847, a mother in Maine gave birth to six at one time. While the records do not give the name of the mother, we are informed two of the six children lived. A later and more complete record is that of Mrs. George Hirsch, of Navarro County, Texas, who, on November 17, 1888, gave birth in Dallas to four boys and two girls at one time. The children were normal, although rather small, and all lived, the record shows.

Births of twins follow the "rule of 87," so records tell us—or, in other words, an average of one set of twins to every 87 single births.

Hornet Stings Fatal To Camping Pastor

ST. ALBANS, Vt., July 19.—(AP.)—The Rev. Gordon Wells, of Pawtucket, R. I., died at a hospital last night from pneumonia that developed after he had been attacked by a swarm of hornets.

The clergyman was opening a summer camp near here a few days ago when he disturbed a nest of hornets that stung him severely before he escaped.

Falls From Freight Car, Boy, 10, Hurt

Anthony Chiurilla, 10, of 2403 Westmar street, was injured seriously last night when he fell under the wheels of a freight car on which he was riding in the Manchester yards of the Pennsylvania Railroad, according to a police report. He was taken to St. John's Hospital.

Pope Smiles in Delight As Middies Cheer Him

Universal Service.

VATICAN CITY, July 19.—Four hundred lusty Annapolis middies rose to their toes in the golden throne room of the Vatican Palace yesterday and gave Pope Pius XI the same Navy cheer that Tuesday amazed Premier Mussolini.

At first slightly taken aback, the Pope smiled his delight and interest as the lusty "Nay-vee!" went echoing down the hushed corridors of the palace.

A Vatican official assured newspapermen that the Pontiff was not startled by the yell. He explained:

"The Holy Father has received pilgrims from Africa who have made stranger noises than that."

The Pope received the midshipmen after he had granted a private audience to Admiral Hayne Ellis, who is commanding the cruise of the battleships Arkansas and Wyoming, on which the Annapolis men are getting sea experience.

Cardinal Hayes Praises Hearst Stand on Movies

By a Staff Correspondent

Cardinal Hayes

From St. Josephs, N. Y., where he is spending his vacation, Cardinal Hayes wrote:

"Convinced as I am of the grave menace certain pictures are to the individual citizen as well as to society in general, I was very much heartened to have Mr. Hearst take such an unequivocal stand for clean pictures, with the implied assurance that his chain of newspapers would exercise their widespread influence for a morally inoffensive screen.

"I am confident that American public opinion will express itself in no uncertain terms as to what must be done by producers of evil pictures."

Olson Seizes Langer's Office in North Dakota

Troops Desert Man Ousted by Ruling Of Court

night that Langer's conviction of a felony in the federal district court disqualified him from holding office.

The House, where impeachment proceedings would originate, was controlled by Langer supporters by more than a two-thirds majority, while in the Senate the margin was a few votes short of two-thirds.

VIOLENCE FEARED

Reports were heard of possible mob violence, but on the surface all was calm. Rumors were current that Langer partisans were concentrating in various sections of the state ready to march on Bismarck to rally around Langer.

Langer, after the court ousted him, declared martial law. Olson revoked the command yesterday.

Legislators were in the city to convene persuant to the call issued twice by Langer, and revoked by Olson.

With a majority of the legislators favorable to Langer, it was uncertain whether they would attempt to assemble in quarters other than the capitol.

John Husby, commissioner of agriculture and one of the officials who revolted from Langer's leadership, was in the Governor's office when Olson entered. S. A. Olsness, insurance commissioner aligned with the Olson group, came later.

STENOGRAPHERS WORKING

Two of Langer's stenographers were at work when Olson took possession of the office. One was busily engaged in work left by Langer, who has been in seclusion from the time the State Supreme Court ousted him on the ground that his conviction of a felony bars him from serving in office.

The Governor's quarters appeared deserted, and Langer's personal files had been removed. Desks had been cleared of all papers.

Six telegrams, addressed to Langer, came into the office shortly after Olson entered.

One of the telegrams came from R. H. Lynch, Republican County Central Committee chairman of Divide County, who advised Langer:

"Stand by your guns. One thousand helpers in Divide County. If you need help call."

ASSEMBLY LOCKED OUT

Olson went into an informal conference with political friends who began to gather as word went out that he had taken possession of the office.

Before he entered, Assistant Adj. Gen. H. A. Brocopp notified Langer's office staff that Olson would appear soon and to give him their co-operation.

Olson's first official act after installing himself in the executive offices was a command to the state board of administration, custodian of the state capitol building, to keep doors of the legislative assemblies locked.

With Olson declared acting governor by the state Supreme Court, and with the National Guard under his control, political circles looked for swift moves toward ousting certain Langer appointees.

It remained to be seen whether Langer appointees would abide by Olson's orders. Some, however, have indicated they are ready to vacate office, and Langer appointees who had been politically active in supporting the ousted chief executive have removed personal files from their offices.

Whatever the action of the legislators, their functions were open to question by many legal authorities, who questioned the right of the members to assemble.

TERMED 'USURPER'

Olson termed Langer a "usurper" and declared he would treat him as such, giving no attention to action he or the Legislature might take.

Within a few hours after judgment of the Supreme Court had been issued, an attack against the four supporting justices was launched by a prominent leader of the Langer faction.

State Senator A. B. Bonner, in an address at Bismarck, declared the jurists had "pretended to base their decison as though interpreting the Constitution of this state." He said:

"The Supreme Court of this state have linked themselves with the federal courts in an endeavor to continue the persecution of one who has dared to be a leader for the common people—namely, Gov. William Langer."

Threats against a federal official brought a trio of infantrymen to guard the home of E. A. Willson, relief administrator for the state, who a few days before had been manhandled by striking relief workers.

Willson was informed by local police that definite threats had been made to tar and feather him. Willson sent his wife and children from the city, and Sarles ordered the guardsmen to his home.

Langer remained in seclusion.

CHAINED SONS CALLED 'BAD'

Universal Service.

JOLIET, Ill., July 19.—Gentle souls who shuddered to read that two boys had been chained by their parents to the floor of the basement and an upstairs room, had another jolt when the mother of the boys declared:

"They are so bad I would give them away to anyone who could make them mind. The only way to make them behave is to put chains on them."

Police Magistrate Nicholson, at the hearing yesterday, explained to the parents, Donato and Grazia Persco, that children—even mischievous ones like Tony, 8, and Piero, 10—in this country can't be chained up like goats in the Alban hills of their Italian homeland. He said:

"Such treatment is inhuman. If you chain the boys up again, we'll lock you up yourselves."

LIMITED FUNDS 'CUT' OUTINGS

The clipped budget of the Community Fund has caused hundreds of needy and undernourished children in the county to be deprived of camp outings this summer, according to Wilbur F. Maxwell, executive secretary of the fund.

Maxwell declared limited finances and rising food prices have compelled one agency to discontinue its camp and several others to reduce the number of children accommodated without charge. In spite of handicaps, he said, 9,000 boys and girls will be guests at camps supported by the fund.

Agencies particularly affected by the shortage of funds, he asserted, are the Brashear Settlement, the Woods Run Settlement, and the Rankin Christian Center. The latter, he said, has been forced to eliminate its camp, and the others are running on an irregular schedule.

Cripple Kills Self To Beat Life Term

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., July 19.—(INS.)—Grimly determined to "beat a living death in the pen," Arthur J. Wahl, 21-year-old cripple, hanged himself in the Broome County Jail today shortly before he was to have started for Attica state prison to start serving a 20-year to life sentence for murder.

Wahl was convicted two days ago of the slaying of Clifford H. Clark in a robbery at Endicott, N. Y.

GRETNA TROOPS IN MANEUVERS

CAMP MUIR, MT. GRETNA, Pa., July 19.—(AP.)—The National Guard's nine-plane air squadron swoops across the sky over camp today to observe and co-ordinate the movements of the far-flung 28th Division against an imaginary enemy.

The pilots will make possible adjustment of the range of the guns of the 107th, 108th and 109th Field Artillery regiments, spot the objectives of the cavalry brigade and serve as targets for the 213th Coast Anti-Aircraft Artillery, firing blanks.

Maj. J. Victor Dallin, of Philadelphia, commands the air contingent. The planes will fly at night so anti-aircraft batteries try to bracket them between the beams of searchlights.

Infantry, artillery, cavalry and special troops will maneuver today with the air force to approximate real combat.

Gandhi Escapes Calcutta Crowds

CALCUTTA, July 19.—(AP.)—Any demonstration, friendly or otherwise, which might have accompanied the arrival of the Mahatma Gandhi here today failed to materialize when the mail train on which he was expected arrived without him.

It developed that a number of his followers had removed him forcibly from the train at a suburban station. He subsequently passed through Calcutta's streets unrecognized, going to the home of his host, a wealthy resident.

Boys! Girls! Join Writers' Club; Also Win Several Funnybone Dollars!

By J. JAMES MOORE
Pittsburgh Wing Commander

Hello, everybody! Our Junior Birdmen organization is humming along at a mile a minute clip these days with the inauguration of the Writers' Club Unit and the Funnybone Contest.

Before I tell you about these two new activities I want to give you some Flight Squadron news. Here's a letter from James Kier, captain of Squadron No. 5 at Liberty Borough, McKeesport. It reads:

"The meeting was called to order by Commander John Scott. Election of officers held with the following results: James Kier, captain and James Lamp, sergeant-at-arms. Motion was made that no dues are to be paid. Program committee appointed consisting of Ralston Hamer, Eunice Weisner, David Wunderly. Prefect committee consists of Eugene Kretchmerr, George Sleightner and Jack Lamp. The meeting was held at the home of Commander Scott."

Squadron five seems to be a very active group. Why not organize a squadron of your own and be its commander? Do it today. All you need are eight members including yourself. If the boys and girls in your neighborhood don't belong to the birdmen now, then see that they join!

Squadron No. 3 Holds Meeting

Squadron No. 3 is doing things also. Look at the minutes of their meeting, sent in by Secretary Simon Blatt, and then decide for yourself. They read:

"The meeting was called to order by Commander Santo Fontierri. Officers elected were as follows: Sue Abraham, captain; Simon Blatt, secretary; David Berman, treasurer, and Sal Smith, sergeant-at-arms. Previous to the election the duties of the officers were read by the Commander.

"It was then voted that we hold a meeting every week on a day suitable to the majority of members. A motion to make a scrapbook was made and carried, with Peter Musico and Mildred Banaitis in charge of it.

"For entertainment it was decided to have dramatics. Sue Davis was appointed chairman, Sue Abraham, Mildred Banaitis, David Berman, Simon Blatt, Helen Fero, Lillie Mazza, Marie Nardo, Florence Presto and Sal Smith as members.

"The rest of the meeting was devoted to music and athletics."

Become a Writers' Club Member Now

You can join the Writers' Club absolutely free. We only require that you are a member of the Junior Birdmen. To join drop a penny postcard to me at our local headquarters telling that you want to become a member of the organization. Give your name, address and membership number.

I will then send your request at once to national headquarters in New York where it will be included on the official list. Why not become one of the first members of the unit? Be the first to get your name on this list that will later be sent to you.

The leaflet will give you the names and addresses of groups of boys and girls in each of our wing cities. Wouldn't it be fun to correspond with a member in San Francisco. I'll bet that he could tell you some interesting stories about the strike they are having out there.

There are a total of 16 cities to which you can write. Think of it!

You will find this new activity both interesting and helpful in getting ideas on how to build planes, how to organize a lively Flight Squadron and a host of other things pertaining to aviation.

Beginning next Sunday, the daily Junior Birdmen column will be discontinued and the plane-building stories will be changed to a weekly half-page feature to be run each Sunday.

The last daily column will appear on Saturday.

Every effort will be made to make the Sunday Junior Birdmen column a newsy, informative feature of value to members of the Sun-Telegraph wing, and all their friends who are interested in building model planes.

First Funnyboner Announced Sunday

The first Funnybone winner will be announced in Sunday's paper. The winner will receive one of Uncle Sam's crisp new dollar bills. That would help you and the other members in buying supplies with which to build your planes.

Funnybone contest winners will be announced on Sundays and Wednesdays. Get in the contest. All you have to do is send in some funny aviation jokes. Remember, they must pertain to aviation.

Our space is up and so HAPPY LANDINGS!

GET YOUR —WINGS—

The Junior Birdmen of America is a nation-wide organization. Membership is open to all boys and girls 11 to 21 years of age, inclusive. To enroll fill out the blank coupon, sending the dues and your wings and membership card will mail it to

SWINDLE JURY HEARS DENIAL

NEW YORK, July 19.—(AP.)—James C. McKay, gambling operator, acknowledged on the federal witness stand today his ownership of stock in the Riverside Securities Corporation, of Reno, Nev.

Defense objections blocked the governments efforts to get the nature of the corporation's activities into evidence.

McKay was on the stand for the second day, with Assistant United States Attorney Jacob Rosenblum cross-examining him.

The Reno man and his partner, William J. Graham, and one other man, John Egleston, are on trial charged with misuse of the mails in a scheme to defraud.

McKay denied all connection with the scheme which involved an alleged international ring of bunco men, one of whose victims was Miss Kathrin Beeson, of New York and Pittsburgh.

McKay said he was associated with Jack Dempsey in the ownership of a "couple of mines in Nevada."

"Dempsey associated with you in any gambling enterprise?"
"No."

ROBBERS DROP MILLION IN GEMS

NEW YORK, July 19.—(AP.)—A gang of six professional robbers, frightened yesterday by the sound of a burglar alarm, dropped a million dollars worth of gems they had just stolen in a sensational mid-town holdup and ran away.

As they fled down a fire escape, they also left a satchel containing $250,000 worth of stocks and bonds.

During the robbery the leader of the gang struck Goldsmith, 67 years old, over the head with the butt of a pistol. Another in like manner stunned Helmut W. Kerl, representative of another jewelry firm who was visiting Goldsmith.

The two jewelers were herded with 15 employes into a rear room where the thugs began binding them all with insulating wire. Meanwhile the other robbers began stripping five open safes. All ran when the automatic burglar alarm was touched off.

Six Seek Divorce, Two Get Decrees

Divorce suits have been filed in Common Pleas Court by Marion against Frederick N. Groves, Regina against Anton Langman, William against Elizabeth Rode, Emilia against Antoni Leonowicz, Stella against Antonio Marcetti and Laura against Nicola DiGennaro.

Divorces were granted to William J. from Frances M. Glover and Theresa from Vincent Liska.

Man, 76, Wants To Become Citizen

Danko Sromovyak, 76, of 2724 Niles street, South Side, a native of Poland and resident of the United States since 1902, filed an application for citizenship at the naturalization bureau in the Federal Building. He is one of the oldest ever to apply for citizenship here. His application records that he was married in February, 1932, when he was 74 years old.

BANK OF AMERICA TRUST COMPANY

Pittsburgh, Pa.

The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, commencing at 10:00 A. M., Thursday, July 19, 1934, will be prepared to pay the Insured Deposits of the Bank of America Trust Company. Payment will be made at the banking rooms of the closed Bank, Chamber of Commerce Building, Pittsburgh, Pa.

The Secretary of Banking took possession of this bank at the close of business Tuesday, July 17, 1934, and his Deputy Receiver is required to verify balances before claims can be accepted.

Under the law, the Depositors are required to prove their claims with the Deputy Receiver before the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation can pay the same.

Depositors will be notified by the Receiver when to appear and prove their claims. As there are a large number of Depositors, these notices will be mailed out to the Depositors in groups and no depositor should call at the bank to prove his claim until he receives the notice from the receiver.

Depositors will be required to surrender their Christmas Savings and Savings account books, Certificates of Deposit and other evidences of their deposits at the time of proving their claims.

DO NOT CALL FOR PAYMENT OF YOUR CLAIM UNTIL YOU RECEIVE NOTICE FROM THE RECEIVER.

OLICE 'OBLIGE' WITH VARIETY OF SERVICE

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 19.—(AP.)—John Hanson backed out his driveway and almost ran Motorcycle Officer Gibson of Simpson. There was this following dialogue:

"Get out of the way."

"Aw, arrest me."

"Take me to the station then."

As the sergeant said, "Five dollars fine for reckless driving," Hancock remarked:

"By golly, you are officers, aren't you? I'll look closer next time."

ST. LOUIS, July 19.—(AP.)—It was a quiet night, and Officers Steinkamp and Reinhardt parked their scout car to chat with Charles Wilson.

Said the officers:

"Hop in."

BROCKTON, Mass., July 19.—(AP.)—Alex Pepper, a junk dealer, asked Patrolmen Cousins and Leary:

"Why don't you fellows get to work?"

The former replied:

"That's just what we're going to do."

School Tax Fight Heard In Court

A writ of mandamus, requiring the School Board of Wilkins Township to show cause why they should not turn over to William Bayer, tax collector for the new Churchill Borough, warrants for the collection of school taxes, has been granted by Judge Samuel H. Gardner, in Common Pleas Court, returnable July 25. When the new borough was erected within the township about a year ago, the school district remained a part of the township. Bayer is tax collector for the borough.

Now Emporia Knows It's Really Hot Spot

EMPORIA, Kan., July 19.—(AP.)—Disturbed because Emporia is often shown to be the "hottest spot" in the nation—meteorologically speaking—indignant citizens checked up on the official government thermometer.

Two expensive thermometers were placed beside the government instrument, which recorded a temperature of 112.5. The others were read at 113 and 111.2.

STATE'S CROPS REPORTED GOOD

PHILADELPHIA, July 19.—(AP.)—The week ending July 17 witnessed the most uneven distribution of rainfall for any week so far this season, the Weather Bureau said in its synopsis of weather and crop conditions in Pennsylvania, for the seven-day period.

The report said:

"The heavy rains were all in the southern half of the state, while the rainfall in the northern half averaged light.

"Corn is making a rapid development, and is generally looking good. Early fields are forming ears. Wheat and rye threshing are in progress with mostly good yields in the southeastern counties, and poor to fair yields elsewhere. Oats is ripening rapidly and a considerable portion of the crop is ready for harvest.

"Early potatoes are being dug and fair to good yields are reported. The crop seems to be fully up to the average."

FRANCE TESTS WAR ALARM

PARIS, July 19.—(AP.)—Wartime sirens shrieked yesterday, opening the Paris anti-aircraft maneuvers season.

Two huge sirens, mounted on the roof of a factory near old Saint-Lazare Prison, screeched more than a half hour in an experiment to find how far their warnings could be heard.

The sound carried for a mile. Similar experiments are to be made at various times of the day and night.

ARMY BOMBERS HOP OFF FOR ALASKA

WASHINGTON, July 19.—(AP)—Ten bombing planes, comprising the Alaska flight squadron of the Army Air Corps, hopped off from Army Air Corps, which hopped off from Bolling Field today on the first leg of the 8,000-mile flight to Alaska and return, landed at Dayton shortly after noon.

Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt were among 500 who gathered at the field to wave the 30 air men farewell.

Just before the take-off Maj. Gen. Benjamin D. Foulois, chief of the air corps, wished Lieut. Col. H. H. Arnold, flight commander, good luck. He said:

"To you and your comrades, happy landing."

The planes formed into triads, circled over the capitol, and then flew down Pennsylvania avenue before heading for the West.

The armada will make only a brief stop at Dayton before roaring on to Minneapolis tonight. The squadron is due at Fairbanks, on July 23.

BLAZE DELAYS GOOD WILL HOP

International News Service.

CLEVELAND, O., July 19.—Repairs to the fire-damaged engine of a huge seaplane which left Chicago for New York on a round-the-world good will tour yesterday will delay the flight at least three days, officials at Cleveland airport said today.

The plane was forced down in Lake Erie here last night near a public beach when fire broke out in one of the plane's two engines. Flight Commander W. H. Alexander, the pilot, made a swift landing in the lake about 1,000 feet off shore when flames began pouring from the motor.

Maj. W. C. Brooks and Commander John W. Iseman, co-pilots, climbed out on a pontoon as soon as the plane touched water and vainly attempted to put out the fire with their hands.

They finally succeeded in quenching the flames with a fire extinguisher, after sustaining burns which had to be treated at a doctor's office.

BRITAIN PLANS MORE PLANES

LONDON, July 19. — (AP.) — Stanley Baldwin, lord president of the Council, informed the House of Commons today that the British government has decided on a program of increasing its air force by 41 squadrons during the next five years.

Of the new squadrons, he said, 33 would be allotted for home defense, raising the existing 42 squadrons at home to a total of 75. The remaining squadrons would be for service with the fleet as an air arm or for use abroad. He said:

"The rate at which this program can be carried out within the five years must depend upon various considerations including finance, which I cannot specify now.

"We hope, however, so to space out the work as not to make an unmanageable addition to the estimates in any one year."

Realty Men Ask City Economy Meet

The Pittsburgh Building Owners and Managers' Association today sent a resolution to Mayor McNair and City Council requesting an opportunity to appear and discuss the city's financial outlook for the rest of this year and 1935.

The association expressed the belief the tax rate might be reduced for 1935 if the city operated on a basis of rigid economy and prepared a budget on the basis of 85 per cent rather than 75 per cent collections.

CURLY RAT MAKES DEBUT

PHILADELPHIA, July 19.—(AP.)—A rat with a permanent wave and a curly coat has been developed in breeding experiments by Dr. Helen Dean King at Wistar Institute.

The curly rats appeared during breeding experiments which seek more information about the laws of heredity. Although commercial uses are outside her aims, Miss King has suggested that rats with curls or unusual coloring might have commercial value for furs.

In 20 years of study she has found evidence that the mutations—the changes which produce new varieties of plants and animals—occur most frequently among rats in the litters of very old or very young parents.

This indicates to her that the germ cells of very young or very old mammals act more variably than those of animals in middle age.

'SHOCK-PROOF' FAN DANCE

With a "shock-proof" fan dance by six "artists" as one of the feature attractions, the annual picnic of the Business Men's Association of East North Side, was held yesterday in West View Park.

Five thousand persons crowded into the amphitheater park for the premier event and watched the performers, attired in romper suits and labeled Nat Lee, Marza, Blondetta, Lilla, Beebe and Valra, go through their burlesque. One of two, a trifle naughtier than others, stepped from their rompers and went through their steps in bathing suits of the 1900 variety.

Preceding the fan dance, the program included mushball games, a water carnival, public dance and usual park recreations. Cornelius Pappert was chairman of the picnic committees.

U. S. Holds 5 Men In Automobile Theft

The United States commissioner today held five men for a hearing Saturday in default of $1,500 bond on a charge of transporting or causing to be transported a stolen automobile from Youngstown, O., to Sharon, Pa. They are Albert A. Porter, 22, of Wheatland, Pa., Albert Vaughn Ongley, 23, of Sharon, William C. Brooks, 25, of Masury, O., John Kasmer, 19, of Mercer, Pa., and a fifth boy who the Sun-Telegraph will not name because of his youth.

SUN-TELEGRAPH GUESTS AT FAIR

At 7 o'clock this morning another party of Pittsburghers—the second—arrived in Chicago to see the World's Fair as guests of the Sun-Telegraph. It numbered close to 500 men and women, boys and girls, who had earned the trip by getting subscriptions for this newspaper.

They will remain in Chicago until late tomorrow night, spending all of their time among the wonders of the exposition. Their hotel and dining accomodations were arranged for by Century Vacations, Inc., of Chicago. The party, however, is accompanied by Sun-Telegraph representatives to look after their entertainment and comfort. For emergencies there are also three trained nurses with them. They went to Chicago over the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, leaving this city at 8:30 last night. They will be home Saturday morning at 7 o'clock, daylight savings time.

Within a few days the Sun-Telegraph will make announcement of the departure dates for the Atlantic City and New York City parties—vacations earned under the same conditions as the World's Fair trips. It isn't too late to join the Atlantic City and New York City groups. Call the Tours Department, Sun-Telegraph, for details.

CUT WHOLESALE MILK PRICE

A reduction in the wholesale price of milk from 8½ to 8 cents a quart and the establishment of a 3-cent deposit on bottles purchased in stores, was announced today by the Milk Dealers' Association of Greater Pittsburgh. The prices are effective August 1.

The new price was adopted at a meeting last night in the Fort Pitt Hotel at which resolutions were voted to ask the Milk Control Board at Harrisburg to permit an increase in the retail price of milk within a few months. Bottles on which the deposit is to be collected will have 3 cents imprinted on them to distinguish them from those left in house-to-house deliveries.

Youth Imprisoned In Teacher's Death

HINTON, W. Va., July 19.—(AP.)—A youth who struck his former school teacher in retaliation for a whipping administered to him several years ago and caused the teacher's death was sentenced yesterday to serve three years in the state penitentiary.

Melvin Bennett, 19, pleaded guilty to voluntary manslaughter in the killing of A. H. McClung, a school teacher, of Meadow-creek. Officers said Bennett, a former pupil of McClung, struck the latter with his fist.

MECHANICS GET AUTO SAFETY LESSONS

HARRISBURG, July 19.—(AP.)—The men upon whom depends the mechanical perfection of thousands of Pennsylvania automobiles —the mechanics employed at official inspection stations — are learning the three R's of motor safety this week.

In line with the state's aim to rid the highways of unsafe cars, the mechanics and their employers are attending 44 state conferences at points over the state.

The inspection campaign, which continues through September, is compulsory.

Representatives of the Bureau of Highway Patrol and Safety are addressing the meetings, stressing the necessity for careful inspections to achieve a maximum of safety.

Local organizations are co-operating for an earlier response to the drive so that a last-minute rush may be avoided. Motorists who do not display the official inspection sticker on windshields are subject to arrest after September 30.

The division of safety said:

"The commonwealth has clamped down on official inspection stations to insure that they will do their part in eliminating unsafe cars.

"Steps have been taken to prevent careless inspections and slipshod repair work. The division is checking up on the work of all stations and official appointments will be cancelled where evidence of indifferent or inefficient work is found.

"With the first month of the campaign nearly over, it becomes increasingly important owners have their motor vehicles inspected as early as possible. The owner who takes his car to a station now is assured not only efficient work but of immediate attention which he cannot get if he delays until the rush.

DANCING GOAT DIES AT ZOO

International News Service.

PHILADELPHIA, July 19.—"Miss Klipspringer," the little dancing mountain goat from East Africa, will no longer amuse Philadelphia Zoo visitors with her dainty terpsichorean performances.

The Klipspringer died from incorrect diet, according to C. Emerson Brown, director of the Zoological Gardens.

The nimble-footed little animal, only one of its kind in America, was brought here seven months ago and delighted zoo visitors by running about on the tips of its toes.

MUNHALL CHILD KILLED BY AUTO

A 6-year-old Munhall girl lay dead today, the fourth child traffic accident victim in the county in the past three days.

She is Jane Furnival, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Furnival, of 3717 Bostford avenue, Munhall. According to Munhall police, the girl was struck at Main and Leslie streets in the borough by a car driven by Carl N. Jonash, of 4116 Harvey street, Munhall.

Taken to Homestead Hospital by Motorcycle Policeman Thomas F. Price, she died of a fractured skull shortly after arrival. Jonash was arrested and turned over to the Coroner.

SEEK ROOMER IN GEM THEFT

A man who stole jewelry valued at $1,200 from the residence of Mrs. Ruth Vowinkel, 239 South Atlantic avenue, after engaging a room there, was being sought by police today.

He engaged the room yesterday morning. A few hours later, upon going to her bedroom, Mrs. Vowinkel found her jewelry missing.

She went to the room she had given the man and found it empty with the exception of an old suitcase stuffed with paper, according to police.

Three Nabbed As Numbers Writers

In three raids, two of which were in the downtown district, police late yesterday reported the arrest of three alleged numbers writers. Charles Gabriel, 32, of 99 Elm street, was arrested in a room on the second floor of 22½ Diamond square. In a store at 12 Smithfield street, John Simmons, 44, of Soffel street, was arrested. Clement Longo, 47, was arrested when police raided his confectionery at 2321 Penn avenue.

Girl Injured at Highland Park Pool

Louise Goldstock, of 3307 Parkview avenue, was injured yesterday when she was knocked to the ground by other youngsters with whom she was at play on the edge of the Highland Park swimming pool. She was attended at Pittsburgh Hospital.

Congress Candidate Killed by Automobile

HOUSTON, Tex., July 19.—(AP.)—A. A. Weldon, 72, Democratic candidate for Congress from the Eighth Texas District and president of the Age Limit League of America, was killed last night by a motor car.

Mountaineer Dog Befriender Back In Politics

FRANKFORT, Ky., July 19.—(AP.)—Again the cry, "Save old dog Ring," is heard in Southeastern Kentucky, where the mountaineer regards the dog as his best friend.

Sixteen years ago Edwin P. (Howdy Ed) Morrow, a Republican and mountaineer, was elected Governor after a militant campaign in which he promised to free "old Ring" from the state law requiring every dog to wear a tag.

Attemping a comeback in Kentucky politics, former Gov. Morrow is seeking the Republican nomination as Congressman in the new Ninth District. Opposing him for the nomination is former U. S. Senator John M. Robsion.

Morrow is understood to have his eyes on the Republican nomination for Governor next year.

SWIM 'HOUDINI' TO REPEAT ACT

Bob Squire, the Bellevue "Houdini," will do a repeat performance at the Avalon Swimming Pool at 8 p. m., Saturday.

Squire, who dives through the air with his feet and hands in manacles, is said to be the only fancy diver in the country who does his act with shackled limbs.

He amazed spectators at the pool last week by executing somersaults, back-flips and swans off the diving board to the accompaniment of rattling chains. To guarantee the authenticity of the act this week, the "bracelets" will be applied by an experienced handcuffer, Police Chief Jimmy Parker, of Avalon.

Squire lives at 84 Sheridan avenue, Bellevue. His performance will be part of a program of aquatic stunts arranged by Sid Smith, pool guard.

LOST MILLIONS OF RECLUSE SOUGHT

MONTREAL, July 19.—(AP.)—A trail of lost millionaire was being pushed here today by George B. Guthrie, solicitor for the heirs of Mrs. Sarah Smith-Scollard's vanished fortune.

Guthrie arrived from Portland, Ore., and talked freely in order that persons residing of the disappearance of the wealthy Chicago and Seattle resident's possessions might be able to shed some light on where the money is.

Convinced that Mrs. Smith, as she was known here, had been robbed of a large sums of money, perhaps millions, Guthrie said efforts would be made to trace her movements in Canada since she walked out of a Seattle bank in 1929 with $500,000 in her handbag.

FALSE DATA

Guthrie said the death certificate of Mrs. Smith-Scollard, issued here by Dr. Willard Johnson, after her death in the Mount Royal Hotel July 24, 1932, bore incorrect information. He said the information probably had been supplied by the late Reese B. Brown, her trusted friend and executor.

Brown, killed in an accident early this year, had the woman's body cremated here, and took the ashes with him to the United States.

According to Mr. Guthrie's photostatic copy of the death certificate information in regard to the death itself was written with a pen. An apparently later addition in typewriting gave her name as Sarah E. Smith, nee Peterson, born in Chicago and resident in the United States. It was dated July 28, presumably the date when the form was completed on information from Reese Brown, who came to Montreal shortly after Mrs. Smith-Scollard died.

MANY HUSBANDS

Guthrie said:

"Whether this misinformation was wilfully supplied by Brown or whether he himself knew no better, I cannot say. She was not born a Peterson. Actually her maiden name was Corbett. She was born in County Galway, Ireland, sometime in 1857 or 1858. Her age at the time of death was at least 73 and not 71 as the certificate stated.

"Peterson was the name of her first husband. She had a number, Scollard being the last and Smith being the one whose name she used most frequently.

"She had a habit of making odd deposits of large sums of money in different banks and different cities. She made these deposits, sometimes under false names. And that will make it difficult to find them unless people remember her face and appearance."

Boy, 4, Injured By Hit-Run Auto

Police are searching today for a hit-and-run driver whose automobile hit 4-year-old Perry Merrie in front of his home, 2700 Arlington avenue, last night, according to a police report. The child was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, where he was reported recovering.

'Human Chain' Rescues Boy From Well

A board gave way while he was playing with his brother, Robbie, 6, and he tumbled into nine feet of water.

Employees of a nearby filling station were called. John Burden and Eugene Lare gripped William Richie by the legs and lowered him over the side of the well. Others held Burden and Lare while Richie grasped the boy.

Mrs. Owney Madden Seeks Reno Divorce

RENO, Nev., July 19.—(AP.)—Mrs. Dorothy Madden has established a Nevada residence at Lake Tahoe, 40 miles from here, and expects to file a divorce suit against Owney Madden, ex-convict and New York racketeer, in August, it was learned here.

COLUMBUS WINS ELKS MEETING

KANSAS CITY, July 19.—(AP.)—The Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks in their seventieth annual convention here yesterday waged a hot battle for the selection of next year's convention city, and Columbus, O., with the aid of the Los Angeles delegation, vanquished Miami, Fla.

It was the second time in Elk history that sisters had been locked over the choice of the next host city. The end of the balloting, which started yesterday, gave Columbus 818 votes and Miami 347.

Awards given in a national scholarship contest conducted by Elks' lodges based on a four-year course in high school, were announced. The national winner was Carroll Ross Larman, 18, of Duquoin, Ill., who was presented with $1,000 to continue his school work.

Other winners included John N. Leonard, 17, of Bradford, Pa. The convention is to end Thursday.

DR. DEAN'S FATE HINGES ON ONE POINT

International News Service.

GREENWOOD, Miss., July 19.—With the fate of Dr. Sara Ruth Dean resting in the hands of the Supreme Court of Mississippi, the question of whether she will go free or spend the remaining years of her life in prison hinges on a single point—the dying declaration of the man she stands convicted of killing with a poisoned whisky highball.

If the Supreme Court finds that this dying declaration is incompetent then, in the words of the trial judge himself, the state has no case, and the pretty young woman practioner will go free, probably without another trial.

Dr. J. Preston Kennedy, the young woman doctor's associate and sweetheart, purportedly told his two brothers and a physician that Dr. Dean gave him bichloride of mercury in a whisky highball. He died two days later.

In spit of strenuous efforts to exclude this evidence from Dr. Dean's trial last March, it was permitted to go in. Dr. Dean's attorneys, in the hearing recently on a motion for a new trial, contended that the accusation was incompetent, in that there had been no evidence produced that Dr. Kennedy was rational at the time or that he died of mercurial poisoning.

DYING DECLARATION

The question of the admissibility of this evidence is one on which the trial judge himself, Dr. S. F. Davis, did not care to rule at the recent hearing. He said:

"If the dying declaration purportedly to have been made by Dr. Kennedy is competent in the eyes of the Supreme Court, then Dr. Dean is in a bad fix.

"But if the Supreme Court holds that the dying declaration is incompetent, then the state is in a worse fix. In that case there is nothing on which the prosecution can base another trial."

Judge Davis, in refusing to grant a new trial, said the case should be reviewed by the Supreme Court, adding that if he granted the motion "we would be right back where we started from in the first place."

GIVEN LIFE SENTENCE

Dr. Dean was convicted of murder and given a life sentence following a hard-fought, five weeks' trial on testimony that she administered a poisoned whisky highball to Dr. Kennedy at the latter's clinic in Greenwood on the night of July 26, 1933. It was the state's contention that the motive was jealously engendered by the fact that Dr. Kennedy was about to rewed the wife who had divorced him, assertedly because of his attentions to the comely young woman physician.

Dr. Dean, while admitting that she and Dr. Kennedy had been sweethearts, denied being present at the rendezvous in the clinic, and an aunt and a cousin of the defendant testified that she did not leave their home on that night.

7,000 PAGE RECORD

At least six months is expected to pass before a decision by the Supreme Court is forthcoming. Dr. Dean's appeal is returnable at the September term, but it is not expected that the case will be argued until around the first of the year, due in part to the great volume of the record.

According to Miss Pearl O'Brien, court reporter, a transcript of the testimony and exhibits at the trial will approximate some 7,000 pages.

CO-EDS DISAGREE ON DRINK

International News Service.

BERKELEY, Cal., July 19.—Four co-ed leaders at the University of California have differed in their answers to a questionnaire on whether college boys drink less since the repeal of prohibition, and if so, why.

Louise Jeschien, women's editor of the Daily California, was of the opinion that student drinking had decreased perforce, due to the higher price of legal liquor. She said:

Norma Thorpe, senior women's representative to the Students' Executive Committee, alone of the five was of the opinion that drinking had increased markedly. She stated:

"From what I have seen at hotel dances and local social functions, I think drinking has increased since repeal. Naturally when the boys can get all they want without any restrictions, there is more liquor in evidence."

Georgina Knight, member of the women's publicity committee, was of the opinion that there is less drinking today since it has ceased to be fashionable.

NEW DESSERT OFFERING TASTY CLIMAX

Here you are, housewives, a new dessert to round out those delicious meals of yours. Dutch Rusk, Mrs. M. P. Du Plessis, the sender, calls this pudding which merited her the $5 prize today.

Sounds good, doesn't it? And it won't take very long to find out that it is good. There's nothing complicated about making it . . . you can easily prepare Dutch Rusk without fear of failure.

Which of your recipes are most in demand with your family and friends? Prudence Penny would like to have the opportunity of awarding them a prize. Daily, you know, she publishes 11 prize winning recipes. The first prize winner receives $5, the next best $1 each, and the honorable mention recipes a Prudence Penny cook book. No recipes, whether or not they win a prize, are returned.

Five Dollar Prize Winner

MRS. M. P. DU PLESSIS,
82 Bradford avenue, Crafton.
DUTCH RUSK PUDDING

One-half cup butter, melted.
One-half cup sugar.
Six rusks, ground.

Custard Filling

Four egg yolks, beaten.
One tablespoon flour.
One-half cup sugar.
Two cups milk.
One teaspoon vanilla.

Meringue

Four egg whites, beaten stiff.
Two tablespoons sugar.

Five $1 Prize Winners

318 Edward avenue, Mt. Lebanon.
DUTCH-DISH

Fry two onions, chopped, in butter, add large can tomatoes. Let come to boil and add one-half pound grated cheese. After cheese is melted add three well-beaten eggs, one-half teaspoon baking powder and seasoning. Scramble together and serve hot on toast.

ALICE V. RUPERT
R. F. D. No. 1, Verona.
CROWN ROAST OF LAMB

Have the butcher trim down the layer of fat on the chops to one-quarter inch thickness and do not have him fill the inside with ground meat when he ties up the roast. Rub the meat with salt, pepper and flour and place on the rack in a shallow roasting pan. Slip pieces of raw potatoes over the ends of the ribs to prevent charring. Roast uncovered in a hot oven (450 degrees) for 20 minutes, open the oven door, reduce the heat 300 degrees and cook for one hour longer. For an electric oven place in the cold oven, set at 350 degrees and cook 30 minutes per pound. Remove from oven and fill the center with a dressing made as follows:

Dressing.

Saute one-half cup of chopped lamb, two cups of chopped mushrooms, one cup of celery and one small onion (chopped) in three tablespoons fat. Add three cups of bread crumbs, salt and pepper to taste and four tablespoons chopped parsley.

MRS. WILLIAM DARRAH,
6830 McPherson boulevard.
ARLINGTON ASPARAGUS

Cut rings one-third-inch wide from a lemon, remove the pulp. Cut crusts from oblong pieces of bread, toasted, and moisten with water in which the asparagus has been cooked. Put stalks of cooked asparagus through lemon peel rings and arrange on the toast. Brush rings with melted butter and serve very hot with mousseline sauce.

MOUSSELAINE SAUCE

Two egg yolks.
One-fourth cup of cream.
One-half tablespoon flour.
One-eighth teaspoon nutmeg.
Juice of half a lemon.
Two tablespoons butter.

Mix in the ingredients except the butter in a double boiler and cook over hot water, stirring constantly until mixture thickens. Add butter, bit by bit, beating well. When butter is melted take off stove.

MRS. C. C. ROCHLER,
R. F. D. 1, Tarentum.
APPLE RING PRESERVE

Winesap or other tart, juicy apples are preferred. Wipe, core and cut in lengthwise slices. Drop into cold water to prevent discoloring. Allow one pint sugar and one pint water (one teaspoon salt to a single gallon of water is enough to keep fruit from turning brown). Cut cored apples into one-half inch slices, drop in cold water and drain. Make a thin syrup (one cup sugar to three cups water). Boil gently three minutes. Then pack in hot jars, fill with syrup and cook the sealed jars in pot of simmering water for 20 minutes. Sugar is added to taste. These rings are perfectly with fresh yellow sponge cake served as dessert, or placed on crisp leaves of lettuce, garnished with creamed cottage cheese and fruit served as a salad.

MRS. GEORGE LONG,
23 Natoma street, Mt. Washington.
QUEEN VICTORIA TEA BISCUITS

Three cups flour.
Three teaspoons baking powder.
Two tablespoons sugar.
One-quarter teaspoon nutmeg.
One-half teaspoon salt.
Three tablespoons butter.
One egg.
Five tablespoons milk.
Two tablespoons currants.

Boil currants five minutes in half cup water, drain and dry between cloths. Sift dry ingredients in bowl, add currants, chop butter through dry ingredients. Beat egg light and add milk to egg. Stir with fork (it should make batter a ball). Turn out on floured board. Pat half inch thick. Cut with small biscuit cutter. Bake in hot oven, 450 degrees Fahrenheit, 25 minutes. Serve hot with butter.

Honorable Mention

MARJORIE BEST,
636 Hawthorne avenue, Kittanning.
BEST YET

One box puffed wheat.
One cup shelled peanuts.
One-half cup dry cocoanut.
One cup molasses.
One-half cup sugar.
One tablespoon vinegar.
One-half teaspoon baking soda.

Mix molasses, sugar and vinegar. Bring to a boil, continuing to boil until brittle when dropped in cold water. Take from fire and stir in one-half teaspoon of soda. Pour over puffed wheat, peanuts and cocoanut, mixing well. Mold with hands into cakes and lay on buttered board. Cost. Makes about 12 squares.

HELEN JOHNSON
5470 Penn avenue.
ROMAINE BOUQUET

Two hearts of romaine lettuce.
One cupful of finely shredded raw turnips.
One cupful of finely shredded raw carrots.
One cupful of thick French dressing.

Puree of fresh peaches

Soak gelatin in a cup with the cold water for five minutes. Whisk egg yolks to a froth, gradually beating in sugar, lemon juice, salt and peaches. Add the soaked gelatin and continue beating until mixture is thick and creamy. Fold in the whipped cream. Turn into mold and chill. Serve with whipped cream. Twelve to fourteen servings.

MRS. LEO A. HILL,
GINGER PEAR SALAD

Twelve halves of canned pear.
One package cream cheese.
Three tablespoons cream.
One-eighth teaspoon paprika.
One-half teaspoon salt.
Twelve ginger snaps, coarsely crumbled.
Lettuce and mayonnaise.

Drain pears well. Blend cheese with cream. Add paprika and salt. Fold in crumbled ginger snaps. Fill pear cavities with this mixture, chill and serve on lettuce, garnished with mayonnaise. Serves six.

AGNES ROHYANS,
703 Center avenue, Ellsworth.
WATERMELON LOG CABIN SALAD.

Forty strips of watermelon.
One-half can crushed pineapple.
One-eighth pound marshmallows.
One-fourth cup chopped pecans.
One cup whipped cream.
One-half cup mayonnaise.
One-half cup pecan halves.

Cut watermelon strips three and one-half inches long and three-eighths inches wide each way, to form a bar. Drain pineapple. Cut marshmallows in quarters; dice with cubes. Whip cream until stiff. Form lettuce as grass on plates. Use 10 strips of melon for each salad. Form a log cabin of these strips on lettuce with pineapple, marshmallows and chopped pecans. Fill centers of cabins with mixture. Lightly pile whipped cream on top to form the roof. Put pecan halves in rows on roof.

EFFIE B. IRONS,
Main Street, Leechburg.
PEACH TEMPTATION

Four teaspoons plain gelatin.
Six tablespoons cold water.
Two-thirds cup boiling water.

FREE EXAMINATIONS AT CLINIC DAILY

Already hailed as a tremendous success, the city-wide TEETH-SAVING CLINIC being conducted at the offices of Dr. DeRoy, formerly American Dentists, 256 Fifth Avenue, at Wood Street, is entering the last days. Only two more days to take advantage of this chance are left to the hundreds of Pittsburghers who are jeopardizing their health by neglecting their teeth.

Hours of the clinic, where free examinations are made without obligation, are 9 to 6 Friday, Tuesday and Thursday, and 9 to 8 p. m. Monday, Wednesday and Saturday.

The teeth-saving clinic was instituted by Dr. DeRoy, formerly American Dentists, as a result of a survey which proved indisputably that unknowingly thousands are endangering their health and suffering from all kinds of serious physical ailments because of neglect of the teeth. The clinic is open to the public and there is no charge whatsoever for a thorough painstaking examination of the teeth. The clinic closes definitely this Saturday night when the Dr. DeRoy, formerly American Dentists, offices close at 8 o'clock. No appointments are necessary.

THE END OF THE RACE!

—and then he Smoked a Camel!

IT TAKES A MAN like "Bill" Horn, who won the Gold Cup in 1932, to wind a big racing hydroplane up to 3000 r.p.m. and hold her to a speed of 60 to 70 miles per hour...for mile after mile. And when he's tired Camels quickly increase his vim and energy.

YOU'LL LIKE this delightful way of "turning on" your flow of energy

Experience of Camel Smokers confirmed by Science

A famous New York research laboratory reveals that smoking a Camel produces a definite increase in your flow of natural energy. The effect is delightful, completely natural.

Many smokers have learned of this "energizing effect" in Camels for themselves. "Bill" Horn, winner of the gruelling Gold Cup race, refers to his experience in these words:

"The man who drives a Gold Cup winner needs the last ounce of energy he's got. After a championship race I 'break out' my pack of Camels quickly, believe me! In no time at all I get a 'lift' and everything is all serene! It's a swell feeling—just to smoke a Camel and be your real self again! That's what I do whenever I feel played out, and Camels never get on my nerves."

Try this pleasant and convenient way of ironing out fatigue and increasing vibrant energy. Turn to Camels and learn the truth of the saying, "Get a lift with a Camel." Like to smoke steadily? Smoke as much as you wish! Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS than any other popular brand. They do not get on the nerves.

Baby's Wail Broadcast To Byrd

By AIRCASTER

The Byrd expedition is anticipating the report of a stork expedition next Wednesday night, when radio listeners, together with the crew of Admiral Byrd, cooling its heels in Little America, are to hear radio's first crib side broadcast.

Since the departure of the Byrd company for the Antarctic, two youngsters have been born to wives of members of the crew. Little Joseph Byrd Pelter, son of the expedition's surveyor, made his debut into the world at Pensacola, Fla., on December 7 last; and Marie Byrd Carbone, daughter of the expedition's cook, Alfonse Carbone, was left by the stork at Cambridge, Mass., on February 6.

Neither cook Carbone nor surveyor Pelter, of course, ever has seen his offspring, but next Wednesday night both proud fathers will hear the cooing of the youngsters.

Microphones will be placed in the crib at Cambridge and in that at Pensacola, and both babies will ad lib for several minutes. CBS-WJAS will do the cribside stunt at 10 p. m.

HALL OF FAME

Hitherto, WEAF's Sunday festival known as "The Hall of Fame," has been playing the limelight on luminaries of the stage and screen.

Whether the luminaries have been exhausted or whether the management of the series has awakened to the fact that fame is not peculiar to the theater, is not made clear, but a new policy affecting the presentation shows a disposition on the part of the directors to include radio bandmasters in the well-known hall.

Starting with this Sunday's broadcast, a series of radio bands will be started. The first of these may be the Casa Loma. Ted Fiorito will follow and later Dick Himber and others will bask in the aura which is supposed to attach to the weekly event.

VAIN HOPES

The optimist who visions new broadcasting castles in the air for KDKA and WCAE is misled by his grapevine reporters.

WCAE has no plans for any changes. KDKA has plans, but several obstacles yet to overcome.

So 15 Win Liberty

CHICAGO, July 19. — (AP.) — It's too cool in the "cooler" so some of the inmates of alimony row in the County Jail are going to get the chance to get out in the hot sun and see if they can earn some money for the support of their children.

Judge Desort announced that an investigator found the jail temperature several degrees cooler than in his court room, which was one of the reasons why he decided to let 15 of the prisoners in alimony row go free.

New Series Begins On WCAE Tonight

Howard Price, golden-voiced tenor, is heard over WCAE at 6:45 in a program of popular and semi-classical selections.

At 7:45, WCAE broadcasts the premiere of a series of Thursday night entertainments sponsored by the Alta Life Insurance Company.

GLOBE TROTTING

Hello Ladies and Gentlemen:

One of our satisfied customers, Anna E. Crowley, now of Alton, advises that her bonus check from Pennsylvania has finally reached her through the media of the column and the broadcast.

She winds up with:

"Taking these means to thank you, and to inform you that your broadcasts are not just so much time on the air."

* * *

Another, Miss C. Morgan, postcards from North Carolina that she will soon be back for the broadcasts and to renew her subscription.

I wish I would have known about her leaving sooner, as the paper could have been mailed to her so that she wouldn't have to be deprived of it during her vacation.

* * *

Clarence W. Jackson, Reed street, wonders why there have been no truck farms advertised for sale in the paper. Is it because the farmers won't let go of the land?

If there are any Globe Trotters tuned in who want to sell truck farms will they do Mr. Jackson a favor by letting him know.

A folder from the Columbia Hospital announces a new knee action model. Barbara Joan, daughter of E. M. and Margaret Asbury.

According to the formal announcement the new model also features free squealing, scream line body, and changeable seat covers.

Local Highlights on WJAS Tonight

'My Own Story' :-: By Marie Dressler :-: Exclusive

Directors Certainly Earn Pay on Movie Lots

Marie Dressler, the funniest woman in America, was born in a small town in Canada. After a series of ups and downs on the stage, she decided that in order to achieve success one must keep her troubles to herself. Her first big success was "Tillie's Nightmare," which sent her on the road to "hats with ostrich feathers as long as any in Newport."

Then came reverses on the stage and in her financial investments. She learned that no "vice" is as bad as "advice." Despite pleas and warnings, she set out for Hollywood without a contract and pounded the pavements searching for a job. Her first opportunity came as she was in desperate financial straits. With Polly Moran, she established the game of "Give and Take," which brought her temporary success.

After a bad year, her ship arrived with her performance in "Anna Christie." She bought a house in Hollywood and took great delight in planning meals, using her own recipes. She tells of the heartaches behind the filming of pictures. These annoying incidents are taken with a grin by the old-timers.

Miss Dressler, however, insists on quitting work promptly at meal time. She has a word to say for the hundreds of technicians and workmen taking part in the picture production.

MARIE DRESSLER . . . . A REAL LIFE PORTRAIT STUDY

CHAPTER X.

Take the director, that much-feared and much-maligned man. He certainly earns his salary, no matter how fabulous it may seem to fans who are merely reading about it. When a story is sold to the lot, it is immediately adapted by special writers to some particular star or stars.

The director is then chosen. The moment he is called he takes the veil, so to speak. He hasn't a minute, an hour or a day to himself. He is obliged to go over the script, familiarize himself with it, plan what he can do with it and what it is possible for the cameras to do.

This is where experience plus artistic feeling is essential. After hard creative labor on the script and in casting, he gets out on the lot and goes through the work we have already noted of coping with balky machinery, varying temperaments of both mechanics and stars.

In general, the director's job is to take a green gooseberry and inflate it into a luscious melon. Despite rumors to the contrary, he is expected to consider expense and other factors. When he has completed the difficult work of assembling and directing a large cast so that there is that perfect teamwork which is essential to any success, the job is not over.

Hard-Working Director

No, indeed! While the rest of us are hitting our beauty rest mattresses, the director is sitting up laying out our hurdles for the next day. He is sort of a bandmaster reducing a chaos of assorted notes into rhythm and harmony. When the last scene has been shot, the director cannot pack up his gray hackle and camp outfit and go trout fishing.

The previews of the picture are shown, the supervisors arrive and announce to the sleepy-eyed director that the picture of which he is so proud will never do for the moving picture public. With the words, "If you believe me, it's lousy," ringing in his ears, the director girds up whatever one girds up, orders strong coffee, shouts for all hands and goes at the picture again, reshooting much of it and swearing through his teeth because some of the points that pleased him most must now be eliminated.

Originally directors had a worse time than they do today because people used to have little patience and everybody, particularly the new actors, were thinking of themselves and feeling that they could not be really great unless they splashed temperament and ideas all over the place.

Tolerance Increasing

Today not only the actors, but everybody concerned are showing greater tolerance and understanding. This is partly because there are now so many legitimate actors in the talkies and they all know what it means to be good troupers.

Of course, the public sees only the actors, but they are only a small part of the making of a picture. There are the scenic men and the light men who lie all day on their stomachs on the rafters, working with the directors.

There are property men who can get you anything from a peanut to an express train on a moment's notice, electricians who have long ago mastered dimmers and spots and borders and have climbed to the zenith of their art, construction experts who know how to build mountains and cities with magical ironwork so that the actors are safe while fake earthquakes or volcanoes or sea storms apparently wreak havoc.

Numerous Experts

There are engineers of all kinds, technical directors, camera men, designers, make-up men, even men who do nothing but "age" costumes and make them look old, and nurserymen who furnish garlands and trees.

Of course each department in Hollywood is a city in itself. The wardrobe department is perhaps one of the most interesting. The one which furnishes me with most of my clothes is three stories high and a quarter of a city block in length.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Use Care in Preserving Food

This is the time of year when negligence in the care of food may result in severe food poisoning. Edibles that are not properly protected from flies, dust and germs, and not kept in a shady, cool location easily spoil. The eating of spoiled food may cause severe digestive disturbance.

Dr. Copeland

"Botulism" is a dangerous condition caused by a germ called "clostridium botulinum," found in contaminated food. Even though it does not contain this dangerous agent any food must be properly preserved or there will be trouble.

Sometimes the housewife neglects to sterilize her preserve jars thoroughly or fails to seal the jars completely. Neglect of these simple things may lead to putrefaction and spoilage of the preserved food. Adequate sterilization of all utensils and proper choice of foodstuffs are imperative for the prevention of food poisoning.

I am glad to say that botulism is no longer a common disease. It has been almost entirely eradicated by the rigid requirements of the pure food laws. These measures have been particularly enforced in the canning industry. In former years, when the disease was not properly understood and the canning industry was still in its infancy, many outbreaks of botulism occurred. Today, when botulism occurs it is the result of improper canning of food or negligence in the preparation of food that is to be preserved.

Too many persons believe that boiling destroys all germs. They overlook the fact that food which has been thoroughly sterilized, if allowed to remain exposed during warm weather, easily spoils and becomes contaminated. During hot weather extreme care must be exercised in the care of food.

Only fresh and clean food should be used at any season. Never eat food that has not been properly prepared and kept from contamination. Food exposed to dust and dirt and heat, easily spoils and then is deterimental to health.

If you plan on preserving foods at home make sure you have sufficient and necessary equipment for canning. Many housewives prefer home canned products. I cannot blame anybody for this, but I would caution them against the dangers of faulty canning.

All cans and jars for preserving should be thoroughly cleansed and boiled before using. Thorough cleansing is only possible by boiling at 212 degrees for 10 minutes. The jars should be sealed airtight and kept in a cool and shady place.

The commercial canners have made it possible for the people the world over to enjoy the finest foods and delicacies. We no longer have to wait for foods to be in season because canned fruits and vegetables can be purchased the year around.

Answers to Health Queries

M. L. B. Q.—Is gluten bread fattening? Would you advise it to be used in place of white bread in a reducing diet?

A.—White bread is considered more fattening than any other bread. For full particulars restate your question and send a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Sun-Telegraph 15c Pattern

Nothing compels you to make this frock of one of the new non-crushable cotton voiles, of course, but wouldn't it be nice that way? It is a charming frock! No sleeves to make you warm — just a big cape collar to take their place and make you look slim and charming in the bargain. It is designed for the matron's figure—the point at the front of the bodice, the soft gathers, and the panels in the skirt are amazingly slenderizing—but it is attractive in a size as small as sixteen. And it is attractive in silk, voile or chiffon, either plain or patterned.

Pattern 1929 is available in sizes 16, 18, 20, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 36 takes 3¼ yards 39-inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

RUPTURE

COMPANY SALESMAN OF CHICAGO HERE AGAIN

He will show you the "Meinhardi Rupture Shield" privately in his rooms at the Wm. Penn Hotel, Pittsburgh, Pa., on Sunday, July 22nd, from 1:00 P. M. to 7:00 P. M., and on Monday, July 23rd, from 10:00 A. M. to 4:00 P. M.

Ask the Hotel Clerk for the numbers of Mr. Meinhardi's rooms. Only men are invited.

The Meinhardi Rupture Shield retains the rupture on the average case regardless of size or location—no matter how much you exercise, lift, or strain. The Meinhardi Rupture Shield is skillfully molded to each individual as a Dentist makes false teeth. (No leg straps and no cumbersome arrangements).

It is waterproof, sanitary, practically indestructible, and may be worn while bathing or sleeping (continuously day and night) until no longer desired.

Do not neglect to see him on the above date. There is no charge to investigate. This visit is for white people only.

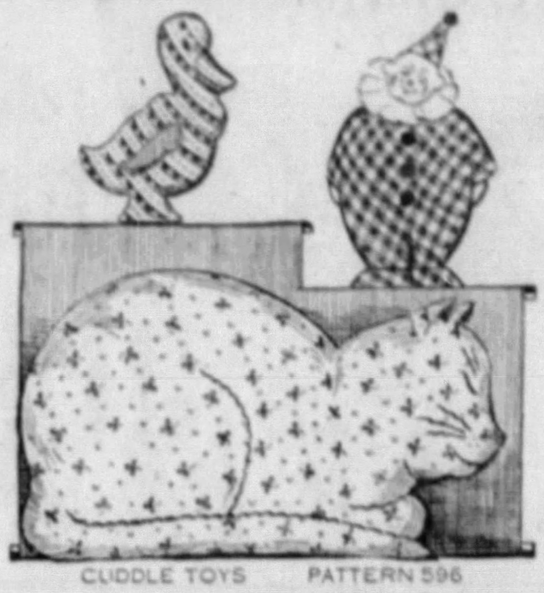
LAURA WHEELER DESIGNS



CUDDLE TOYS PATTERN 596

Every youngster loves a toy that it can cuddle and here is a collection that will meet the needs of every tot. The cat will be a special favorite with mother as well as kiddie for it is a slumber pillow, and being so inviting and sleepy-looking it will surely induce slumber i nthe most rampageous of tots. These toys have another great charm—and this time for the needlewoman. They are made of but two pieces—of course, the duck's wing and the clown's ruff are extra but that doesn't really count. These toys are the sort of thing that while inexpensive to make, will go like hot cakes at a bazaar.

Pattern 596 comes to you in a transfer pattern of one cat pillow about 12 x 16 inches; one clown about 10 inches high and a duck about 9 inches high when done.

Send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) for this pattern to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Needlecraft Dept., 82 Eighth Avenue, New York, N. Y.

ENTRY BLANK FOR THE

Freckled Face Championship of Pittsburgh and Vicinity

WEST VIEW PARK, TUESDAY, JULY 31st

Contest Manager,

RULE ON FRECKLE ASKED

When is a freckle a freckle and where will the line be drawn when freckles are counted? These are some of the questions that the kiddies of Pittsburgh and vicinity are pondering over. For instance, there's one youngster who claims that just one big, brown freckle covers his face. Is that really a freckle or freckles?

Another kiddie wants to know if the freckles on his neck and behind his ears are to be reckoned in the judging. Well, these are spotty problems that the judges will have to wrestle with when the contest to select the freckled face champions takes place at West View Park, Tuesday, July 31.

However, no matter how the judges will look at it, there are plenty of kiddies—boys and girls—who think that they have the championship freckle "map" and they're going out to West View and try and prove it. Scores of entries have already been made in this unique contest. Every boy and girl in and around Pittsburgh, up to 16 years of age and boasting of at least 25 freckles, is eligible to enter.

The freckled face contest will be the outstanding event for the Sun-Telegraph annual National Kiddies' Day and Junior Patrol outing at West View for which hundreds of free strips of tickets for the rides and shows will be given away. Watch the Sun-Telegraph for details.

POLISH FLOODS TAKE HIGH TOLL

WARSAW, Poland, July 18—(AP)—Bodies of 120 victims of raging floods in Southern Poland have been recovered, an official report said today, with 180 missing and believed to have perished.

A new flood menace at Cracow as a crest of water from the mountain regions roared down into the valleys.

More than 15,000 were without food and shelter as swollen rivers continued to leave their banks after days of continuous rain.

Grave apprehension was felt for the food supply, with some 2,000,000 persons populating the inundated districts.

Rail communication in Rumania is cut off and many towns are without electric and gas service.

WHAT can a woman do to be charming?

It isn't a matter of a Grecian profile or gowns with a Paris label. It isn't a matter of age or money. It is often a matter of health.

"I was a disagreeable old spit-cat!" —says Mrs. Davidson

Health means a clear skin . . . sparkling eyes . . . bubbling vitality . . . steady nerves and a dependable disposition. Radiant health is the foundation of beauty and charm. The woman who is healthy and friendly and interested in the world about her cannot fail to be attractive to others.

If you are not as well as you want to be, try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Remember that 98 out of 100 women say, "It helps me!"

"I was so nervous I wanted to scream. Your Tablets helped me wonderfully. My husband remarked last night of the difference he sees in me. I am not that grouchy, disagreeable old spit cat I was three weeks ago. I am a cheerful, joking young girl again."—Mrs. Clarence R. Davidson, 1311 Milburn Blvd., Mishawaka, Indiana.

"All the fun was gone out of life—"

"All the fun was gone out of life. I was very nervous and had terrible backaches. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a great medicine for a woman at any time of life but especially at the Change and before motherhood. My daughter Lucille feels 100% better since she took it. It helped my daughter-in-law, too."—Mrs. S. Matushek, 10907 Edbrooke Ave., Chicago, Illinois.

If periodic pain is dragging you down, ask your druggist for Lydia E. Pinkham's Tablets. Mrs. Marion Sidor, 5436 Grace Street, Chicago, Illinois, says: "I had severe pains and terrible headaches periodically. My husband saw your Tablets advertised and bought me a bottle. They helped me wonderfully — stopped all the pain."

It's old fashioned to suffer. Silly, too, when so many stores sell Lydia E. Pinkham's Tablets. They bring welcome relief from cramping pains, "blue" spells, periodic backache and headache and similar discomforts which undermine a woman's charm.

HUGE RESERVE CLAIMED FOR RAILWAYS

Union Motormen Say Charges Prevent Profit Showing

A depreciation reserve of nearly $11,000,000 more than actual retirements was built up by the Pittsburgh Railways Company in the last 10 years, according to charges today in the hands of the special arbitration board holding hearings on a wage contract for the motormen.

Citing figures from the company's records, O. David Zimring, of Chicago, counsel for the trolley men, contended the company's profits would have shown increases of more than $1,000,000 each year for the past decade if these charges had not been so high.

COMPANY DISPUTES CLAIM

"And we believe this is inadequate. It is based on a capital figure of $52,629,000."

Questioned by the board's chairman, Dr. Joseph W. Madden, Zimring had previously stated that he thought a depreciation charge of about four per cent was all right, but declared that the capital structure of the concern was so high "they wouldn't need to worry for half a century."

The clash was one of several that marked yesterday's session, and Leslie Vickers, of New York, attorney for the company, promised replies to every statement would be made at today's session, when they begin cross examining Zimring.

EXPENSE RISE

Another clash had occurred when Zimring submitted a table showing that the company's "miscellaneous general expense" account jumped from $14,617 in 1923 to $50,734 in 1924 and $103,799 in 1925. In 1933 it showed $90,762.

Zimring pointed out that the company was in receivership in 1923 and passed into private management February 1, 1924, and that approximately $50,000 for the Traction Conference Board was included in the general expense account.

Concluding a resume, Zimring stated:

"The miscellaneous account is usually a graveyard of items that ought to be revealed."

Vickers quickly challenged the statement and Zimring said he meant to say that usually there were items in such an account "which it was better to have classified."

PAY DECREASES

Zimring submitted a tabulation showing the "average earnings" of motormen and conductors decreased steadily from $1,934 a year in 1927 to $1,365 annually last year. The figures were compiled from Public Service Commission reports, he said.

These earnings, he contended, were not sufficient to permit the workmen and their families to live properly in accordance with minimum health and decency standards of the federal government.

The pay rate, assuming a 40-hour week and 50-week year, would have to be 95.7 cents per hour if the workmen's earnings were to meet the cost of such standards, Zimring declared. The men now receive 74 cents an hour for one-man cars.

The union is presenting its side first to the arbitration board, which includes, in addition to Dr. Madden, Councilman John J. Kane, for the union, and Philip A. Fleger, attorney, for the company. The hearings are held in the Bar Association room in the City-County Building.

Coroner Probes Death of Woman On Pyre in Home

The Coroner's office today was investigating the death of Mrs. George Baran, 32, of 306 Seventeenth avenue, Homestead, who was found in bed yesterday enveloped in flames mounting from a burning mattress.

Relatives of the woman, attracted to the room by smoke from the fire, found the doors locked and were compelled to force their way in. Extinguishing the blaze with water and blankets, they placed her in an automobile and rushed her to Homestead Hospital, where she died two hours later.

Her husband and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Matyi, said Mrs. Baran had had a nervous breakdown about seven months ago, but seemed to have fully recovered.

OHIO-ERIE CANAL ROUTE FAVORED

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Construction of the Lake Erie-Ohio River canal moved a step nearer realization today when the United States Board of Engineers approved the proposed Beaver and Mahoning Rivers route.

The action of the Board of Engineers paves the way for recommending the canal project to the National Planning Board as part of the internal improvement program to be financed by funds from the Public Works Administration.

The board upheld the recommendation of Maj. W. D. Styer, district engineer at Pittsburgh, who 10 days ago reported favorably on the proposed canal route via the Beaver and Mahoning Rivers to Lake Erie near Conneaut.

In the reports received by the Board of Engineers, four proposed routes were considered, the others being the Allegheny River-French Creek route; the Sciota-Sandusky route; and the Miami-Maumee route. The board's announcement said:

"These officers recommend the Beaver-Mahoning route believing that greater benefits in comparison with the funds expended would accrue from that route than any other."

Former Radio Man Given Theft Parole

Blaine Moke, former member of the radio team of Riggs and Moke, was placed on probation for six months by Judge Samuel H. Gardner today when he pleaded guilty to stealing an auto radio from Gimbel's department store. Moke was employed in the radio department of the store.

Russians Celebrate At Kennywood Park

Thirty thousand Carpatho Russians of the Pittsburgh district are expected to attend a national celebration in Kennywood Park next Tuesday, according to Dr. Peter Ivan Zeedick, general chairman of the outing. Delegations are expected to attend from Ohio, West Virginia and Maryland.

Thieves Steal Truck, 150 Cases of Beer

M'KEES ROCKS SEEKS TO OUST COUNCILMEN

Citizens Make Demands At Mass Meeting; Waste Charged

The ouster of five McKees Rocks Councilmen for alleged mismanagement in office was demanded at a mass meeting of 300 McKees Rocks citizens in Hamilton School last night.

The charges were reported by Controller D. J. Buckley, whose plan to surcharge the Councilmen, consisting the majority group, and other officials, more than $4,000, was also approved. The money was paid out without authority in salaries, street work, legal services and damages, Buckley charged.

Ford Barnes, an auditor, employed by Buckley, reported that the borough's bookkeeping system was "very loose." Barnes was employed at Buckley's personal expense after Council refused to authorize the new audit.

Barnes said the borough's sinking fund was in a "deplorable condition" and that a $15,000 bond issue, due in March, 1933, is still in default. He estimated the annual sinking fund requirements at $87,100 as compared with $65,000 now set aside.

The five councilmen whom Buckley is seeking to surcharge are Lloyd Sutherland, William Leech, A. D. Burgunder, C. Dorr and C. B. Keebler. Other officers against whom surcharges have been presented are Borough Secretary George W. Gast, Borough Treasurer H. B. Supinger and former Councilman William Buthko.

The mass meeting was called by Buckley and Burgess P. J. Henney.

QUASH INCOME TAX SUIT

An indictment charging Dr. R. P. McClellan, physician and banker of Irwin, and Earl D. Beacham, Homestead dentist, with conspiring to evade income tax for 1930, was nolle prossed in Federal Court on motion of United States Attorney H. S. Dumbauld. The dropping of the indictment was on authority of the Attorney General, as the government, it was said, has accepted a $1,000 compromise in settlement of tax involved.

They were indicted May 3, 1933. The indictment alleged a fictitious sale of securities by McClellan, who claimed a loss of $25,727 and evaded payment of $1,615 tax. The securities were alleged to have been purchased at auction by Beacham and subsequently returned to McClellan for the amount of the bid.

Monument Hill Shelters Last of Pittsburgh's 'Shantytowns,' Born Out of Late Depression

"MONUMENT HILL," PITTSBURGH'S ONLY SHANTYTOWN, OVERLOOKING TRIANGLE

Real Houses Dot Landscape Across From Triangle

Two former rival communities, Coxtown, near old St. Patrick's Church, and Boxtown, the cluster of shanties that clung to the cliffs of Duquesne Heights, are ashes today, burned when authorities determined to find the men better housing.

But Hilltown lives on—unmolested and seemingly a permanent village. Monument hilltop is close to the heart of the North Side, and only a strong stone's throw across the river from the Golden Triangle, but reached only by steep paths up the cliffs or by a rutty, little-known road, it stays as remote as China from the ken of most Pittsburghers.

STEADY GROWTH

Yet its history is three years of steady improvement. Rock, stone, and hard yellow clay are right on the site and free for the picking up.

And scraps of lumber are always plentiful. The men got busy and built houses that are both substantial and weather-proof.

Many of them are solid stone, plastered like the adobe houses of Mexico with clay. The result is a house cool in summer and warm in winter. One is neatly whitewashed inside and decorated with a few colored prints. Others skillfully wallpapered.

There are about 45 houses on the hilltop now, nestled below the highest peak, partially protected from up-river wind and storm. In them live about 90 men. New houses are under construction.

None of his "citizens," however, according to "Mayor" Louis Farrell, are former residents of Coxtown or Boxtown. In fact, Hilltown residents looked down on Coxtown as a poor example of shanty building.

HOMES, NOT SHANTIES

As Mayor Farrell says proudly: "We got houses here. Coxtown had only shanties."

Hilltown's economic system tends to be somewhat communistic. Some of the men work a few days a week, mostly as bill passers. And some of them get relief orders.

All of them share the wood that the city and public utilities dump near the town—mostly branches torn by storms from trees all over town. Cut up and dried, this wood provides fuel all winter long.

SCHOOL CLOSING PROTESTED

Residents of Baldwin Township today had lodged a complaint against the closing of the Becks Run School by the Board of Public Education of Pittsburgh. The complaint was placed before the Baldwin Township School Board by Township Commissioner Miss Alice Linnert.

Miss Linnert told the board that many students of the First District of the township, who attend the city school, would be liable to traffic risks en route to the Wickersham School, in Carson street, where the Pittsburgh School Board proposes transferring the Becks Run students.

CAFE, GASOLINE HOLDUPS LAID TO TRIO

Confessions Claimed After Arrests In Homestead

Nearly a score of holdups in the Downtown, North Side and Hill districts within the past two months were admitted today by a pair of suspects who were arrested by city detectives and Homestead police in Homestead last night, according to a police report. A third suspect was arrested in East Liberty early today.

The suspects, on whose trail Detectives Thomas Morgan and George Moelter have been for the past week, said they were John Arendash, a waiter, and Nick Derembeis, a cook, both of 423 Fifth avenue, Homestead. Mike Arendash, 19, of South St. Clair street, a brother of John, is the third man held. Detectives said the two other men used an automobile owned by Mike.

Arraigned before Magistrate J. W. McGowan in Central Police Court, all were held over for further investigation.

The former were arrested by Morgan and Moelter as they returned to their room last night. In one of Derembeis' pockets police said they found a loaded revolver, and another larger gun was found in their room.

Among the holdups staged, according to detectives, were the Republic restaurant, East Ohio street; the Peoples grill, Grant street, and service stations in lower Penn avenue and Fifth avenue and Tunnel street.

The gasoline stations were held up within 15 minutes of each other Tuesday morning. According to police, the suspects used a stolen car in the holdups and changed license plates after each robbery to elude police.

Victims of holdups within the past few months have been asked to visit the Detective Bureau to view the suspects.

PARISH HOUSE THEFT CHARGED

John Kaslaukas, Jr., of 40 Brady street, and George Meskunas, of 2205 Larkins way, were held for court last night by Alderman William J. Connors, charged with the theft of personal property from the parish house of the St. George Lithuanian National Catholic Church, 105 South Nineteenth street.

The Rev. Father E. M. Zukauskas testified the theft occurred July 13, while a deputy sheriff was selling furnishings to satisfy a judgment awarded Kaslaukas.

The deputy, James Jordan, testified he sold the articles of furniture on which he had levied. He said he entered the house during the pastor's absence by breaking a window.

The Rev. Zukaukas testified that the door of his bedroom had been broken open and that $1, a watch, an alarm clock, two canary birds and other articles valued at $277 had been stolen. The deputy denied breaking into the pastor's room.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., July 19.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Back from the strike, there is no doubt the "reds" run away with the fair conservative leaders in the union. The thing was not as some try to make you believe, 100 per cent one sided. They had some just kicks. And plenty of fair minded people of San Francisco were in sympathy with 'em. They lost lots of that by calling the general strike. When you interfere with everybody's business, you can't get away with it. Now here is something that you don't read about, but there is a lot of 'em, and for lack of a name, we might call 'em "Greens," that is their whole system becomes green when the very idea of a union, or a strike, or anything pertaining to the betterment of labor is mentioned. He is the one that tells who should be look out and shot, if he makes any move to better his condition. So we got radicals on both sides, "reds" on one, and "greens" on the other, both of 'em ought to be run out, and leave it to men that know and feel that there is such a thing as a fair union and a fair employer; the whole thing will prove beneficial, for it will prove that no general strike can win; people might be with you, but when it begins to costing 'em their food, and their inconvenience, they are going to quit you. Sometimes we think we dont know what kind of government we got, but its always bigger than any group of people.

HORSE'S TAIL---50 YEARS OLD AND GOOD AS NEW---TO BE SHOWN AT COUNTY FAIR

Prized Relics Bought And Donated by Buck McGovern

On exhibition at the forthcoming County Fair will be a 50-year-old horse's tail, said to be the only such relic in the state.

Back in the good old days the tail was a popular and almost necessary stable accessory, according to Sergt. U. S. Madden, in charge of the South Park police. He explained its use in this manner:

"It didn't look right to go driving in your carriage with three long-tailed horses and one short-tailed horse. So you attached this extra tail to the bobbed-tail horse and everything would look stylish."

The odd-looking tail will be exhibited in South Park's vehicular museum building along with some equally ancient sets of harness and wagons.

They were all once owned by the late B. F. Jones, Jr., of Sewickley, and were later used by H. Norton Van Voorhis at his Red Gate Farm in Sewickley Heights until his death three years ago.

Commissioner Charles C. McGovern bought them—the tail thrown in—a short time ago and has donated them to the park museum.

Stamps Prettier Now, People Hang 'Em Upon Walls

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

Bill Hays will dine with Postmaster Jim Farley soon. Bill will be surrounded by Democrats but that ain't no novelty now.

Bill will probably make an after-dinner speech. When you are out with the enemy you had better eat first and do the talking afterward.

He will probably tell Jim of the good old days when they sold 2-cent stamps for 2 cents.

Then Jim will gently explain that the stamps are prettier now and people hang them on the wall for pictures.

It will not be long now before you will be buying your stamps in gilt frames, and if you order them in thousand lots, you can get your own mug on the stamps instead of the President's and the man who invented cracked ice.

Tolerance

So I confess myself inadequate
To set you down in words that poets use,
The painting phrase is still one gift of fate
That I have yet to win by right or ruse;
So, if I say your voice is like a harp
You, being you, will never stop to carp—
Nor mark how ill my little praises flow.

So, if I say your mouth against my own
Can still my woes, and race my ready blood,
And that your wistful glance at once has thrown
All my heart-gates ajar to meet the flood;

You will be kind and whisper of my passion—
Lad, this is rare and lovely praise you fashion.

Gag

You can't tell 3,000 miles away how new or old a gag is, but this is the neatest of the parodies on an old one. It deals with a gentleman who was making a speech on the New Deal before a crowded house. Shortly after he started gabbing he lost half the audience, who walked out.

He decided to switch to Communism, but other large groups ankled out. He tried Hitlerism, but they kept walking out on him. He finally was alone with one spectator, and he went into the subject of the NRA.

"I disagree with you there!" cried the lone listener.

"Is that so!" was the retort, "who's talking to you?"

Nifty

Eavesdropped in the lyric of a new ditty:

"You go your way, and I'll go crazy."

Heheheh

A Syracuse reader says the one about the boy's voice changing to a man's and the storekeeper's reply: "One customer at a time!" reminds him of this incident that happened to a hat store manager there:

A very old, nearsighted lady came in to buy a hat for her husband. The manager, after learning what style she wanted, stepped on the ledge to take down a box from the top of the case.

"What size did you say, Madam?" he queried.

Form of Criticism

There always will be that barrier between critics and the stage or screen. But what does a scenario writer think about as he jots down a manuscript? Well, one of them, in explaining a scene, and a character, wrote this to catch the eye (and very likely the decision) of a producer:

"Daniels is a morgue keeper. Daniels is drunk. Daniels is always drunk. Morgue keepers and movie critics should always be drunk."

Observation

The Squelch Proper

Tony Schoenhoff, our Minneapolis gag digger-upper, relays this, which he avers took place in a tiny Minnesota town. A slicker from the city was passing the time one Sunday when he patronized as follows:

"What do you small town folks do on Sundays?"

"The same thing as you do," was the reply, "we get all dressed up and go to a smaller town and show off."

Little Wonder

The more material a star can get for himself, the better, of course. The entertainer feels slighted when he or she is given the background. Now go on with the story. Sam Goldwyn walked onto the Eddie Cantor set the other day where Seymour Felix was rehearsing the chorus girls. Mr. Goldwyn said to Felix:

"What happens here?"

"Well, the girls do a routine," said the director, "then Cantor does his stuff."

"Then what?" asked the producer.

"Then," said Felix, "Cantor does some more stuff. Then in the same scene Cantor does another song."

"But," shrieked Goldwyn, "where is Ethel Merman?"

In Fewer Words

"The big idea," said Baker, "is not to get new friends—but to hold the old ones! Don't forget this—all of us have to book our own pallbearers!"

Add Similes

Novelette

William Haines responded to a call sent him by one of the smallies in Hollywood. The producers lost little time trying to beat down his salary by pulling the small time shoddy trick, to wit:

"You know, Mr. Haines, we cannot pay you a lot of dough. After all, you are no longer the box office attraction or draw you used to be."

"Hell!" replied Haines, "Don't you think I know that? I know I'm no longer a box office draw. If I were—do you think I'd be working for YOU?"

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Vaudeville is to be cleaned up, too. It used to be sweetened in the good old period of big-time two-a-day at the first performance every week, when elimination of double ententre and indelicate allusions were made, if necessary. After that, insofar as the excellent bills in the old Grand, and later in the Davis, were concerned, the program was good for entertainment without a blush. But when vaudeville died and stage presentations in movie houses developed there began to creep into the patter of some masters of ceremonies and comedians the kind of material that had its birth in low-type burlesque houses. Far too much of it has been seen and heard here since the return of "stage shows," so-called. But there will be a change. Other theaters probably will follow the lead of Balaban & Katz, in Chicago, who have notified their house managers to make eliminations of objectionable matter after first performances, with the penalty of dismissal of the artist if he substitutes banned matter with something just as bad. The William Morris booking agency has requested artists' agents to get busy with their clients with the same end in view.

Sophie Tucker, now in England, is considering an offer for an eight-week engagement in South Africa. . . . Elizabeth Risdon, former Guild actress, is playing summer stock in Denver—as leading woman, of course. . . . Eugene Leontovich will have the old Doris Keane role when "Romance" is revived by the Berkshire Players in Stockbridge, Mass., tonight and tomorrow night. . . Fannie Brice, Willie and Eugene Howard will again head the cast of "The Follies" when it begins a road tour in Chicago next month, the itinerary probably to include Pittsburgh for a second showing of the revue. . . . Bert Lahr and Frances Williams are to head the cast of a revue, "Life Begins at 8:40," now in rehearsal in New York. . . . A. H. Woods will star Vivienne Segal in "The Red Cat," a fall promise for Broadway. . . . A revue scheduled for a premiere late this month is "Keep Moving," which will bring Charles King back to the stage.

Rogers Will Sing In Cobb Film

Having presented the sound men at the Fox studios with new vibration worries in the primeval musical interludes with which Will Rogers greets the audience in "Handy Andy," the star's tenor will burst forth into full bloom in Irvin S. Pet Wishes Of Movie Stars

By JIMMY STARR

HOLLYWOOD, July 19—Hello! At last, the movie village has come clean about a few of its suppressed desires. A poll of "Little Ambitions" was taken as follows:

Joan Bennett—To finish "Anthony Adverse."

Mae West—To thank Horace Greeley in person.

Block and Sully—To be as famous in pictures as Burns and Allen.

Cecil B. DeMille—To meet an actor in Hollywood.

* * *

The day of miracles is not passed.

Astrid Allwyn, newly singed Fox Contract player, gave out an interview to all newspaper men and fan magazine writers "That she was not worth writing about."

And that, if you must know, got more space than if she had actually accomplished something.

Wanderings around town . . . A certain actress who has been secretly chasing about with a producer had her photograph snapped in mannish attire—and with a mustache, mind you!—So the movie mogul could have the photo on his desk without wifey becoming suspicious! . . . Mary Russell, the San Francisco shop girl "discovered" by Louise Fazenda, gets a nice role in Dick Powell's movie, "Gentlemen Are Born" . . . Madge Evans has gone in for skeet shooting . . . Marion Byron (bride of Lew Breslow) has replaced Arline Judge in "The Gift of Gab" at Universal . . . Harry Seymour's lungs will get plenty of exercise when he plays the bike race announcer for Joe E. Brown's pedal picture . . . Louie Renault thumbed (meaning hitchhiked) his way from Canada to have lunch with Dick Powell as a bet—and won! . . . The largest dance routine ever staged in Hollywood will be put on by Bobby Connolly for Warners' "Flirtation Walk." It will require four stages for the wedding dance sequence alone! . . . First-Run Picture In Family

The talking screen version of the romantic farce, "Springtime for Henry," is being given its first Pittsburgh showing in the Family Theater, where Will Rogers in "David Harum" has been brought back by popular demand to give the East Liberty house a double feature program. Adapted from the stage play of the same name, "Springtime for Henry" is a semi-sophisticated comedy that tells of Henry, gay philanderer, played by Otto Kruger, who has an uplifting influence brought into his life in the person of Nancy Carroll as Julie, his secretary. Nigel Bruce is also in the cast as the husband of Nancy Carroll, tolerating the affair between his wife and Kruger because he thinks he will be able to sell carburetors to Kruger's company. Heather Angel and Herbert Mundin are also in the cast.

Russell Orchestra Here Saturday

Louis Russell and his 15-piece Negro band will play at the National Park Ballroom, Freeport road, Aspinwall, Saturday evening, July 21. Russell has played at Connie's Inn, New York, where he broadcasted over Columbia and National broadcasting networks, and at the Roseland and Empire Ballrooms in the same city.

Another Bancroft to Bow

Georgette Bancroft, mother and George Bancroft, her dad. Georgette will make her screen debut in the lowliest position on the film ladder, an extra, in "Ladies First," starring George.

Miss Velez Not Mad

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, July 19.—The marital status of Lupe Velez and Johnny Weissmuller is still Hollywood's most exciting topic of the day. With Lupe's divorce complaint only days old, the Mexican star showed up for rehearsals at the Columbia studio with Johnny in tow. Members of "The Girl Friend" troupe report affectionate scenes between the two with Lupe calling for her "darleeng" every few breaths. Another episode in the diverting comedy was staged when the "estranged" couple attended the prize fights together at the Hollywood stadium, with Director W. S. Van Dyke along as extra man.

Very dramatic, the scene that took place on a Warner Brothers set. Since her family fortunes were affected by the market crash, Marcorita Hellman, Los Angeles society girl and daughter of Banker Marco Hellman, has been working in motion pictures under contract to Warners. The other day she was doing a small part in the film, "I Sell Anything," featuring Pat O'Brien. The action called for the hero to step out of a swank automobile and the director instructed the property department to provide one. Presently a luxurious machine rolled upon the set. Most of the company scarcely noticed its arrival. But Marcorita did. For she recognized the car as one that formerly belonged to her father.

James Blakeley, New York socialite and one-time fiance of Barbara Hutton, wonders how come. For 15 days, the young society man, now an actor at the Columbia studio, has been receiving mysterious postcards. They come one a day and each bears but a single letter. So far, the message reads:

"Do you recall a nig?"

McHUGH SILHOUETTE

It is high time more attention is paid to Frank McHugh, of the Homestead (Pa.) McHugh's . . . Frank will be a busy young man in two talkies due in town this week-end . . . He plays Jimmy Cagney's sea-going pal, "Droopy," in "Here Comes the Navy," and is cast in one of his favorite parts, that of a reporter, Joe, in "The Return of the Terror" . . . In the cast listing of each picture he is awarded fourth place, right under the three names given "star" rating . . . I think local writers should give more space to Frank . . . His slow ha-ha-ha is welcomed by screen audiences everywhere . . . Five times out of six he is cast in a "goofy" role . . . Sometimes the character he plays is sober . . . More often than not he is pleasantly inebriated . . . Off the screen, Frank reads law as a hobby, and he can discuss famous criminal cases by the hour . . . Claims he knows all the tank towns between here and there, as he went on the stage 27 years ago, when he was nine, with his father and mother, the Edward McHugh's . . . Trouped through the sticks for years with stock outfits and appeared on the London stage with Jimmy Gleason . . . Finally got a job with his friend, Frank Fay, in a New York show, "Bright Lights," and made his last Broadway appearance in Ziegfeld's "Show Girl" . . . Landed a movie job the day after he reached Hollywood and has worked steadily for the Warners for four years . . . Is a neighbor of Dick Powell . . . admits he sings a good barroom baritone, can hoof a little, play a harmonica and juggle three oranges . . . Has reddish brown hair and freckles . . . And that's Frank McHugh, local boy, who made good in the small towns first.

HIGHER EDUCATION

By unleased wire from Hollywood.

Here's one of fate's little ironies—or maybe it's comedy. Has it ever happened to you? At Virginia Military Institute, swanky Southern school, and a favorite of Pittsburghers, there's a professor who flunked Jack Holt in five examinations in a row when the screen star was a student there a good many years ago.

The other day, on the Columbia set, where Jack is making "The Defense Resis," he received a telegram from his old "prof." And the wire invited him to appear as guest of honor at a special day ceremony of his alma mater!

THE TATTLE TALE

The Warners will never release "Of Human Bondage" in this state in the shape the Pennsylvania censors have left it . . . Unless the title was changed again last night, Mae West's picture is now known as "The Belle of the Nineties" . . . That group of young amateurs who planned to put on productions in the variety ran into "union trouble" and the deal is off . . . Regis Toomey of the Pittsburgh Toomey's, making a determined effort to find a respectable position in the movies again, will show up soon in Monogram's "The Red Head"

Garbo Smiles Patiently Working in Rain

By LLOYD PANTAGES

HOLLYWOOD, July 19—A Boy Scout medal to Greta Garbo for her good sportsmanship during a day's work on "The Painted Veil," when she was required to stand again and again in a heavy rainstorm drench to the skin and unable to change between shots. La Garbo maintained a cheery smile going through the scene many times without the slightest note of disapproval. Bravo!

Kettii Gallian, the lovely French importation to Mr. Fox's studio, who has been allowed to give out no interviews, nor to have any photographs taken, and who has been kept in the utmost seclusion until the powers that be decided to give her to the unsuspecting public, was at last launched into a full day's work last Friday, the thirteenth, with interviews a-plenty and permission to everyone to run her picture in magazines, newspapers, etc. We hope the little woman carries no silly superstition about the day, for she gives every indication of being one of our blue-ribbon winners.

* * *

Note to temperamental stars: Gilmore, a black cat being used in Joe E. Brown's picture, "Six-Day Bike Rider," needed but one rehearsal to turn in a perfect performance on the first 'take.' He was immediately dubbed "One Take" Gilmore and won the approbation of the entire company, since it was the last scene of a long and scorching day out-of-doors and "O. T. G." might easily have kept them for hours. A bowl of cream and a herring to le chat noir.

Maybe I shouldn't tell, but if all you girls really want a thrill, hie yourself to Olympic boulevard any dawn from 7 to 8 and get a glimpse of John Boles pedalling away on his trusty bike for his morning constitutional. Furthermore, John will juggle a monocle in his next opera, "Music In the Air," providing he can master the gentle art. Won't Mr. Arliss be jealous?

* * *

Telescope tidbits: Will Rogers and Shirley Temple, who are the biggest box office draws, wear no makeup whatsoever when facing the camera, and certainly none when off duty. Nils Asther has every femme on the Fox lot aflitter with his long wavy hair, necessary for his role of Franz Schubert in the production, "Serenade." A dash more of hair tonic, barber! Warner Oland, who is really Swedish, makes the most believable Chinese to be seen on the screen. By the by, did you know that his over-lengthy finger nails for said Oriental roles are made out of nothing more than strips of film off the cutting room floor? A walking preview, I calls it.

* * *

Beauty hints: Josephine Hutchinson, the lovely titan, naps regularly one-half hour every day at noon and eats lightly upon arising. She has trained herself to fall asleep immediately, thereby banishing all the cares and worries of the studio for at least 30 minutes. Ain't nature grand? An expert penman had to be hired to sign, not his, but the John Hancock for the actual filming of the first signer of our own Declaration of Independence in "Pursuit of Happiness." For all of you who put ambitions aside too young, here be a true and inspiring story: Mary Boland is at last realizing the ambition of a lifetime in taking toe dancing lessons.

All In A Day

By MARK SELLINGER

Thisa and Thata

IN CALCUTTA, India, some two years ago, there lived a little lady who was greatly admired by the gentlemen of that far-off town. She was about 19 and extremely pretty.

A young American, traveling in India on a trip that combined business and pleasure, blew into Calcutta one morning for a week of soft work and hard drinks. And it wasn't long before he was introduced to the girlie in the first paragraph.

He liked her immediately, and he was soon romancing her in expert Broadway fashion. But she was just as wise as he. And the young man turned to a pal for counsel.

"I don't understand that gal," he complained. "I like her plenty, but she's a very cold proposition. What does a feller have to do to make her show a little interest?"

The other man shrugged his shoulders.

"There isn't a single man in Calcutta," he replied, "who hasn't asked himself the same question. None of us has been able to find out. So the best I can do is to offer a little suggestion:

"Deep down that girl is movie crazy. She thinks she's something of an actress, and she feels she could be a screen star if she had the opportunity. You know a great many motion picture people, and you might approach her along those lines."

It was the old "screen test" gag, of course, but the American went to it with a vengeance. Seeing the girl that night again he raved about her looks. He told her she should be on the screen, and that he was probably the only man in the world who could fix it for her. He gave her to understand that no picture company ever turned out a film without first coming to him for an okay.

"But," he added, "you'll never get anywhere by staying here in Calcutta. I'm leaving for Southern France next week and I'll give you my address. If you really wish to make a stab at pictures, I'll be only too happy to help you out.

"Because you're so beautiful, dear little girl. And so lovely. And so gracious."

And so on . . .

In due time the young American left Calcutta and went to Southern France. The girl, of course, was immediately forgotten. As far as he was concerned, it had all been just a harmless little gag. And very pleasant, too.

But the end was not yet. He received a cable one morning from Calcutta that contained disturbing news. The girl, it seems, had taken him at his word. She was on a boat bound for Southern France and was coming right to the American so that he could put her in the movies!

That was enough for the young man. A joke was a joke. The last thing he wished was to see this girl again. He knew he could do nothing for her in the movie direction, and he never dreamed she would go this far. So he packed his bags, and returned to America.

I hope his wife doesn't see this story. . .

And now for the kick: The girl arrived in Marseilles after the long journey from Calcutta, and went immediately to the address the American had given her. He was back in America by that time. And there was this movie-struck girl, some 7,000 miles from her home and knowing no one.

She never did go back to Calcutta. Somehow or other, she managed to meet a director who gave her a small bit. She played in two or three pictures. You saw her last as one of the wives in "The Private Life of Henry VIII," the Charles Laughton picture. A few months ago she was signed by Doug Fairbanks as his leading lady.

So the girl is now a movie star. And all because a young American lied to her about his motion picture connections! . . .

IT remained for Hugh Wedlock, Jr., to dig up the last of the Scotch jokes.

This one concerns the Scotch racketeer who gave his pals the single-cross! . . .

"DEAR MARK:" writes Jack Benny. "Remember the vaudeville act in which a girl climbed into a box and was supposedly cut in half?

"Well, the other day this same lady caught a Mae West talkie—and now she's telling her friends to come up and saw her sometime!" . . .

* * *

THEY were talking of a producer who has had a fine season.

"He's a great guy," said one. "Why the man never stops laughing!"

* * *

She's doing a comic strip! . . .

AT a society gathering on the coast some months back, Primo Carnera was among the guests.

Also present was a charming lady who speaks Italian fluently, and she had a long talk with the fighter. Primo, a nice guy with a child-like mind, was speaking of his brother.

"He's bigger than I am," said Carnera, "and heavier, too. But I don't think he'll ever be a fighter."

"Why not?" asked the lady.

Leon Errol Signed For Talkie

Leon Errol, comedian with the famous rubber legs, and Del Henderson, veteran screen player, have been signed for important roles in "The Captain Hates the Sea." Lewis Milestone is directing. The cast in process of being assembled for this feature includes such well known picture personalities as John Gilbert, Victor McLaglen, Wynne Gibson, Fred Keating, Alison Skipworth, Florence Rice, Luis Alberni and Jerry Howard, Larry Fine and Moe Howard.

Panama Canal Zone Film Starts

"Marie Galente," starring Kettie Gallian and Spencer Tracy in a production with a Panama Canal Zone background, written by Reginal Berkeley, has gone into production at Fox Movietone City. Arthur Byron was assigned to play the part of General Phillips in the picture. Included in the cast are Ned Sparks, Helen Morgan, Siegfried Rumann, Leslie Fenton, Robert Loraine, Nick Foran, Frank Darien and Stepin Fetchit.

Big Strike On Screen

Vivid pictures of the great general strike that has tied up San Francisco are contained in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News, with the Globe reporter describing the scenes. Mayor Rossi, in a forceful statement, declares that every means at hand will be used to keep order.

First pictures of President Roosevelt at the Panama Canal show the cruiser Houston moving majestically through the Gatun locks while shore batteries boom a 21-gun salute. The President is shown waving farewell from the deck of the cruiser as he continues his journey on to Hawaii.

The strange disappearance of little Bobby Conner, 21-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Conner, of Hartsdale, N. Y., is brought to the screen in pictures of the boy, his parents, and his home. Hundreds of volunteers are seen hunting the child.

Jacksonville, Ill., is visited by a tornado. Many are injured and the damage is put at $1,000,000, with hundreds of families homeless.

PLAYING WITH FIRE!

Distinguished Scientist Warns Mankind of Threatening Disaster

Destructive Scheme Our Ancestors Started by Learning How to Use Fire May Cause Calamity Within Next Century, Reveals Eminent Scholar

WOULD human beings still be savages if our early ancestors had not discovered the use of fire? Most people think they would. But this assumption is now seriously challenged by science with interesting and rather disconcerting results.

What Man Lost When He Found Fire!

Professor Rene Thevenin, the distinguished French scientist, insists that the discovery of fire by Man was as much a bane as a boon to humanity. He explains exactly why he thinks so in a startling and informative article appearing in next Sunday's issue of The American Weekly. Be sure to look for it!

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh's Society Happenings

In Mayfair —With— Patricia Pitt

A Pittsburgh granddaughter will be a debutante this fall. But she won't come out in Pittsburgh.

She's Elisabeth West, daughter of Mrs. James Austin, of New York, and granddaughter of Mrs. Elisabeth M. Horne, former prominent Pittsburgher, who now spends most of her time in Southampton and New York.

Mrs. Austin, who is a daughter of Mrs. Horne, will present her daughter to New York society at a dinner-dance at The Pierre December 8. The deb-to-be is a daughter of Mrs. Austin by a previous marriage to Charles Gifford West.

The young deb is known in Long Island as an accomplished horsewoman. She and her mother have maintained a stable of importance for some years.

Newcomer at the T. R. Miners

The newcomer is a baby girl, born Tuesday morning to the Carrolls' son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. Theodore Richardson Miner, of Brooklyn, New York. Mrs. Miner is the former Florence Carroll who made her debut here a few years ago.

Information of the baby's arrival comes from Mrs. Miner's sister Mary Carroll, who has been the capable chairman of publicity of the Pittsburgh Junior League for several years. Mary expects to be in New York until mid-August. Her family is there for the summer.

* * *

Ignoring the troublous condition of Germany, Mrs. Henry M. Curry, Jr., of Beechwood boulevard, has sailed for Berlin to visit her son-in-law and daughter, the John McCall Kingsleys.

Mrs. Curry sailed Tuesday night from New York after a brief stay at the Drake, New York. She expects to be abroad until September.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Jewish Home for the Aged is sponsoring a benefit garden party Wednesday, July 25, which was previously scheduled for July 18. There will be card playing on the grounds and indoors. Mrs. Lewis Alpern and Mrs. A. E. Rosenfield are in charge of the party.

Bridge Breakfast One Of Congress' Most Popular Activities

A suggestion for the busy hostess—a good suggestion any time, but especially on the hottest days—is to take your guests to the Congress of Clubs' bridge breakfasts. The first one of the season is scheduled for Tuesday, at 11 o'clock in the Congress house, and is one of the organization's most popular summer activities.

Mrs. H. M. Irons, a member of the board of directors, is general chairman. Mrs. H. D. Stark and Mrs. R. E. Thompson have arranged the menu for Tuesday, and they are also in charge of cards.

The tables will be decorated with garden flowers by Mrs. R. B. Stanger, Mrs. George K. Schlotterer and Mrs. C. C. Beach, and the prizes are being selected by Mrs. May T. Neff and Mrs. Chester F. Johnson.

Reservations are being taken by Mrs. Robert T. Alexander, but they will also be received at the club house. There will be singles or complete tables for both contract and auction players.

And the hostesses for the day will be the president, Mrs. Oliver J. Haller, and the members of the board of directors, Mrs. Sherman Massingham, Mrs. J. E. White, Mrs. David Alter, Mrs. R. H. M. MacKenzie, Mrs. Mary Murphy, Mrs. Walter Nuttall, Mrs. Thomas Sankey and Mrs. Robert J. Watson.

Mrs. C. C. Beach, who is the Congress director, has just returned from Springfield, Mass., where she has been visiting for six weeks.

Fiancee Shouldn't Heed Seer, Girl Advised

This girl asks me if I don't think two young people should take their happiness in their own hands, and not allow any crystal-gazer to mould it for them.

And I agree. She and this fellow were to be married this fall. But now that the fortune-teller has foretold that she will become infatuated with another man, and soon, the fiance is back-pedaling.

Miss Brunot

We read, the stars im their courses fought against Clivre. But also we learn that Napoleon refused to have his future mowed up, and insisted he was his own destiny . . . That is the sort of stuff a young man should be made of . . . He shouldn't be such a poor sport as to believe anything a fortune-teller says...Remember, the woman was paid, and she had to say something.

MARRIAGE SERIOUS

A wedding ever is a RISK, sister . . . And the man who doesn't enter into the portals of wedlock in such a spirit, is a little shaky in his knees, and don't you marry him until he becomes more firm in his tread . . . Marriage, these days, requires sure-footedness.

Tell this boy friend that your wedding must be a private matter, not to be decided by whatever way the wind blows . . . Otherwise, you would rather not be married at all... This may change him about.

URGES MORE BOY FRIENDS

Here is a mother discouraged because her daughter doesn't have more dates with the boys . . . She thinks a girl should have plenty of admirers, goggle-eyed over her . . . If she were young again, and if there weren't those sagging muscles about her throat, wouldn't the house be ringing with merriment. Wouldn't there be a few mad youths clamoring for admission.

And so she fumes and grows distraught at intervals, and lets daughter know just how she is feeling.

Dear Miss Brunot:

I am a high school graduate. I have been out of school for a year and yet I have not been successful in finding anything very interesting in life. It seems as if everything was against me. I hate to go to bed at night, and I hate to get up in the morning. I don't like to go out, and I don't like to stay at home. There was a time in high school when I went to a number of parties, but now I seldom have a date. I was never very popular, but I did go out a lot more than I do now.

BOY FINDS OUT

Last year I went with a boy, and we used to double date with another girl and her fellow. She was my best girl friend, and the two boys were good friends. Then one day another fellow asked me for a date, and I accepted him, and we went out some together. And I did not tell my first friend. He found out, and quit me.

I want the first fellow back, and think of him constantly. He doesn't go steady with anyone, and I have been told he hasn't had many dates for a long while. I'm not clever, I'm only honest.

My girl friend and her boy friend are still together. Should I ask her to arrange a date with this young man for me?

At times my mother is very discouraged. She says I do not have enough friends among the boys. She likes me to be dated up and around a lot with the fellows . . . But I am not anxious unless I could be with this one fellow.

CHUM TURNS COLD

Also my girl friend has been treating me coldly of late. She never asks me to go places with her and when she is out with her boy friend she doesn't tell me much about it, or doesn't ask me along.

All my other girl friends have boy friends, too, and treat me indifferently. If they have an extra fellow and want another girl, they get someone else. Can you tell me the reason for all this? The boy I would like to go with has a birthday soon. Would it be o. k. to remember it? MARJORIE.

I wonder, Marjorie, if that phrase of yours, I'm not CLEVER, but only HONEST, is not causing you trouble? I once knew a woman who was always saying this very thing. She thrust it down our throats in cool and in warm weather. People didn't like it. It is a predisposed fact, we are an honest folk. We aren't cut-throats, neither do we steal from our friends. So why should anyone of us assume she is the only honest one. If you do this, people will steer clear of you. The better-than-thou-attitude gets our goats.

SOMETHING TO LIVE UP TO

After all were you practicing this virtue when you two-timed the boy friend who was entertaining you, and went out frequently with another? You see, if a girl keeps telling everyone how honest she is, people will begin believing her...and when she does deviate ever so little, it will be held against her.

I am only saying this to help you, sister. Also get out in the sunshine more than you do. See this girl friend of yours, and get her to help you win back your boy friend. She will only be too glad to do so...No doubt, she has sympathized with him, instead of you.

Your mother is a romantic soul...She wants you to have a good time. Make more of a confidante of her...it will be worthwhile.

UNENGAGED YOUNG PEOPLE SHOULD BE CIRCUMSPECT, SAYS FAY KING

By FAY KING

Unless young persons are really in love and engaged to be married they should not be exclusively identified with one another.

When they just like to go about dancing together and having good fun in their crowd they should have this understanding—that they are only good dancing pals and free to look about.

Youth is a time for meeting and making new friends. They must not resent attentions from others, or toward others.

It should be proper for any young man in the company of friends to invite any one of the young ladies to the next occasion when they will get together.

There should change about as escorts so that they are not too much identified with any one's crowd while they are not seriously interested.

THE BERET CASTS ITS FALL SHADOW AHEAD

By PRUNELLA WOOD.

THE BERET cannot be buried, as one cogent advertiser puts it, and pun or no pun, it's the simple truth. But this crop of berets is very fresh and new looking, in many ingenious variations, in many sizes, and trimmed with unfamiliar devices.

* * *

LATER ON we shall be wearing fur berets which scoop up on one side with an Alpini bravo, or which show a turban-like edge that reminds one of Little Women—even to the row of tiny stuffed birds edging it.

* * *

QUILLS STUCK in at a jaunty angle, little round knobs on top like the Grand Panjandrum's, and big rhinestone hat pins are some other new trims for the new berets. And by mid-July we are finding them very smart as a dark accent to heads grown slightly weary of garden hats or those of some other light straw persuasion.

The all-white antelope beret is a good transition step, and it bids fair to be a classic midsummer model, in a race with the perenial Panama hat.

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By Josephine Culbertson

Creating a Coup Situation

Perhaps Miss Lee Goode, of New York, should have supported her partner's strongly bid suit rather than have chosen to rebid her honors in clubs, as that suit had been denied by implication and an unfavorable distribution of it was to be anticipated. Had she done so, however, the opportunity for a very interesting coup situation would not have arisen in the play of the hand below, which was one of a series dealt in a Duplicate match in New York City recently. The term "coup," as used here, describes the play in a trump suit whereby an opposing trump which appears sure to make a trick is captured. It is a rare play because it is based on, first, an unfavorable trump distribution, and, second, a favorable distribution in certain other suit or suits. This, so that the lead can be in the Dummy at the twelfth trick and the hand to be couped led through. Because of its comparative rarity, a great many otherwise good players lack the technique to carry it out. Thus the fulfillment of a trump coup such as this is an evidence of exactness of thought and careful planning of the play. The hand was:

East, Dealer,

	♠ 8 4 3 ♡ J 10 9 ◇ 6 5 ♣ 9 7 6 3 2
♠ A Q 7 ♡ 8 7 3 ◇ K 10 9 8 4 3 2 ♣ —	North West East South	♠ J 10 9 2 ♡ A 2 ◇ Q ♣ A K Q 10 8 4
	♠ K 6 5 ♡ K Q 6 5 4 ◇ A J 7 ♣ J 5

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 ♣	1 ♡	2 ◇	Pass
4 ♣ (1)	Pass	4 ◇ (2)	Pass
5 ♣ (3)	Pass	Pass	Double (4)
Pass (5)	Pass	Pass

1—Three clubs would have been a better bid at this point.

2—Of course West rebids his seven-card suit.

3—Whether or not East should bid five clubs is an open question; but having started something, she probably was correct in finishing it.

4—This Double is a particularly bad one, but North hoped his partner had a trick in diamonds in view of the bidding, and that the East and West hands were misfits.

5—East rightly decided not to bid five diamonds. As a matter of fact, that contract could not have been fulfilled. The one game contract sure of fulfillment against any defense would be four spades, but unfortunately East's spades were too weak to bid.

South opened the heart King. East won with the Ace and laid down two rounds of trumps. When the Jack fell from the South hand on the second lead, it was of course apparent that North held the remaining trumps and that in order to capture them all a coup was necessary. The Queen of trumps was led and followed with the Queen of diamonds. This South won with the Ace and returned the heart Queen, which won.

South continued with a third round of hearts, which East ruffed, thus reducing the number of trumps held by her to the number held by North. The Jack of spades was led, and South refused to cover, and the Seven was played from the West hand. Another spade was led, the finesse of the Queen taken and the Ace of spades next laid down. When North followed to this trick, the King of diamonds was led, upon which a good spade in the East hand was discarded. Now another diamond was led, and this one North was forced to trump. East overtrumped and won the club Nine with the Ten. North's five trumps had, due to East's careful play, proved to be valueless.

Given in Marriage -:- A Sequel to Heart Of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Hugh, Despite His Injury Takes Command

As I told Hugh Grantland that I not only should insist he have a doctor to see to the cut in his shoulder, but that he must go to the farm, where we could look after him, there was that in his eyes, as he looked up at me, which made me quickly avert my own.

It was a look which I knew I must not meet openly, for meeting it would involve the recognition of something which I knew Hugh was striving to control—his feeling for me. He was not always able now to conceal it, a new and unwelcome phenomenon in his behavior, but I knew that he was honestly striving to keep his true feeling hidden beneath a mask of friendliness and good comradeship.

Bill's voice was a welcome diversion.

"Did you say your car was on the road outside, here?" he asked.

"Not mine; Bob's runabout," I answered. "Katie is guarding it. And how we're going to get Uncle Hugh down to it, and get him home, without anybody seeing him, I don't know."

"I do," Bill said unexpectedly. "We won't need to go down that way at all."

KNOWS OTHER ROAD

His eyes were bright with the consciousness of special knowledge or power which is so dear to the heart of youth, and I smiled at his enthusiasm.

"Tell me," I said.

"There's a wood road the other side of this," he said, gesturing toward the opening in which the Chinese had first appeared. "It's big enough for a car to come almost up to the opening there, and just a few feet back of the gap in the trees there's a place where you can turn around. Ten to one, the Chinks have a car there. If they have, and there's nobody in it—which is a cinch, else they'd have come over at your scream—we can use it to get Uncle Hugh back to the farm. Shall I skin over and see if there is one there?"

"Search their pockets first for the keys," I said. And the two boys went at their task with the zest possible only to very young enthusiasts.

"Yep," here's a bunch," Bill said, and a second later Hank produced a similar bunch, while the black, beady eyes of the owners spelled hatred.

"It's a good thing we have authority behind us," Hugh said faintly. This is a pretty high-handed proceeding. But I'm certain these were the fellows that shot Dicky, and I must find out their relations to Lee Chow."

I shivered at the thought of how nearly these miscreants had put an end to my husband's life. But I knew I must not think of Dicky now, however much my thoughts wished to dwell upon him and his anxiety over his drawing arm. Hugh was in real danger from loss of blood, and we must get these Chineses to the farm unobserved.

"May we go look for the car now?" Bill asked.

I looked at Hugh. Now that he was conscious, I felt relieved of responsibility.

"Of course," Hugh replied. "But take this." He thrust a revolver into Bill's hand. "It isn't loaded, but you can put up a good bluff with it. However, I should recommend you to go around through the underbrush, instead of straight across the glade."

"Trust us," Hank said, swaggering a bit. "I wouldn't cross that open space, unless I knew what was on that other road, for all the money in this county. But we're pretty fair Indians. We won't make much noise, and we'll hurry, too. Shall we both come back, or one stay with the car and get it turned round ready to go?"

MAKES HUGH COMFORTABLE

"If you're very sure there's no one lurking around, and I'm quite sure there isn't," Hugh said faintly, "one of you stay with the car and the other come back and tell us how large it is."

The boys sped away, and Hugh moved his head restlessly. I saw that it was resting upon a gnarled root, and I slipped my hand under his cheek until I could substitute the sweater which Jim, at my signal, pulled off and folded for me.

"I'd rather have the hand," Hugh whispered faintly, as I slipped the sweater beneath his head. But when I shook my head at him I saw that the gesture was a futile one, for he had closed his eyes and I had to look closely to determine that he had not swooned again.

"Is there anything you want me to do, Mis' Graham?" Jim's honest voice sounded anxiously at my side.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

When the complexion is excessively oily, the sebaceous fluids are not thwarted by powder; they combine with it, go shining on just the same.

Before putting on the cosmetic calcimine, go over the skin surface with a bit of cotton that has been dipped in eau de cologne. The alcoholic content will cut away the oil as soap suds never can. Watch the diet, that may be at fault; less fatty foods, more vegetables, green salads and fruit juices.

Eyebrows are coming down again. They've been soaring, especially at the far ends. On the chubby faced girl whose features follow the circular plan, the eyebrow that goes scooting up almost to the hair line is nothing less than disfiguring. Easy to make a change. In many cases that extension is nothing more than a fine line of crayon. Eyebrows naturally follow the ridge of the eye socket. If they are thick and unruly, they must be slenderized. But the crazy zig-zag eyebrow is old stuff, ready for the discard.

Washing Glass

Correct Manners

Tardy Gift

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please help me in composing a little note which I am going to enclose with a wedding gift? This gift should have been sent out about six months ago, but as money is not so very plentiful, I just had to hold everything.

I really am ashamed of myself for having had to wait this long, so I thought perhaps if I enclosed a note offering an apology and so forth that maybe they wouldn't think so hard of me, or do you think this is very silly? W.

No, indeed, I don't think that this is "silly." Instead I admire very much your forthright explanation to me . . . and I am sure that they will just as much, more even, appreciate your forthrightness with them. Depression has made budgeteers of us all, and nowadays everyone is understanding about the necessity of having to "hold everything." So don't feel a bit self-conscious about this tardy present. Perhaps you'd like to write a note worded something like this

Dear Sally:

I wonder if you'd be so kind to me as to understand my late sending of your wedding present? Here it is, the gift that should have been sent several months ago, but it comes to you, dearest Sally, with a heart full of love and all dearest wishes to you, and a gent'e plea that you will forgive its tardiness. I wanted to give you just this gift . . . and it couldn't be done before. And I'm so sure of your dear friendship that I just know it won't make the least bit of difference to you, so long as it comes to you, as it certainly does, "packaged with my love." And I hope that it will find a place in your new home in which it can be useful.

Dearest of love to you and Jack, and please let me see you soon. May I?

Affectionately yours,

DRAW IS MADE FOR CUP PLAY

LONDON, July 19.—(AP.)—The draw for the interzone final between the United States and Australia today pitted Frank Shields, No. 1 ranging star of America, against Jack Crawford, the Australian leader, and Sidney B. Wood, Jr., against young Vivian McGrath in the opening singles matches Saturday.

George M. Lott, Jr., and Lester Stoefen, United States and Wimbledon doubles champions, will play Crawford and Adrian Quist in the doubles match Monday, July 23, and Shields will meet McGrath and Wood will go against Crawford in the last two singles encounters next Tuesday.

The draw was held at the headquarters of the Lawn Tennis Association with Capt. R. Norris (Dick) Williams, Lott and Shields as the American representatives.

Both teams scheduled workouts this afternoon on the Wimbledon center court where the matches will be played.

Joe Vitteli Held On Assault Charge

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., July 19.—Joe Vitelli, of Pittsburgh, star pitcher of the local club of the Mid-Atlantic League, has an assault and battery charge against him and is out on $500 bail.

Vittelli is charged by James P. McLaughlin, Sr., of McKeesport, with having assaulted his son, James McLaughlin, Jr., in a fight in front of a restaurant.

WARES INJURED

BROOKLYN, N. Y., July 19.—(AP.)—Clyde Wares, coach of the St. Louis Cardinals, suffered a possible fracture of an arm yesterday when he was struck by a batted ball in practice. Wares was pitching during batting drill before the game, and Frank Heals drove a liner each at him. He was unable to dodge and threw up his arm to protect his face, getting the blow on his right forearm just below the elbow.

SPORTS COMMENT BY HARRY KECK

Motorboats Defended.
Aid to Fishing.
Not a Detriment.

New Angle Presented.
Medica Hailed.
'Greatest Swimmer'

Does motorboating kill the fishing in streams and rivers by:

1—Polluting the water with oil and gasoline?

2—Maiming fish by striking them with the hull or propeller?

3—Scaring away the finny tribe?

4—Destroying the spawn and gradually eliminating fishing entirely?

These are interesting questions just now, with the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph campaigning to open up the three rivers for sports and the start having been made with its big motorboat regatta in conjunction with the Oakmont Boat Club over the last week-end.

Enthusiasts of motorboating have been assailed by fishermen on the above grounds ever since their sport came into vogue.

Are the charges true? Are they false?

Willard Crandall, a fisherman of note himself, writing in the current issue of Field and Stream, a sportsmen's publication, runs them down, finds they do not hold up, and, more, makes a point that, rather than being detrimental to the propagation of fishing, motorboating actually helps fishing conditions. He writes, in part:

This, in general, is what the outboards are accused of: killing fish by introducing carbon monoxide into the water; killing fish by hitting them with the propeller; and killing spawn by any number of different means.

The first is easily disposed of. So far as can be ascertained, there is no proof that carbon monoxide gas is harmful to fish life. Furthermore, the amount of carbon monoxide released into the water by the ordinary outboard or the underwater exhaust of an inboard motor is so little as to be of no consequence.

CHARGES ARE PROVED FALSE

The next question—that of hitting fish with the propeller—is somewhat different. Here it seems reasonable to believe that the propellers occasionally hit fish; but it seems unreasonable to believe that they hit them often enough to have any appreciable effect on the fish life. Fish do not customarily stay close enough to the top of the water to be in a position to be hit. They will be found farther down from the surface, where their food lies. If they do stay near the top, it is usually in water too shallow or weedy for an outboard to run.

I have not been able to discover any authenticated case of dead fish floating ashore that were cut up in such a way as to indicate death from a propeller. In the case of the slower outboard boats, the fish, frightened by the vibrations in the water and the oncoming shadow, would dart out of the way to safety. In the case of the fast outboard hydroplane, they would not have such a chance. But an outboard hydroplane, balanced as it is on two planes, is very likely to be upset—"flipped" is the racer's term—by striking a good-sized fish. I know of several cases where such boats were spilled by hitting mud-hens. I never heard of an upset being blamed on a fish.

When it is considered how small an area, taking into account the total size of a lake, is traversed by a nine-inch propeller, it becomes increasingly apparent that the killing of fish in this way, if it exists at all, is so slight that the effect on the numbers of fish would never be noticed.

The third contention—that outboards destroy the spawn or interfere with spawning—is the one most often raised and the one that has the most plausibility. I might mention first one allegedly harmful effect that comes under this category and that has no plausibility at all—"The film . . . of oil . . . resulting from frequent trips seals the doom of baby fish." It is not necessary here to argue the question of whether oil kills fish. Motor boats, whether inboard or outboard, should not leave a film of oil upon the water if in good mechanical condition. A careless operator may spill gasoline or oil upon the surface of lake or stream, but a good motor burns it up clean. Furthermore, anyone who has used large quantities of oil on small ponds to kill mosquitoes knows that even if outboards did constantly leak oil an extraordinary quantity would be needed to create a film over a lake.

But the anti-outboard men generally do not base their case on such flimsy material as this. They claim, and such claims are generally believed, that outboards destroy large numbers of fish eggs by disturbing the water. A certain plausibility, again, has made this belief widespread. But, on investigation, it has been proved incorrect.

Now let's examine the other side of the picture. What good does the operation of motor boats do the game fish of our inland lakes?

The production of spray and foam is the best known means of introducing oxygen into the water from the air. Fish, like all animals, have to breathe, and the essential element taken in this way is oxygen. This oxygen comes almost entirely from the air. Oxygen in the air is slightly soluble in water. Any disturbance of the surface water, of course, increases greatly the amount entering.

Healthy fish mean more fish and better fish. As with all animals, oxygen is a prime requisite of the fish for life and health. No harm can be done by an over-supply; much harm can be done by an under-supply. The constant running of outboard motors is the most practical artificial means known to increase the supply of oxygen in the water.

The South Dakota Game and Fish Commission is among those making wide use of outboard motors to introduce oxygen into lakes in the wintertime. In the summer, of course, there are plenty of outboards running on the lakes. In the winter it is naturally impractical to run motors on boats. In South Dakota the motors are placed in frames over holes cut in the ice, with the propeller violently churning up the water. Small holes are cut elsewhere in the ice to allow the water that has been thrown on top of the ice to run back into the lake at various points.

The fast outboard hydroplane is most effective in introducing oxygen into the water. Because of the bottom design of these boats, the propellers are set very close to the surface, a great deal of spray, foam and churning of the water resulting. Propellers on these boats turn upward of 5,500 revolutions a minute, making them very efficient in this process of milling the surface water—mixing the oxygen in.

Once introduced into the water, oxygen remains there until absorbed by fish or plants. Even though there may be a sufficiency of oxygen in the summertime, constant running of outboards during that season will help introduce an additional supply that may be of great value during the following winter and spring.

The use of motor boats, particularly outboard racing boats, in the summer on small inland lakes should be encouraged by fishermen, for it means more oxygen, and more oxygen means more fish and more active fish. If a long winter and a dry, calm spring follow, the oxygen so introduced will be of still greater value. While there may be some cases of outboard motors killing fish by hitting them with propellers or frightening the breeders from spawning beds, the fact that outboards are considered the best-known artificial means of supplying oxygen makes it evident that fishermen and those interested in better fishing conditions should encourage rather than discourage their use.

Medica is 19 years old, wears glasses when not competing, and started swimming when he attended the same high school as Helene Madison in Seattle.

It is said Frank Shields, the tennis player, who once turned down a bid to turn professional, will accept after this season . . . Leo Diegel, the professional golfer, says he feels old at 35, with most of his career behind him . . . Tennis authorities will tell you they would back Bill Tilden, Billy Johnston, Rene LaCoste and Henri Cochet of a few years ago against Fred Perry, Jack Crawford, Frank Shields and Sidney Wood, the present reigning stars.

The most widely advertised feature of the baseball writers' annual picnic at Marble Gate Inn next Sunday will be the turtle soup, but you may have my portion . . . Incidentally, the affair is open to all sportsmen, who may buy tickets through any of the local sports scribes . . . Being loyal softballers, the employes of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph are holding out for this game instead of mushball at the picnic.

UPSETS MARK SUN-TELEGRAPH NET PLAY

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

The annual Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Pittsburgh Parks tennis championships swing into the third day of action this afternoon on the rectangles of Frick, South, Schenley, West, Highland, Olympia and North Parks with second and third round men's singles contests slated for clean-up and women's singles billed to begin on all lots except West, where feminine aspirants are already well under way. It is the aim of the committee in charge to hustle as many masculine contenders as possible beyond the quarter-final brackets before nightfall.

A second afternoon and evening of perfect weather yesterday set the stage for further heavy inroads into the record field, 82 jousts being disposed of in the man-to-man event and five in the ladies' for a total of 87, that topped the 85 mark of the inaugural session Tuesday.

In contrast to the opener, when but one seeded luminary fell by the wayside, yesterday saw no less than three casualties among the favorites. Joe O'Neill, former Duquesne netman and fourth on the Olympia list, went down before the steadiness of Milton Deithorn, 4-6, 9-7, 6-3. Meanwhile Emil Stankey, third of the chosen quartet at North, faded badly in stanza two to absorb a decisive lacing from young Bob McMorran, of Glenshaw, 7-5, 6-0, and Bill Berrehsem, former Wash-Jeff grid star, who had landed No. 4 rating at South, was eliminated by Jimmy Peitz, Duquesne University dark horse, 6-4, 6-1.

Gene Solow, late of Pitt's net host, was likewise a select contestant to step into torrid water. Ranked second at Schenley, Solow caught a tough one in Celio Capelli, an altogether unheralded junior from Bluff street, and when dusk deepened to terminate scrimmaging last evening, the pair were deadlocked at 6-4, 4-6, 9-9 and the engagement anybody's ball game.

Jimmy Slocum, hard-walloping but erratic Pittite, spilled a bit of Frick dope by downing Dick Cable, Panther boss of nearly a decade ago, 6-3, 6-4, and Paul Lackner, Duquesne yearling, knocked off Norman Solow, 6-4, 4-6, 6-4, at Schenley.

PIRATES LOSE GROUND IN DUAL BILL

NEW YORK, July 19.—The spectre of a second-division berth loomed for the Pirates as they opened a four-game series with the Dodgers this afternoon at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn. Losing both ends of a doubleheader to the Braves in Boston yesterday, the Buccos were only one-half game ahead of the fifth-place Braves as they departed from Boston.

The two nerve-straining defeats sustained by the Traynor clan at Boston had the effect of throwing the Pittsburgh entry about 10 games below the league-leading Giants. Many Pirate supporters, therefore, were ready to toss in the towel, as far as the 1934 flag was concerned.

L. WANER STUMBLES

The Pirates failed to take advantage of their opportunities in their last stand in Boston else they might have won both contests. L. Waner stumbled as he headed for the plate in the eighth inning with what probably would have been the first run of the game. Lloyd was cut down before he could get to the goal, and the Braves came in and made three runs to cop the contest. They hit Ed Holley and Red Lucas timely in the second contest to make it a big day. The scores were 3 to 1 and 7 to 5.

Larry French was reeling off a shutout classic in the first game and he had two men out in the eighth before Hal Lee clipped him for a double with the bases loaded to score three runs. L. Waner almost made a one-hand catch of the long drive. French held the Braves to seven hits, but had to bow to Fred Frankhouse.

HOLLEY HIT HARD

Holley started his first game in the second encounter, but the big righthander could not hold the Tribe in check. Lucas went to the mound in the fourth and Waite Hoyt pitched the last inning.

The Pirates knocked Walter Betts off the mound in the last fight, but they were checked by Southpaw Eddie Brandt, although the Pirates worked up to two situations where a hit would have changed the whole complexion of the scrap.

CHILLYSAUCE

Bill Terry, the plain-speaking and bright manager of the world champion Giants, refused to let his team play a synthetic doubleheader in St. Louis on his second western tour. The commercialized pleadings of Magnate Breadon fell upon barren ground as Memphis Bill put the "thumbs down" gesture on the plan in deference to the well-being of his club. And Terry's club came out of the series successfully, in fact, Bill's judgment in that particular series may pay a big premium on October 1.

The Pirates had to play two synthetic dual bills in Boston and Pie Traynor's team left the Hub with a shaken morale. Manager Pie may have been forced into the arrangement whereas Terry had a league law to guide him. The rules state that no doubleheaders can be arranged before June 15 without the consent of the opposing club, and Terry stood on his prerogative. To further mince matters for Traynor, he must see his team in idleness tomorrow in order that the Dodgers' owners can have a Sunday bargain attraction.

Any Pirate followers who have seen Lloyd Waner stumble in rounding the bases are sure to be impatient with the Bucco centerfielder as a result of his stumbling act of yesterday in Boston. Had Lloyd stayed on his feet in the eighth inning he stood to score a run which would have been the first marker of the first contest. A run at this point might have changed everything; it probably would have taken the starch out of the Tribe which jumped on the "break" and won the contest in the same inning.

Lloyd is perhaps the worst runner of the speedboys of the Pittsburgh club. He runs in a top-heavy position with his arms barely swinging. As long as he travels straightaway he is O. K., but when he has to turn at the bases he is without a good balance and the least obstacle pitches him on his head. Yesterday was not the first time he has done a base-running nose dive in a clinch.

The sensational success of Pitcher Curt Davis certainly acts as anything but a consolation to Harold Joseph Traynor who two years ago tried to get the Pirates to take on the big righthander when the San Francisco team was offering him to the Pirates and Cubs at bargain-basement figures.

Here's the short short story on Curt. He made such a great record for the Golden Gate team the owners hung on the big hurler one of those fancy price tags for which the Seal owners are noted. But the depression was on its way and to make matters worse for the Coast magnates they had erected an expensive ball park.

When money ran short the big league fellows laughed at the price tag on Davis. Curt naturally wanted to advance and when his owners failed to promote him he tried to get what he thought was a fair salary. The Seal bosses said "no can do" and a jam developed. When the Buccos and Bruins came along for their San Francisco series of 1933 the Seals tried to peddle Curt for $10,000 or thereabouts. One of the officials told this writer that Davis could be had for this sum. Traynor thought the big pitcher a big bargain, but both the Pittsburgh and Chicago owners passed him up, and the lowly Phillies nabbed him over the draft route. He was rated as a $50,000 beauty before hard times set in.

ESPINOSA EQUALS PAR, LEADS FIELD IN STATE OPEN

AKRON GOLFER RECORDS 72 AT OAKMONT

BULLETIN.

Sam Parks, Jr., of the South Hills Country Club, shot a 72 to share the lead with Al Espinosa, of Akron, in the morning round of the Pennsylvania state open championship.

Felix Serafin, the 1921 champion, went into a tie for second place with George Flinn, with a 73.

By TOM BIRKS

With half of the large field still out battling Oakmont's terrific par, Al Espinosa, nationally known campaigner of the Portage Club, of Akron, O., turned in a fine 72 to lead the early finishers in the first 18 holes of the 72-hole Pennsylvania State Open golf championship at the Oakmont Country Club today.

The Buckeye professional was one under par going out, but missed the thirteenth green with his tee shot to lose that advantage on the homeward trek.

FLINN NEAR TOP

One stroke behind Espinosa was George H. Flinn, star amateur of the Oakmont Club. The president of the state organization, playing with Denny Shute and Bobby Cruickshank, required a 73. Bobby, the wee Scot, took a 74 after matching par on the outgoing nine, while Shute turned in a 76.

The gallery followed this threesome and was treated to some great golf. Cruickshank dropped a shot on the eleventh hole and another on the eighteenth green, otherwise he played a fine game.

Emil Loeffler, the home pro, got away to a tough start, an out-of-bounds play and a couple of sand traps consuming eight strokes. Dutch slumped around the seventh hole, finally taking a nine.

Denny Shute, the former British open champion, lost his putting touch completely and, then started to press from the tee. As a result he landed in plenty of trouble.

Nelson Zimmerman, the Wildwood pro, and Johnny Capebianco, of Aliquippa, found plenty of satisfaction on the long marathon twelfth, both getting a birdie 4 on this hole, 615 yards long.

Flinn has been playing good golf and is classed as one of the leading amateurs in the district, but few of the large gallery at the start of the round expected him to match shots with two of the greatest figures in the game.

He missed his tee shot on the first hole, just dropping the ball into the rough, but made a brilliant recovery and got a par 5.

He played par golf until the fourteenth green, when his iron was trapped and he took a 5.

GALLERY TRAILS M'FARLANE

Willie MacFarlane, who just a few years ago won the National Open championship, gathered to himself a large gallery. He played with Emil Loeffler and his wizardly with the irons gave the gallery a treat. While not hitting as long a tee shot, his second shots to the greens on the par four holes were deadly, and he three-putted twice to lose two shots. He was out in 38 and backh ome in the same figures.

Billy Marks, now at Princeton and playing from the Oakmont Country Club, and Perry Del Vecchio, of the Greensburg Country Club, played themselves into the tourney with a pair of 75s. Marks played brilliantly going out, but wavered on the back nine. Del Vecchio as usual was very consistent, having a 37-38 for his score.

Par for the course and the cards of the leaders at the end of the first 18 holes follow:

Association Benefit Game Set Today

MINNEAPOLIS, July 19.—(AP.)—An all-star cast selected through a poll of fans in the eight member cities of the American Association meets the Minneapolis Millers, league-leading team, in a players' benefit game today.

Players from Milwaukee, Kansas City, St. Paul, Toledo and Indianapolis are on the roster of the all-star aggregation, which has Al Sothoron, Milwaukee pilot, as the manager. Five Brewers are just about certain to start the game.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: FANCY DIVING—A truly remarkable dive, and one that probably cannot be duplicated, is the three-and-a-half somersault dive performed by Sam Howard, of Houston, Tex., doing one backward and two and a half forward somersaults in the same dive. The dive covers two distinctly opposite balances—backward onto the springboard and rebounding into the forward spins. Howard, who is a professional fancy diver, is able and willing to do this dive on request at any time, and gives daily exhibitions in the Houston pools.

SZWEDKO BEATS SKOWRAN

Andy Szwedko, who furnished the big upset in the second round of the annual city golf championship at Schenley Park yesterday when he eliminated J. Francis Kelly, defending champion, in a 19-hole match, continued his march to the final round this morning when he eliminated Mike Skowran, medalist in the qualifying round, in a quarter-final engagement, 1 up.

Skowran, a former caddie, was considered to be a dark-horse in the tournament as a result of his two brilliant 64s in the qualifying round, a new competitive record for Schenley.

Carl Kauffman, who has worn the City toga four times, also survived the quarter-finals, defeating John Plack, 6 and 5. Dave Wilder eliminated Walter Lohr, 3 and 1, and George Calhoun defeated Pat McDonough, 4 and 3 in the remaining quarter-final duels.

The semi-finals are being played this afternoon with the 36-hole final listed for disposal tomorrow. The summary of the quarter-final matches today:

CHAMPIONSHIP FLIGHT

Andy Szwedko defeated Mike Skowran, 1 up.

CHAMPIONSHIP FLIGHT

First Round.

Mike Skowran defeated B. A. Guentner, 7 and 6; Archie Fineman defeated Johnny Pasikowski, 3 and 2; J. F. Lally defeated Charles Brenkus, 1 up, 19 holes; Andy Szwedka defeated Jack Wilson, 2 and 1; Roy Lundeen defeated Mike Galido, 2 and 1; George Calhoun defeated H. L. Friedman, 3 and 1; George Engstler defeated Marty Boschert, 1 up; Pat McDonough defeated P. J. O'Malley, 1 up; E. W. Ryan defeated W. C. Pyle, 2 and 1; Earl Lohr defeated Jack Lowther, 7 and 6; J. V. Seaman defeated A. G. Speyer, 3 and 2; Dave Wilder defeated Dr. Art Sekay, 3 and 3; Benny Stefanik defeated Jack Tierney, 2 and 1; John Plack defeated Alex Roney, 4 and 3; Ray Dipietro defeated Ray Combs, 1 up, 21 holes; Carl Kauffmann defeated Bill Pickell, 3 and 2.

Second Round.

Skowran defeated Fineman, 2 and 1; Calhoun defeated Lundeen, 1 up; Szwedka defeated Lally, 1 up, 19 holes; McDonough defeated Engstler, 4 and 3; Lohr defeated Ryan, 6 and 5; Wilder defeated Seaman, 5 and 4; Plack defeated Stefanik, 1 up; Kauffmann defeated Dipietro, 3 and 1.

E. P. Deninno and Mrs. W. D. Mansfield of Youghiogheny, carried off low gross honors in the mixed foursome tourney staged at Wildwood yesterday, posting a score of 87. Another Youghiogheny pair, W. R. Heumme and Mrs. S. G. Worton won low net honors with 93-17—76.

STEWART VICTOR

Jess Stewart, with a card of 92-30-62, led the field in the Turtle Creek business men's tournament at Penhurst yesterday. The low gross honers were shared by Henry Parks and Al Davis, each carding an 81.

Today, the Men's Bible Class of the Mt. Lebanon United Presbyterian Church will stage its second tourney of the season at Castle Shannon. Tomorrow, the Bucknell University Alumni Association has a tourney and dinner party carded at Alcoma.

MEMORY TEST

TODAY'S QUESTIONS

How good is your memory of sports events, heroes and dates? Can you answer these questions?

1—Who were the rival managers in the 1909 world series?

2—Who was the outstanding hero of the 1914 world series between the Braves and Athletics?

3—Who is generally considered the greatest Negro college athlete ever developed in Western Pennsylvania?

4—What has become of Harrisburg Technical High school, long prominent in athletics?

5—Where is Ray Pryel, former Homestead boxer, now located?

MUSHERS IN BENEFIT

The Baker Hill team and the Solomons will stage a night muskball game for the benefit of the North Braddock Firemen on the Scott High School Field at 9:30 o'clock. The Baker Hill Juniors and the Mt. Washington Clowns meet in the preliminary contest at 8:30 p. m.

YAROSZ WINS, COLLAPSES

CHICAGO, July 19.—(AP.)—Teddy Yarosz, middleweight challenger, of Pittsburgh, collapsed in his dressing room last night after winning a decision over Tait Littman, of Milwaukee, in a charity boxing card.

Yarosz suddenly put his hand to his heart, complaining of a sharp pain, and collapsed to the floor.

The boxer was quickly revived, and, after a physician's examination, seemed to be in comparatively normal condition.

The bout lacked thrills and was frequently booed by the spectators.

Yarosz, six inches shorter than his foe, had trouble reaching him effectively, but he piled up a margin on points. He carried the fight to the Milwaukee boxer, cracking him with five right blasts to the head in the sixth round without a return, while Littman was backed against the ropes. Yarosz weighed 161 pounds, Littman 164¼.

In a surprising upset Leo Rodak, Chicago featherweight, defeated Petey Hayes, of Brooklyn, recent conqueror of Kid Chocolate, in a blistering 10-rounder.

Scoring four knockdowns, Harry Dublinsky, of Chicago, defeated Steve Halaiko, Buffalo, 140 pounder, by a technical knockout. Referee Thomas waved Halaiko to his corner as he was on the verge of falling in the tenth round.

The bouts were staged for the benefit of a Jewish charity with the attendance and receipts disappointing. The attendance was less than 5,000, with the receipts around $11,000.

COSTA-ZIVIC MEET AGAIN TONIGHT

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Joey Costa vs. Eddie Zivic and Mose Butch vs. Jackie Wilson, 10 rounds each, and Bill Eley vs. Harry Krause, 10 rounds; Gen. Burrows vs. Al Quail, and Casey Rhodes vs. Frankie Marvin, 8 rounds each, featherweights. Curtis Hitch vs. Salvatore Ruggirello, 10 rounds, East Brookline, Mass., tonight. Kitchy Baxter vs. Lou Kennedy, 10 rounds, Waterbury, Conn.

By HARRY KECK

Sports Editor.

(PICTURES ON PAGE 16.)

What do you do with a fellow who comes back after taking a cuffing for eight out of 10 rounds and knocks you out with less than a half-minute to go in the final round?

That is Joey Costa's problem tonight as he faces Eddie Zivic, of Lawrenceville, in a 10-round return bout at Greenlee Field.

There is no question about it. That first meeting between Zivic, just back from California, and Costa, highly-rated New York lightweight, was one of the most dramatic in spots we've had around here in many moons. They fought at Hickey Park, Millvale, and Costa walked right out and plastered Eddie at will, bopping him repeatedly with one of the hardest left jabs we've ever seen and mauling him inside. Then the tide suddenly turned and Zivic dropped the visitor twice for counts of nine in the third round.

DRAMATIC FINISH

Costa then came back and right up to the start of the final round again was in command of the situation. Then—blooie! After a minute of that tenth round, Zivic, apparently hopelessly behind, tagged Joey with a right and dropped him for nine. He floored him again, and when Joey got up this time he was groggy and fell down in collapse to take a count of eight. As he got up a third time the referee intervened, with exactly 75 seconds to go. If Costa had lasted to the bell he would have been the winner.

What does that promise for tonight? Will the repeat number be as good as the first? Will Costa be gun-shy and lack his aggressiveness of the first battle? Will Zivic be so confident of his punch that he will go right-hand crazy and wind up swinging at the air and letting his opponent pile up points? Or will Costa himself produce some real hitting power and turn the tables?

It's a very interesting situation and has the fans talking. And when the fans talk they generally turn out to see for themselves.

Jackie Wilson and Mose Butch, local featherweight rivals of long standing, meet again in the 10-round semi-final, and there will be three five-round preliminaries, as follows:

Billy Eley making his professional debut, vs. Harry Krause; General Burrows vs. Al Quail; and Casey Rhodes vs. Frankie Marvin. The first bout is set for 8:30.

BETWEEN ROUNDS

Joe La Rue, Texas welterweight, who has been here a week or so without getting from an inferior arm, and has had to wear it—

There will be no boxing show at Hickey Park next Monday night. Promoter Mike Vogel is in New York seeing what he can do about arranging one that will feature Vince Dundee right for Turkey Hill.

Sammy Fain, former Mike Gennaro, of Erie, is a six-round preliminary to the Joppa-Chappelle fight, Aug. 1, here at Charleston, W. Va., tomorrow night.

Honus Says:

By HONUS WAGNER,

Former Star, Now Coach of Pirates.

To the Sports Editor:

Walking down Fifth Avenue the other day I saw an armored truck stop before a bank. Guards jumped out, guns in hand, ready to shoot. Men carried some money into the bank. You see that same sort of thing every day in every city. But it struck me as kind of sad that in these days when we all are supposed to be civilized such things should be necessary. Human beings simply don't trust each other any more. If only the whole world would learn the kind of team play baseball players have all of us would be better off.

Regards,
HONUS WAGNER.

Ford City, York Legion Nines Win

YORK, Pa., July 19.—(AP.)—The York American Legion junior baseball team defeated Reading yesterday in the first of a three-game series to gain the right to enter the state tournament, by a score of 8 to 7.

BALD BATTLES BOB MADDEN FOR TITLE

Bald had a narrow squeak in the quarter-finals yesterday. Bob Merchant, vastly improved Wilkinsburger, carrying him to 6—4, 6—4, 7—5. In the semi-finals, however, he settled into a distinctly impressive performance to overwhelm Harold Mathinson, ranky Kopelite and former district boys' titleholder, 6—2, 6—0. Meanwhile Madden thumped Irwin Sedlow, of Allderdice High, 6—0, 6—2, in the bracket of right and reigned out Jimmy Arensberg, Shady Side Academy captain, 6—3, 6—0, in a doggedly, sometime brilliant fought penultimate fray. Arensberg had earlier accounted For Bob Bald, brother of Ralph, 6—0, 6—4.

Harry Zink, little giant from Steubenville, carried off final honors in the boys' division by scoring decisively over Rockwood's clever Billy Benz, 6—2, 6—0. Zink, who offered very pretty tennis here last summer, only to drop a surprise verdict to Mount Lemmon Bill Fay in the trophy rounds, was never even pressed as he droved smartly and consistently to annex the 1934 laurels of the 13-year-old division.

RUTH INJURY NOT SERIOUS

YANKS TO LOSE SLUGGER FOR ONE WEEK

CLEVELAND, July 19.—(INS.)—Belief that Babe Ruth will not be laid up with his injured leg more than a week was expressed here by Dr. Edward B. Castle after examining the injury again today.

The physician stated emphatically that the home run king "is not through." He declared:

"He will be out of the game four or five days, possibly a little longer."

Propped up in his hotel bed with his pretty wife attending him close by, the famous ball player barked "Nertz!" to a suggestion that he might not be able to finish the season. He said:

After losing first place in Detroit, Joe McCarthy's club took another nose dive in Cleveland, dropping a pair of decisions and winding up 2½ games behind after a 15-14 trimming yesterday. Ruth was struck on the leg by a hot drive off Lou Gehrig's bat.

LOSE IN NINTH

As for the game, it was a swatting match from start to finish, winding up when the Yanks scored five runs in the ninth to go ahead and the Indians came back with three to win the game and hand Lefty Gomez, the eleventh pitcher to toe the slab, his third defeat of the season.

The Tigers took advantage of this opportunity to increase their lead by beating Washington, 4 to 2 when Tommy Bridges pitched seven-hit ball despite seven passes while the Detroit batters hit Earl Whitehill hard and often.

The third-place Red Sox continued their pursuit of the leaders by humbling the Pale Hose of Chicago, 16 to 3, as they opened with a nine-run burst in the first inning. Seven of the tallies resulted from homers by Roy Johnson and Bill Cissell.

Jimmy Foxx clouted his twenty-eighth circuit swat in St. Louis to tie his teammate, Bob Johnson, for the major league lead, but the Athletics still couldn't beat the Browns, going down 3-2 before Bump Hadley's five-hit flinging.

GIANTS VICTORS

The National League's "crucial" series between the Giants and the Cubs wound up in something of an anti-climax as New York won the final game, 8 to 6, and increased its lead to three game, one more than it held at the start of the five-game set. A six-run outburst in the third, which included Mel Ott's twenty-second homer with one aboard, settled the game, but the league leaders had a hard time remaining ahead when the Cubs jolted Fred Fitzsimmons out with four in the seventh.

The Braves took another nasty crack at Pittsburgh's hopes by beating the Pirates in both games of a doubleheader. They won the first duel, 3-1, when Hal Lee doubled with the corners crammed in the eighth, then smacked Eddie Holley and a couple of successors for a 7-5 victory.

The Reds celebrated their release from Philadelphia by winning their first game in Baker Bowl this year, 9 to 8. It was a 33-hit slugging match terminated by Harlin Pool's single in the ninth. The Cardinals, led by Joe Medwick, drew a bead on young Johnny Babich and belted out a 5-to-3 victory over the Dodgers to keep Brooklyn in seventh place.

Line Drive Injures Babe

DOCTOR EXAMINES RUTH'S LEG INJURY IN CLEVELAND GAME YESTERDAY

Babe Ruth will be out of the Yankees' lineup for an indefinite period as a result of an injury suffered yesterday when he was struck on the leg by a line drive from Lou Gehrig's bat. International News Photograph Service picture shows Dr. Edward Castle, of the Cleveland Club, examining the bruise before X-Ray plates revealed no bones were broken in the limb.

The U. S. Engineers, managed by R. Leslie Whitehead, will oppose the Travelers Insurance aggregation this evening in bracket I of the senior division on the Tech campus in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's Western Pennsylvania amateur softball tournament. The Engineers are in first place in the Business Men's Softball League.

If the Travelers win today's conflict they will have a good chance of getting into the playoffs. The Travelers have been beaten only once in tournament play, while the Engineers have lost two verdicts. Manager Francis Rupp may do the pitching for the Insurance team. Manager Whitehead did not disclose his battery.

The Marconi team invades Duquesne this evening to engage the Brown Buddies in a bracket 1 game of the girls' division. Miss Margaret Smith will pitch for the Marconis.

Four home runs featured the S. A. O'Toole Club's 14-1 victory over the East Liberty Drugs in a bracket III game of the senior division on O'Toole Field, Hazelwood, yesterday. Tom McKenna, of the winners, connected for two homers, while his teammates, Maurice Fitzgibbons and Tom Burke, each hit for the circuit.

The O'Tooles are tied for first place with the Campbell Box Lunch team. The teams will meet next Wednesday to decide the championship at Hazelwood.

CADDIES ON STRIKE

SOMERSET, Pa., July 19.—(A.P.)—Playing golf at the Somerset Country Club yesterday was no fun for those who take their game seriously. In fact, poor shots and foul balls threatened to break up the games entirely. The reason was a caddies' strike, the 30 youthful club-carriers storming over the course with catcalls and jeers as the players teed off. They are demanding 35 cents per nine holes for carrying bags. The rate for the past two seasons has been 25 cents.

QUAILLS WIN TWO

With good pitching the Quaill club mushball team, of East Brookline, managed to take two games from the Pioneer Aces last evening. The scores were 4-3, 6-4. This evening the Quaills take on the Dormont Millers on Milan Field, East Brookline.

SETS LINKS MARK

GROVE CITY, Pa., July 19.—H. M. (Bud) Caruthers set a new qualifying mark of 68 four under par, in qualifying with John and DuWayne Murray and Bob Campbell for the Mercer County tournament.

SOFTBALL SLANTS

The St. Ann's team would like to book softball or mushball games with leading girls' teams on a home-and-home basis. Call Charles Martin at Lehigh 9614-M.

Tomorrow the Harris Reds will travel to East Pittsburgh to play an exhibition game with the Sportsmen's Club on the Quarry Field. The Reds' manager, Clyde Confer, is a live wire. He has been hustling in booking softball teams to play his outfit. Clyde is a real softball enthusiast.

A large crowd saw the Hungry 9 Club hand the Staahls team its first defeat in bracket VII of the senior division. The score was 7-2. The losers did not score until the ninth inning, when Hoy tallied twice. Stotsky and Astfalk starred for the winners, while Kenny and C. Wagner played best for the Stnahs.

W. Pa. Baseball Tourney on July 30

Play in the Western Pennsylvania baseball championship tournament will get under way July 30, present indications pointing to a record number of teams lining up for the competition.

The tournament will be conducted in three classifications, senior teams with no age limit, junior teams with an age limit of 21 and class B teams limited to players under 17 years of age. Entries may be filed with D. S. Mamula, 813 Liberty avenue.

Sport Shorts

CHICAGO — Tommy Armour, noted golfer, fired a broadside at the Professional Golfers' Association today for its action in exempting all members of the Ryder cup team from qualifying for the championship tournament, scheduled at Buffalo next week.

NEW YORK—Johnny Gilbert, famous jockey riding for Samuel D. Riddle, is under close guard at his home here following the receipt of letters threatening kidnaping.

BOSTON—Jim Londos and Ed Don George, wrestling for the world heavyweight title, went more than three hours to a draw at Fenway Park here last night. George won the first fall in 27:57, Londos the second in 37:07 and both were exhausted when the referee halted the match at 12:45 a. m.

CLEVELAND—Alva Bradley, owner of the Cleveland Indians, today denied reports that Walter Johnson would be displaced as manager of the team. Babe Ruth, Willie Kamm and Steve O'Neill had been mentioned as successors to the Big Train.

LOS ANGELES—Ellsworth Vines, professional tennis star, yesterday was adjudged the winner in a $250,000 breach of contract suit brought against him by Norman Sper, sports promoter.

CANADA WINS CUP

BISLEY CAMP, England, July 19.—(A.P.)—Canada's team of expert riflemen today won the Mackinnon Challenge Cup, one of the two major trophies of Bisley, for the eighth time in the 44-year history of the event. The Canadians last won in 1930. The Canadians had a lead of seven points over England.

STOCK MARKET PRICES TURN ERRATIC

NEW YORK, July 19.—(AP.)—The stock market was a quiet and ineffective affair today, swiftly only occasional buying our selling hurry to relieve the monotony of creeping ticker tape.

Several issues, due to special influences, edged into mew high territory for the year to date, and a few others, reflecting various uncertainties, sold at bottom prices for 1934. Public participation was still at a minimumum and professional interest, notably lol. At the opening there was a moderate carry-over of yesterday's bullishness, but irregularities soon developed in a resumption of the recent dullness.

Early firmness of grains and otton was succeeded by further allizing in these staples. While heat and corn held part of their rst hour advance of about 2 nts a bushel, cotton suffered oderate net losses. Forecasts of oler weather and rain were aid to have induced profit-taking in these categories. Silver as a little easier and rubber a ifle higher. Bonds and international dollar rates were mixed.

New tops were established by hares of United States Smelting, hilip Morris, American Sumatra Tobacco and Archer-Daniels-Midland. United Aircraft as down more than a point to new year's low and Warner ros. also landed on bottom with fractional decline.

Followers of stocks, it was thought in some quarters, have en paying attention to the argin and manipulative features the stock exchange bill rather han to more important sections ealing with reports of corporaon officials and companies emselves. Decisions regarding any of the bill's provisions, it as said, must be forthcoming by ecember 1, and these may act as potent market motivator.

Until the exchange control ules, in detail, are laid down in he brokerage houses, various obervers believe that usually active peculators will continue to follow a general do-nothing policy. n other words, few market students would venture a prediction s to when the existing stalemate ill be broken.

BUYING SPURT BOOSTS GRAINS

CHICAO, July 19 — Sharply higher prices for gains early today ccompanied general buying. Critical crop conditions both in this ountry and Canada dominated he pits.

Opening ⅛-1⅛ up, September new 1.01-01¼, wheat later scored orisk additional gains. Corn also started at ⅛-1⅛ advance, and continued to mount.

Economists Predict Boom in Building

ITHACA, N. Y., July 19.—(AP.)—Construction is on the upgrade, in the opinion of Profs. George F. Warren and F. A. Pearson, Cornell economists, who foresee a building boom in a few years.

Profs. Warren and Pearson, who have been monetary advisors to the Roosevelt administration, also stated that recovery is more advanced in some sections of the United States than in others.

St. Louis, they said, is farther along than New York, basing their declaration upon rented property. New York, they added, has one-fourth fewer vacant properties than a year ago.

Treasury Ponders Financing Program

WASHINGTON, July 19.—The Treasury has under consideration the possibility of extensive conversion offerings in September, centering around a refunding of $1,200,000,000 of Fourth Liberty Loan Bonds, called for redemption October 1.

There is also considerable discussion now under way on the possibility of consolidating a portion of the huge short-term debt into long-term maturities.

Worth of Money Gauged

By B. C. FORBES

IT WAS PUNCH, Britain's witty weekly, that, when asked, "Is life worth living?" replied, "It all depends on the liver?"

Is money worth possessing?

Mr. Forbes

WHAT should he do with it?

HOW should he regard money?

WERE a vote taken among all the Jews of America, Felix M. Warburg would unquestionably be proclaimed the one man who, year-in, year-out, labors most zealously, most unselfishly, most philanthropically on behalf of the less fortunate members of his race—and for many worthy non-sectarian objects.

MR. WARBURG'S philosophy regarding money prods thought. He summarizes it to me thus:

"With the very first coin that I received as a weekly allowance, I was given a little metal savings bank into which I was told that one-tenth of my allowance would have to go for altruistic purposes.

"That principle has prevailed all through my life, the only difference being that in the last few years, when incomes were not so large, expenditures for philanthropic purposes have far outstripped the above-mentioned rule—in fact, the capital has had to be invaded.

"I could part with most of the things which I possess without any great heartache. (There always are some exceptions, and with me one is a great genuine love for the etchings of Rembrandt's time and before.) On the other hand, if I had to strip my life of the interests which have taken such a large share of my time, efforts mostly in the educational field, I would miss them intensely and life would very quickly become very drab and uninteresting.

"I consider that a person who has money to spare has a great advantage over one whose budget does not permit him to back his opinions of enterprises by contributions. It is a sad but practical fact that if you say 'I am interested in the teaching of the blind,' that statement would not easily awaken interest in others; but if you are in a position to say 'I am so much interested that I am willing to give so and so much,' you gain a response. In that way you are not only adding to your responsibilities but also placing yourself in line for leadership.

"The fact that I have had opportunity to take a little more prominent position in the working out of certain problems has no doubt been due to the fact that my capacity to suggest and back has given me undue advantage—and I am duly grateful that these most valuable associations have crossed my path.

"I always have believed that friendships formed at golf clubs, over card tables and through similar superficial associations do not stand the test of life and time, while friendships founded on co-operation in fields of permanent value are the friendships which last and are worth while.

Human beings and their joys and woes are of intense interest to me, and to get them into co-operation, be they ever so different in their bringing up and in their ideas, in their likes and dislikes, is a fascinating and very often most gratifying occupation.

"In welfare organizations and in federations, etc., money-raising which as a rule is a most distasteful and objectionable as an occupation, can be made, and in my case has been made, a training for getting the best out of all kinds of human material, for bringing about mass play and co-operation on a large scale."

Ore Consumption Slackens in June

CLEVELAND, July 19.—Lake Superior ores consumed by furnaces in June totaled 2,721,449 tons, compared with 2,957,934 tons consumed in May and 1,894,004 tons in June, 1933.

BUSINESS LESS ACTIVE UNDER NEW DEAL

By LEWIS HANEY

Professor of Economics, New York University

NEW YORK, July 19.—It is now about one year since the New Deal experiment went into effect.

The New Deal did not become effective immediately upon the election of Mr. Roosevelt. It took shape and went into operation about six months later, or around the middle of 1933. The first showing was in the farm bill passed near the end of April. Then came the bank insurance act on June 13. NIRA was enacted on the following day.

Finally, the London economic conference was wrecked, and it was announced that the dollar would not be stabilized on June 19.

Thus we may date the New Deal as a working scheme from June, 1933. And if we want to find out what effect it has had upon business, we must measure from that time.

As we look back over the last two years, we see the following picture. Business and industrial activity hit their approximate low levels about the middle of 1932, while the old deal was still in effect. This was about the time when the "Lausanne settlement" was announced, and the open market operations of the reserve banks were then stepped up.

There followed an upturn, which lasted a few months to about the time that Mr. Roosevelt's election was conceded.

HIT LOW IN 1932

Then business turned hesitant, and receded until the bank crash of March, 1933. At this time, it approximated the 1932 low.

The first action of the present administration was to debase our currency and adopt inflation measures. The gold standard was abandoned. The Thomas inflation amendment was adopted. The gold clauses in bonds were repudiated.

But this spurt was not the New Deal. It was in anticipation of inflation. The New Dealers themselves would be the last to admit their program is merely that.

In fact, the real New Deal, with its emphasis upon a redistribution of income, government partnership in business, social planning, and a more abundant life, has tended to keep inflation in check. It has been as much deflationary as inflationary. If it stands for effective inflation, it has been its own worst enemy—by destroying business confidence.

So business slumped from the first inflationary spurt, falling sharply from July to November, 1933. Then the New Dealers resorted to the broad and easy way of government spending, under the slogan of "priming the pump." Then came the CWA and the ten-billion-dollar program.

SPENDING HELPED

This brought another spurt between last December and May this year—a spurt based almost entirely upon government spending, aided by the new liquor business and growing belief in the inevitability of inflation.

The outstanding fact is that there has been no general business recovery in the past 12 months. The most important business measurements show that business is now less active than it was a year ago.

It is a devastating fact that most factory workers, after buying necessary food, have less to spend now than they did 12 months ago. I believe that labor and farmers are more discontented and less hopeful.

We must measure from last June, not March. So where is the progress since the real beginning of the New Deal business program? What is there to look forward to except more inflation?

BANKERS TAKE N. Y. BONDS

NEW YORK, July 19.—(AP.)—The city of New York and the Wall street bankers have made peace and the city has negotiated the sale of $58,000,000 worth of bonds at a rate satisfactory to the Comptroller.

The sale was made to a syndicate comprising largely those financial institutions whose bid 10 days ago was rejected because of the rates of interest prescribed.

The original rate offered by the banks was over 4 per cent, but this time it was 3.8 per cent.

The Mayor commended Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the RFC, who acted as mediator in bringing the city and the bankers to terms.

The bonds were reoffered to the public at yields ranging from 1¼ per cent to 3.85 per cent, according to maturity.

Wallace Sees Improved Wheat Situation

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Prospects for an improved world wheat situation developed today with reports of reduced crops in important European wheat growing centers.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace believes a lower production level abroad will give Australia and Canada an opportunity to reduce their own heavy carry-over of grain thus making them more amenable to a general agreement.

Even with drought and other curtailments in this country, some American wheat will be available for export, he said. He anticipated a carryover next July of well over 100,000,000 bushels.

Effects of the drought will carry into next winter, Wallace believes. The prolonged attack in the west daily is adding counties to the list of those petitioning the government for emergency drought aid.

Wallace discounted reports of government factory operations in canning surplus beef, purchased by the AAA as a part of its drought relief. Small operations are in progress under state supervision, he said, but not on the scale that the enormous purchases of the government necessitates.

Austin Will File Refinancing Plan

Judge F. P. Schoonmaker in Federal Court today granted permission to the American Austin Car Company, Inc., of Butler to submit a plan of reorganization under the recently amended section of the Federal Bankruptcy Act. The court allowed present officers to remain in temporary control and required submission of the plan within three months.

R. O. Gill, president of the company, told the court that since March 1931 the company has liquidated claims totaling $1,250,000. The petition was filed June 29. Previously the company was given permission to manufacture 1,000 cars for which it had orders.

Associated Oil Retiring Notes

NEW YORK, July 19.—The Associated Oil Company, it was announced today, will retire outstanding funding debt amounting to $3,482,000 of an original issue of $24,000,000 of 12-year 6 per cent gold notes at 102½ and interest.

GUFFEY STAYS IN SENATE RACE

POTTSVILLE, Pa., July 19.—(AP.)—Joseph F. Guffey, Democratic nominee for United States senator, is to remain in the race against Senator David A. Reed, Republican nominee for the latter's seat at Washington.

Guffey and David Lawrence, Democratic state chairman, denied reports yesterday that Guffey may withdraw to make way for Gov. Pinchot on a proposed Pinchot-Democratic ticket against the Republican nominees. Guffey declared:

"Guffey was nominated by all groups of the Democratic party. Leaders would not dare set aside the choice of the voters."

At Milford, the report of a Pinchot-for-Guffey substitution was called to the Governor's attention. A spokesman said the Governor had "no comment" to make.

OFFICE WORKER SHOOTS SELF

Brooding over the death of his wife two months ago, Charles G. Haendler, 37, fired a bullet into his head in the office of the American District Telegraph Company in the Park Building, according to a police report. Haendler, father of two children, was taken to Mercy Hospital with a scalp wound. He is employed as a clerk.

Just as he fired the shot, his employer, J. J. Conley, of 210 Dolphin street, knocked the gun from Haendlers' hand, deflecting the bullet. Conley told police he had sent Haendler home at 9 o'clock last night, believing him ill. As Haendler started to leave, he removed a gun from a desk drawer.

Haendler lives at 328 Alice avenue, Knoxville.

BEER MAN WINS LICENSE FIGHT

Judge Samuel H. Gardner today refused to revoke the liquor license of Anthony Maples, proprietor of the Roosevelt beer garden, Lincoln highway, Imperial, on petition of state liquor law enforcement officers.

Maples testified he had pleaded guilty to a liquor charge before Alderman Ray Schneider several weeks ago and paid a $25 fine rather than go to the expense of retaining a lawyer.

The moonshine for which he had been arrested, he said, belonged to a porter in his employ. He testified he purchased all his liquor from the state store in Carnegie.

Boy Tries Suicide After Gun Kills Boss

WEST CHESTER, Pa., July 19.—(INS.)—Nineteen-year-old Shelton Simpson, a farmhand, today lay near death from bullets he fired into his chest and abdomen in a moment of remorse after he had accidentally shot and killed his farm boss while they were hunting groundhogs.

The dead man was Eber Thompson, 33, father of five children and manager of the farm of his wealthy father-in-law, S. H. Parke, near West Chester. The accident occurred late yesterday while the farmhand and Thompson were hunting groundhogs on different parts of the farm.

CANCELLATIONS AND CORRECTIONS:
Must be telephoned to the Want Ad Service Department between the hours of 8:30 A. M. and 5:30 P. M.

When orders for cancellation of insertions are made over the telephone, confirmation should be sent immediately by letter to the Classified Advertising Manager.

A "Cancellation Number" is given in person authorizing cancellation. This number should be kept by advertiser as a record of that transaction, for use in case of dispute or verification until payment is made.

Notice of typographical errors must be given in time for correction before the second insertion. The Sun-Telegraph will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion of advertisement.

BOX NUMBER REPLIES:
The Sun-Telegraph maintains a complete and efficient "Box Number" service for the accommodation of classified advertisers, without extra charge. The Box Number, in lieu of advertiser's own address, is counted as two words in figuring cost of advertisements. Address may be secured in person at the Sun-Telegraph Main Office at Telegraph Square, or at the Fifth Ave. Branch Office, corner Market. If replies to box number advertisements are to be mailed, postage must be paid for by advertiser.

ORDERING YOUR WANT AD:
You may MAIL your ad to "Classified Advertising Manager, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania," or you may BRING it to the Sun-Telegraph Main Office at Telegraph Square or the Accommodation Office, corner Fifth Ave. and Market St.; or you may PHONE your Want Ad and CHARGE it to Grant 5400. "Want Ad Smartness" Use the method most convenient to you.

SPECIAL PERSONAL SERVICE:
If you have some special need for which you require personal counsel on copy at your home or office, just call the Classified Advertising Manager and ask to have representative call. No extra charge.

CONTRACT RATES:
The Sun-Telegraph will submit to any professional advertiser special schedule of rates on yearly basis.

Memory Test

1—Wally Berger is the home-run hitter who led the National League in strikeouts last year.

2—Bloody Ryan was the star just up from the minor leagues who was credited with having been a outstanding factor in the Giants' pennant success last year.

4—Frank Moran boxed as a Pittsburgher, but he was a native of Cleveland.

5—Bobby Cruickshank has tied twice for the national open golf title, but has lost in the playoffs.

(See today's questions in Sports Section.)

Girl in the Family

By BEATRICE BURTON

CHAPTER XXXIX

A letter arrived from John, and another one from Connie, urging her to come out to Omaha and live with them. She thanked them both and refused their offer. "Please don't hold out a crutch to me now," she wrote to John. "I have a job and I am hanging on to it like grim death. Perhaps, if I lose it, I'll send you an S. O. S. It's grand to know you have a brother you can depend on if you need help." But she had no intention of ever depending upon him or anyone else. If she lost the job at the Eagle Store she would find another.

Lutie wrote from Florida enclosing a snapshot of herself and Aunt Edna, in new white mourning, playing shuffleboard in the midst of palm trees. "Everybody down here seems to think we have a great deal of money," she wrote, "and two widowers are very attentive to us. But don't worry, childie. We're too old to be taken in by fortune hunters and we'll never marry anyone who can't match us dollar for dollar! How are you and Wallace getting along? Edna and I worry about you and the thing that would make us happiest would be to hear that the two of you were married. We have you on our minds.

"As for the other young man, he has probably picked up with some other fair maiden by this time. Those terribly handsome men are always so fickle."

Refuses Invitation

One Saturday morning a special delivery letter came from Aunt Nell asking her to spend Sunday at the Cullens'. It arrived just as Susan was leaving the house and she telephoned her aunt from the store and told her that she would have to work until 10 that night and would be too tired to do anything the next day but stay in bed. "I'm not used to these long hours yet," she explained, "and I'll be dead tomorrow."

One Monday night she took Elva to the neighborhood picture theater, and one noon Mr. Lesser invited her to have lunch with him at Luccini's, an Italian restaurant across the street from the store, where anti pasto, chicken ravioli, salad dressed with wine vinegar, and ice cream and cake could be had for 40 cents. Such mild pleasures as those were all that broke the gray monotony of Susan's first weeks in Clay street.

And so things went until the first of April.

Spring came early in 1931, and it brought a certain beauty even to Clay street, which was as ugly and unfriendly a street as could be found anywhere, ending, as it did, in a dark red high board fence which separated it from the railroad tracks. In Anna's front yard was a lilac bush that put out small sharp green buds. Old Mrs. Herbst walked out into the yard sometimes to loosen up the black soil around the roots and touch the little buds with one of her fingers, as she loved them.

Visitors for Susan

"Someone to see Miss Susan!" she said, and beamed as if she were tremendously pleased because some of Susan's friends had come to see her at last.

She pushed the door back against the wall and let Sara and Mary Cullen into the sun-flooded room. Sara very smart in what was plainly a brand-new spring suit of gray georgette, and Mary in hunter's green crepe that made her eyes resemble emeralds.

"So this is where you've been hibernating, you!" Mary came straight across the room to Susan and gave her a kiss that smelled faintly of face powder.

"What are you trying to do? High-hat all of us Cullens?"

"Mother's been telling us to let you alone. She seems to think that you're trying to work out something for yourself and that you don't want to be bothered." Mary went on with her usual frankness and directness. "But Sara and I got tired of not seeing you. Why, hide out on us, you poor little fish?"

Susan lay and smiled at her. "I gaze at you two with a new respect," she said after a minute, "since I've found out just how hard it is to earn any money at all. And when I look at you two with fox furs and clocked silk stockings and new spring suits that I know you've paid for with your own earnings, well, I simply marvel at you. I never knew how wonderful you were until now."

Had Training

"Why marvel at us?" asked Sara, who always looked at things seriously. "There's nothing wonderful about Mary and me making money when you remember how many years of training we had for the work we're in. If any credit is due anyone it's due Mother and Dad for supporting us all that time and sending us to school. . . . What we can't get over is the way you've taken care of yourself lately. Mother says you've found a job in a store. Selling music, isn't it?"

"That's what it is," Susan answered. "It's not much of a job but, even at that I don't belive I could hold it if it weren't for the nice old man that I work for. You see, sometimes I'm supposed to play pieces of music for people who come in to buy, and I can't play very many of them. So he does it for me—but I'm saving money and pretty soon I'll have enough to take a secretarial course. Then watch my smoke!"

Mary raised her eyebrows. "You're too proud, I gather, to borrow a little from your relatives," she said, "who love you. Susan, I wish you'd tell me why you're living in a hole like this when you could have a decent place at our house and when you know we want you to be there." Her eyes went slowly around the room, missing nothing from the crack across the dressing table mirror to the large paper calendar that hung on the wall beside the door.

"You must be doing penance for something. Nobody could possibly want to live down here," she finished.

Susan was forced to admit that the room was not much of a room. Roses, the size and color of red cabbages, climbed all over the wall paper. There was a bright pink cotton-crepe bedspread on the bed and the floor covering was a strip of cocoa matting that ran from the dresser to the bed. Her trunk stood in a corner, covered by a piece of the pink cotton-crepe.

Allen Would Go

"But it's clean and I can afford it," she said quietly. "Connie used to pay $10 a week at your house and I couldn't afford that. Besides, isn't Allen Sholes at your house still?"

"Oh, he'd clear out if we asked him to. There are a lot of places on our street where he could room and still take his meals with us," replied Mary easily. "Susan, I just knew that the reason you wouldn't come to our house was because you were afraid you couldn't pay us what Connie paid—and what Allen does. And I was right! I never did swallow the tale you told Mother about wanting to be alone for a while to see if you could support yourself. . . . What happened after your uncle died, Susie? Did the Brodericks just throw you out? You know, we didn't see John at all the day he was here, so we didn't get all the harrowing details."

Susan sat up. "Well, the bank took the house over to sell," she said. "They haven't done it yet, so far as I know, and in the meantime there wasn't much money for anyone. It was up to me to look after myself—and it's going to be up to me for quite a long time. Dad had borrowed more than his share of the estate, so he won't get a nickel when things are settled. But Aunt Edna let me take enough money to tide me over until I got something to do."

"What do you pay here?" asked Sara.

"Seven dollars a week, and that includes my washing and ironing," said Susan. "We live on stew and bread and coffee, but even at that I don't believe Herbst and Anna make a dime out of me. I'm not in love with the place myself, but here I stay until I'm making more money and can afford something better."

Mary laughed, showing her white teeth and the deep dimple at one corner of her mouth. She was really lovely looking, thought Susan as she watched her, and it would be easy for almost any man to fall in love with her.

Tells of Break

"Susie," she said, "I do believe you are getting to be strong-minded—one of these Iron Women who say what they mean, and do what they say they'll do!—And, by the way, what does your friend, Wallie Steffen, think of all this? It must surprise him to discover that he's engaged to a poor but honest working girl instead of one of our most exclusive debutantes."

"Oh, Wallace and I broke our engagement two months ago," said Susan airily. "I never could stand him really, although I knew he was just about as nice as a man can be—and good looking, too."

"Well, I never thought much of him," said Mary. "Connie and I saw him having lunch downtown two or three times with an awfully good-looking girl while he was going around with you. I was going to tell you about it the very afternoon you came over to show us your engagement ring—and then about two weeks later we saw him with her again. At a hockey game. He saw us, too. He looked right at us."

"Why didn't you tell me?"

"Well, you were engaged to him at the time," said Mary, "and neither of us felt like interfering with your affairs."

She grinned. "You remember what Peter the Great used to do to people who brought him bad news," she said. "He threw spears at them."

Susan slumped down against the lumpy pillows of her bed, and her hands went up to her eyes for a moment . . . All the time she had been wearing out Allen's patience, destroying his faith in her, by letting Wallace down easily instead of breaking things off quickly with him as she ought to have done, Wallace had been carrying on an affair with another girl! The feeling that he was honorable and solid and good had been based on nothing, she saw now. He had not been honorable with her, he wasn't any better than the general run of men, and she hadn't done him any real injury at all by breaking her engagement to him. She had hurt his pride and that was all. He was still going about with the girl who had been her running-mate in his affections all along, no doubt.

Junior Patrol Mail Box

This is absolutely your last chance to bring or send in a letter telling about the good deed you have been proudest of since you signed the Junior Patrol pledge.

That's all there is to it—your letter shouldn't be more than 100 words long and you can write it on any kind of paper any way you want. Just so it is here at Junior Patrol headquarters before midnight tonight.

Most every fellow is proud of at least one good deed. Just forget to be modest this once, fellows, and tell us about your good deeds.

This one time we want to show the world what a swell bunch of boys and girls Junior Patrol members are. And the best way we know to do it is to get a big list of good deeds they have done. What's even more important, fellows, we hope that the good deeds so many members have done already will suggest many more good deeds.

So we're paying three big prizes, fellows. The best letter wins $2.50, the second, $1.50, and the third, $1. Send your letters in, fellows—right now!

Is your gang doing something especially interesting? We want to know about it and tell all Junior Patrol members about it right here in the Mail Box.

And now for more big news, fellows! Looks like there might be another big contest starting tomorrow. Be looking for the announcement. Even if you haven't sent any letters to enter this contest, you will want to try the next one. So be looking for the details in tomorrow's mail box and comic strip.

Paper Snatcher

Daily Short Short-Story

By WARREN A. REEDER

"You see," Foster explained to the owner of the animal store, "I have my own house, but I want some companionship. Something that will be devoted, but not too bothersome."

"Guess you wouldn't care for a monkey, then, Mr. Engle?"

Foster laughed. "No thanks. I can always go down to the zoo when I want to see those." He hesitated. "I had in mind something young — something I might be able to train as it grows up."

The man looked relieved. "You should have a dog, then."

"A dog?"

"Sure. C'mon to the back of the store here. I'll show you some collie puppies." He led the way past tiers of cages filled with whining and growling animals to the rear of the store. He stopped before an open box. "Here — whaddaya think of these little shavers?"

Foster peered into the box. On a blanket were three brown, fuzzy puppies, each so roly-poly and fat his skin seemed to be bursting. They had been fighting, but now each looked up at him, innocently, expectantly. Foster smiled.

"Here!" The owner seized the puppy by the scruff of the neck and deposited him in Foster's arms. "You should always take the one that licks your hand. It means he'll always be a good dog—always obey you."

So the collie puppy became a fixture in Foster's house. At least that was the intention of Foster. But it didn't work out as he had planned.

"You know," he confessed ruefully to Harold Tice, one of his intimate friends, "I had planned on this pup being just like a piece of furniture around here, quiet and useful. But it's worked out so that he's the big boss and I'm just a boarder."

"What's he been doing?" Harold asked.

"Well, he's chewed the varnish off the leg of every chair in the house for one thing. Then he's either eaten or hid every pair of my shoes. And he drank all the water out of the goldfish bowl and killed the fish." He paused.

"Yes?"

"Here lately he seems to think I've been hiding things from him. He's nosing up all the carpets looking for imaginary objects I never had any intention of hiding.

"Why don't you give him away? asked the practical Mr. Tice.

Foster snorted indignantly. "Not much! Why—I'm crazy about him. I'm going to start teaching him tricks pretty soon. Useful one too," he affirmed, with a shake of his head.

Foster taught the dog many trick and he became quieter mannered than he had been. But his ace trick was the one wherein the dog brought the morning newspaper to his bedside every morning. For a week it went along in perfect working order. Then one morning the cold nose of the dog awakened him.

"Hey—cut it out!" he protested and sat upright to ward off the dog's moist kisses. Sleepily he rubbed his eyes, yawned, and—then his jaw sagged open in amazement.

"Holy cats!" Foster ejaculated.

Luckily the papers were all the same and he knew most of the families whose names were written on the first pages. Cautiously he sallied forth, accompanied by the dog, and distributed six on the porches where they belonged.

Then he stared at the seventh doubtfully.

On one corner was written, "Dunham." Dunham? it must be the new family in the white bungalow.

Guiltily he knocked at the door of the house. He could hear footsteps coming to answer his knock and he braced himself. When the door opened a very pretty girl stood framed in the way. A pair of blue eyes regarded him questioningly.

"Yes?" she said.

He colored. "Are you—Miss Dunham?"

She nodded.

"Well——" he hesitated uneasily. "I've brought your paper."

"Thank you." She took it uncertainly. "Are you the newsman?"

He laughed, feeling more at ease now. "No. I'm a neighbor of yours. You see, I taught my dog here to bring my paper to me in the morning, but he decided he must bring everybody else's paper, too."

She laughed merrily and bent to pat the dog's head. "He's a smart dog," she remarked. what's his name?"

"Well—I haven't named him yet."

She frowned thoughtfully. "All dogs should have a name."

"I know. Do you like dogs?"

She nodded and regarded him gravely. "I'm crazy about them," she confessed.

Half an hour later, in the privacy of his living room, Foster affectionately shook the dog's head from side to side. "She's invited me over and we're going to select a name for you," he said excitedly. Isn't that great?"

The dog barked twice and grinned, then kissed his hand as if to reveal his approval.

Life at Full

In summer only, by the sea
Is life's full dower granted me,
For I must have the splendid sun
To lay its ardent hands upon
My body which I fling beside
The singing, surging, restless tide
And I must have the gay south wind,
Forever fervent, tender, kind,
To kiss me and caress me there,
To run its fingers through my hair.
In summer only where the sea
Tosses in green immensity
And where the rose-red seaweed goes,
As lovely as land gardens' rose
Can life at full flood up in me,
In summer only, by the sea.

Q. and A. DEPARTMENT

Dear Aunt Bella—

In frontier communities what was a vigilance committee?

Puzzled.

Ans.—Well, from what I hear, they was just a bunch ofthoughts and ill-mannered roudies who thought it great "sport" to run a good-looking young blonde out of town who, at the time was supporting an invalid grandmother by waiting on tables. Then they said it was for the good of the community. I mean that's what they'd say when anything like this happened. But a lot they knew about it, because the reason these hoodlums who called themselves Vigilantes got it in for her was because she'd always turn the cold shoulder when they tried to act "funny." None of them was gents. And . . But, oh well, it all happened a long time ago.

REVELATIONS OF FRENCH SECRET SURETE POLICE

Note—This is the first of a series of sensational revelations of the French Secret Police and how they cleverly cope with baffling crime, as recorded in the Perfect Surete Coup d'Etat confidential files.

By CAPITAN MONS. "X"

Perhaps the outside world has never realized how French secret police go to great pains to prevent their watches from being snatched. will now explain, for the first time, the extreme measures taken to prevent such crimes. Every plain-clothes operative has a buttonhole in his upper vest pocket. The watch chain is threaded through the buttonhole and permitted to suspend into the lower vest pocket. Naturally, teh crook thinks the watch is attached to the lower end of the chain. But no! All the time the watch is secretly concealed in the upper pocket. The lower snap is merely attached to a bunch of keys. When the watch thief grabs the chain, the watch is held secure by the upper buttonhole, and all the thief has for his trouble is a bunch of keys. The trap works perfectly, and you can imagine the look that comes over the culprit's face when he gets the "ha ha" (as you Americans say) from the Operative de Suret!

And rare it is for those who've looted,

Down By the Postoffice

The additions buildings themselves were erections for traps built with the idea of discouraging hoboes from sleeping on government property.

All repairs were made with chewing gum and wrapping paper. The construction dated from 1776, and we know that Washington's sufferings at Valley Forge were increased by a postmaster who read his postcards.

Hawthorne said we should not erect any buildings to last more than 50 years. Why should one generation inflict its architectural horrors on the next? Hawthorne was right, until the government realized it. It constructed its edifices to last 50 years and used them for 180.

There is a postoffice in New York City in which they used to hang pickles. The only reason they stopped is because the rope wore out. It was a residential district and the neighbors objected to the gargling noises made by roping and throg-tying a piratical larynx. It sounded much like the British governor pouring tea.

That postoffice is still there and doing business. We covered Tex Guinan's trial there when the Feds accused Tex of having a license without having liquor. Every year the government promises to tear the building down and erect a worse one. In the meantime it is bowed at the knees and the postoffice perms are as splayed as the devil's hoofs. An absolutely accurate method of polka-dotting a white linen coat is to write a letter with one of those pens.

Now we know that the PWA is about to turn over many millions to Morgenthau and Farley for postoffice construction. The amount is around sixty-five millions. They will just about supply ink and erasers. We will furnish the blotters.

Why not use the money as collateral for the presentation of a gold fountain pen to every man and woman in America. Why build more places where nobody is allowed to smoke, eat basket lunches or write funny sayings on the walls?

That sixty-five million would come in handy right now for a few schemes we are cooking up. Why not turn the entire amount over to The Bug and hang the pirates outdoors in the refreshing sunshine? The Bug never had any federal funds at his disposal and would like to hear the opposition yelling.

We will not build postoffices with the golden cabbage. After all is said and translated, a postoffice is where you get your mail, and these days you are better off if you don't get any.

Fomented by Communists

The San Francisco Strike Is a Revolutionary Attack On the United States Government

If further evidence were needed—which unhappily it is not—that the San Francisco general strike is, in a significant measure, a fomented revolutionary thrust by the Communists, such evidence is supplied by the Daily Worker, the central organ of the Communist Party of the United States, a section of the Communist Internationale.

It is a call to all Communists in the United States to take the lead in spreading the strike of the San Francisco marine workers to every seaport in America.

Instead of regarding the San Francisco strike as a calamity, the Communist harpies hail it with glee and as an opportunity to be made the most of—an opportunity to wreak their hatred upon orderly society and the country, and to give unbridled vent to their passion for destruction.

The Daily Worker is well schooled in the technique of brawls and public commotion—or, as the "conservatives of the Tugwell brand might prefer to call it, the "revolutionary tactic."

Not content with the fact that the Communists have achieved their primary objective in the actual precipitation of a general strike and that it is in full operation, the Daily Worker already charges the strikers' committee with bad faith and accuses it of having been reluctant to consent to the strike.

It warns the workers against the inevitable treachery they are destined to encounter on the part of their leaders whom it accuses of going along with the strike only when they found they could not prevent it, and in order to be able better to stab it in the back at an opportune moment.

"Spread the marine strike to every port," is the cry of this Communist organ—whose seditious and traitorous agitation seems to enjoy a tolerance on the part of the country's present guardians that we are at a loss to account for.

Vittor's Plea for Beauty

Attractiveness As Well as Usefulness Should Be Considered In the Toll Plaza

Frank Vittor, the sculptor, should have the backing of public sentiment in his appeal for the consideration of beauty in carrying out the county's twenty-five million dollar public works program. He is right in saying that beauty has been disregarded in much of the public work that has previously been done in this community.

Mr. Vittor has brought the issue to a head by insisting, as a member of the City Planning Commission, that the toll plaza for the Liberty Tubes shall be made attractive in appearance. He declares that the present design has no appeal to anyone who appreciates art or outdoor beauty.

Without offering an opinion as to the particular design under discussion, it can be stated with confidence that the officials who are to confer on this subject tomorrow will make no mistake if they direct that landscape architects and artists as well as engineers shall be given a voice in the preparations of plans, not only for the plaza but for the other public works that are to be constructed with the federal grant.

Good for Brownsville!

It Sets a Fine Example for the Rest of the State With a School District Merger

Notwithstanding the pleas for consolidation of school districts, in the interest of economy and efficiency, and as a step towards the abolition of oxcart government, the 1934-1935 school year has opened this month with only two less districts than last year.

Pennsylvania still has 2,582 independent school districts, of which 2,303 are of the fourth class; that is, they do not have 5,000 population. Fourteen hundred of these districts have no high schools, and are finding it more and more difficult to pay tuition to neighboring districts.

One of the two school districts which has disappeared from the new list is Brownsville, which has been merged with South Brownsville. This was a sensible move, and the people of Brownsville and South Brownsville deserve praise for their willingness to pool their educational interests.

Allegheny County has more than a hundred independent school districts outside of the cities. It would be advantageous to the taxpayers and to the school children to consolidate them.

He Is Mistaken

The Youths of the Civilian Conservation Corps Are Respected and Admired

The Sun-Telegraph has received a bitter letter from a boy in a Pennsylvania camp of the Civilian Conservation Corps. He seems to be suffering from an "inferiority complex," and if he reports the situation correctly his campmates are similarly afflicted. He says, among other things:

"What are we thought of today? Relief bums, the men who live on Uncle Sam and the taxpayers. We are scorned, laughed at for our position. Mothers warn their daughters not to be seen with a CCC. People snicker at our monkey clothes, as they are called. In general we are considered as scum, the poor unfortunates of the nation. We are the nobody class."

The Sun-Telegraph, very close to public opinion, believes that this young man is mistaken. Far from despising the Civilian Conservation Corps, the people admire and respect the youths who are doing this arduous and useful work in the national and state forests to help out their needy families.

It might be well to show this admiration and respect a little more openly for the benefit of sensitive boys like the one who has written to the Sun-Telegraph.

There are scores of CCC camps in Pennsylvania. Would it not be a good idea for the people living in the towns nearest these camps to do something for the entertainment of the boys? Show them hospitality, and they will not be so self-conscious.

SUN-TELEGRAPH'S PLATFORM

For Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania

A better, cleaner, more beautiful city.
Improved transit facilities.
Establishment of Pittsburgh metropolitan district.
Voting machines to insure honest elections.
Complete utilization of water resources.
Electrification of railroads.
Fair public utility rates.

What! After That Promising Rainbow?

By Nelson Harding

We thought that bow of promise meant
The drenching storm had passed,
But now again the inky clouds
Are rising high and fast.

Once more we hear the thunder roll
And see the lightning flash,
As on the inundated land
New drops begin to splash.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, July 19.—Amelia Earhart continues to be as timid in public as her famous fellow flier, Lindbergh. The lion hearted courage so distinguishing each of them dissolves into a shimmer of self consciousness when they approach the rustle and roar of crowds.

The striking similarity of their facial contours extends even to the deer-startled looks they express when cornered by reporters and photographers. Miss Earhart's delicate femininity is not only accentuated by her thin reed-like figure, but by the bouffant frou-frou of her gowns.

Like Lindbergh, she goes to the theater seldom. Her recreations are tennis and golf. But most of her time is spent in intensive study of aviation. Nobody knows but herself just when she is likely to don her flying togs and be off for some tag-end of the earth.

Her marriage to George Palmer Putnam has been a happy one. The publisher has never offered the slightest obstacle to her professional career. He has managed, too, not to be known as "Mr. Amelia Earhart." The aviatrix neither smokes, touches alcoholic liquors, nor drinks coffee.

One of Manhattan's high handshake clubs lists on its menu: "Scrambled Eggs, Poor Man Style." At the Ritz the same sort of scramble is called "Country Style." The yolks are merely mixed with the whites. Unless the designation is made in New York only the yolks are scrambled.

In a short taxi spin today I noticed the meter was not working. I expected to be the victim of an experienced hoodwinker and was set for argument. Instead, at the stop the driver blinked at his neglect and said: "No charge, mister. I'm excited over being married this evening." He got a dollar for what was about a 30-cent drive. And in chronicling this it occurs to me it might be just another little gyp after all. New York is funny that way.

* * *

The metropolis no longer has the array of yowling and colorful newsies who used to be inspiration for a perky paragraph now and then. Such as Plug Donovan, on Forty-second, who mixed news vending with prize-fighting and soap-box preaching. Also the Twyne twins, who hawked extra editions and never missed getting the hook at an amateur night on Fourteenth street. Then there was Mocko, down by Brooklyn Bridge, the black, gold-toothed Senegalese, who cried of murder and a world wet with tears in frock coat, silk hat and cane.

Charles B. Dillingham's constant companion is a young fellow he calls "Mulligan," one of the usual bright Broadway talkers tricked out in snappy garments. "Mulligan" is Murray Lachmann and was once Dillingham's office boy, working up to various managerial posts in the theater.

There should be a bit of garland girdling for the taxi charioteer who hangs out at the stand on the south side of the Waldorf. She is English—from Liverpool a starter tells me—with a pronounced accent. Wearing a jaunty Tommy's cap, she gives a queenly Boadicean flourish to her task. Today when a portly fare approached, she leaped to the door with a military salute, head erect as though shifting with the guards at Whitehall. Among the drivers she is Cockney Tess.

It's dandy for me I'm clear down to here with today's column. A neighbor just brought in his pair of English bull pups with bow legs, undershot jaws, comic waddles and everything. They are already tearing through the house hell-for-leather with the best pillow on the place. And I'm off to join the wrecking crew, hooray!

LISTEN, WORLD!

The Most Shameful Book Ever Published in America

It isn't a big book. Nor an elaborate one. No fanfare of publicity preceded its publication. No Senatorial committee will order an investigation. But I doubt if a more pitiful or shameful document has ever been issued in the history of this country.

For here is the lowdown. After all our proud boasting and sanctified bleating about the Wonderful American Home and how we Protect Our Precious Children . . . after all our haughty snootiness toward other nations for giving their youngsters a raw deal . . . here's the lowdown on what's really happening to the boys and girls of America. And if it doesn't make every decent American hang his head in shame, then we're a bunch of punks and due for the junk pile.

"BOY AND GIRL TRAMPS OF AMERICA"—that's the name of it.

You didn't know there were boy and girl tramps in America? Then I wouldn't admit it if I were you—for you couldnt have escaped that knowledge, these last three years, if your heart and head had been on the job.

From New York to San Francisco, Chicago and Detroit to New Orleans, the highways have been darkening, the hobo jungles have been clotting, with that tragic march of homeless youngsters.

What kind of youngsters? Juvenile delinquents? Kid bandits? Handy for us oldsters if they were, wouldn't it be? Help us save our faces.

But there's not a chance. They're just kids, that's all. Little, skinny, ragged, hungry forgotten kids. Not any more criminal than your little 12-year-old Billy, or 15-year-old Sister. And there they are—shuffling along in grotesque rags—living on rotten fruits and garbage pail crusts—sleeping in box cars, "jungles," filthy alleys, dirt caves.

How many of them? Nobody knows. Far into the thousands. Over 100,000, some investigators report. Enough so that the federal government is struggling desperately with their problem. Enough so the black blot of it will follow us down through all history.

The richest, proudest, most powerful nation on earth—yet our babies roam hungry and hopeless like starving curs!

How do they manage? Countless thousands of boys and girls, all under 21, out on their own, hustling for their lives, making their own laws, dependent on no one, responsible to no one—how do they manage?

That's what Thomas Minehan wondered. Wondered until he dressed in rags himself and lived for a year as one of them. Now he tells the story—the most shameful story that has ever been told of any nation. Nothing can ever excuse it. No matter how we oldsters muddled our own affairs, those youngsters should never have come to this.

There are chapters which simply cannot be reprinted.

No work at home. Dad hasn't had a job for three years. Evicted—family scattered. That, of couse, is the start in practically every case.

But how does that excuse the rest of us? We had bed and food for a homeless girl, if Bill Jones didn't. Suppose it had been YOUR girl? And just how and why do you figure that she ISN'T your girl?

Youngsters of 14 lying mangled beside the tracks—fallen off a box car—not a house within 20 miles. Lying there alone, bleeding, whimpering—screaming for someone—trying to crawl.

And remember—all this is REAL. It isn't a faked-up yarn. It isn't something that's over. It's happening NOW, RIGHT NOW—ALL OVER AMERICA!

And that isn't the worst of it. They're kids now. But what are they going to be tomorrow? Take a kid's school away. Take his home and his folks away. Turn him out loose, at 12 or 14. Turn him out to live as best he can . . . to find his food and shelter and clothes and sex satisfaction wherever he can . . . AND WHAT WILL HE BE 10 YEARS FROM NOW? And who'll be responsible?

"BOY AND GIRL TRAMPS OF AMERICA," by Thomas Minehan. Farrar and Rinehart, publishers. You can get it at any good book store, and read it in a couple of hours. But if there's a heart in you, to ache with pity and burn with shame, you'll not be forgetting it for many a long day.

'GOOD OLD DAYS'

By Winifred Black

So it's going down the lonesome road you are Maggie Cline, and you near to eighty.

And it's many a fine laugh you handed them in the days gone by, with your "Trow Him Down McCloskey."

How you did love to rollick down to the footlights with that hat tilted over one eye, and that nice wholesome chubby arm of yours spread out in a gesture of gay and joyous defiance and how we all savored the full flavor of your vigor and simple health and good nature.

Why, you must have been fifty, Maggie, the first time I saw you, fifty and going on sixty at that, but say, you had more life in you than half the girls, and all the pretty little pink and twenties faded into the discard alongside of you.

What a gay lot you were to be sure, you and say Tony Pastor, and his silk hat and his diamond shirt studs and the way he took off his hat and twirled it back on his head again, why it made life seem just a sort of gay dance just to look at him, even when he was an old man and not what they said he used to be.

Harrigan and Hart, they belonged to your day and a fine roystering day it was to be sure.

I can see Ned Harrigan this very minute, standing in the center of the stage alone with a plain little gold ring in his hand, and he polishing it with a good serviceable bandanna and singing in his high sweet tenor:

And one bright morning in early spring,
I gave to you and bade you wear it,
This simple token—the plain gold ring."

A light heart you had, Ned Harrigan, and a kind heart, too, they said. And there was Tony Hart, too—the Mulligan guards, do you mind that now, and the Skidmore guards?

And who was the little man with the Irish harp who used to sing "Mary Jane, Change Your Name," and do the funny little dance step in between the lines?

And it was a great lark to put on some plain clothes and a veil and get someone to take you to the varieties to hear these things.

Papa and Uncle Bill and Cousin Charlie went and once in a while as a great treat papa would take mama and they'd laugh over it for years.

You saw them come and go, Maggie, didn't you, and a fine friendly time you had of it, watching the world go by.

Well, you'll find many of your old friends on the other side of the river, won't you, and will you be remembering the old times and the old songs, I do be wondering that, the day.

I do indeed.

Italy Under Mussolini Has Become a Clean Land, With Punctual Trains, and Free From Beggars

By Edwin C. Hill

IN THE broiling sun of an Italian summer a short, rocklike man, with extraordinary brilliant black eyes, threshes out the first sheaves of golden wheat from soil which hasn't been usefully used for more than 20 centuries. Quite seriously he accepts his pay, 18 cents, and then goes back to Rome, to larger affairs, while thousands roar with applause.

The king in Kipling's poem didn't finish his temple, but: "He carved on every timber, he cut on every stone. After me cometh a builder; tell him, I, too, have known."

Two thousand years rolled by, and now the builder has come; Benito Mussolini resets 'the quoins and the ashlars" of the old Romans, fashions anew the temples and the marts, drains swamps, builds canals and rears a new Italy after centuries of ignominy and sloth. "Avanti!"

The barrel-chested blacksmith's son—Il Duce of the thyroidic eye—with an angle of vision which includes a long march of the centuries—goads his people out of decadence, into the surge of life, whipping men and machines into high adventure; into the conquest of disease, dirt, idleness and famine; into the resurgence of a great national destiny.

He is a Roman. Through the dark ages, innate racial powers slept. They have come to life in this extraordinary man. Recent talks with friends returning from Italy have turned my attention sharply from Mussolini the demagog and rabble-rouser, to Mussolini the builder.

Italy is clean. While the punctuality of trains has now become a tiresome cliche, the fact is that Mussolini has developed the swiftest, cleanest, most comfortable and cheapest train service on the continent. Beggars no longer bedevil visitors, statues are scrubbed. All the great plazas, galleries, churches and temples are clean and orderly, and Michelangelo's great David looks down from his hill on a new and shining Firenza.

Pontine Marshes A Plague Spot

THIS recital, no doubt, would raise a gleam of contempt in Il Duce's insulting eye. It's just a little job of preliminary housecleaning. His vast rebuilding works, his great agrarian enterprises, his reorganization of the economic life of the country—here is the summons of his young Roman legions, and here is Mussolini's high endeavor.

Through the centuries, Italy's occasional attention to the Pontine marshes was just like picking a sore. For a thousand years they were going to do something about it. In the country which desperately needed land, 60,000 acres were allowed to sing into bogs and swamps, to become a foul wallow of rotting vegetation, breeding mosquitoes and malaria, menacing the health of the country.

Various reclamation plans were developed, but never carried through, among them the plan of Pope Pius VI, in 1777. Napoleon was intent on a Herculean drainage scheme, but Destiny "whispered and called him aside." With his rulership of Italy assured, one of Mussolini's first blows was struck at this ancient cesspool. His mandate, the Bonifica Integrale, set aside $565,000,000 for the work. The best engineering talent of the realm was summoned.

"Gentlemen," said Il Duce, "I want the Pontine marshes drained and made into fertile land. Here is the money. You will find a way."

Woods and rotting underbrush were cleared; drainage and irrigation canals were built; pumping and power stations were erected; concrete roadways were laid and town sites located. Within 13 months, the clean, busy, little town of Littoria had risen on the side of one of the most fetid mud holes. And that was on a spot which for ages had been marked "deserta" on the maps.

By the end of next year, about 60,000 persons will have been installed on the reclaimed land, getting their living from it. Malaria has been banished from the region.

Ancient Promise To Dredge Tiber

IN ITALY a few years ago I attended a political meeting, a debate between two candidates for the Senate. One made a long and eloquent address, the burden of which was his promise to dredge the Tiber down to the sea if he were elected. His opponent, when his turn came, said nothing, but beckoned to four men in the wings. They came on the stage carrying a huge tablet with a large inscription deeply chiselled on it. It was the promise of one Rovario, candidate for the Senate in the reign of one of the late caesars, promising to dredge the Tiber if he were elected. Our candidate, using a pointer, read the inscription, bowed low and walked off amid cheers and laughter.

So I knew then that Italy was cynically aware of how her old and great aspirations has been sluiced off into the Pontine marshes? But they shrugged their shoulders and let go at that. And then out of the long darkness came Mussolini. This is no Apologia Imperatore. Mussolini used all the tricks of the demagog in seizing and maintaining power, and he did what Hitler is doing now—fanned up chauvinism for home consumption, to intrench him in leadership, and played his foreign policy warily.

Personally, I like our American brand of government first rate, and Fascism may be what it may—but aside from this, the more recent picture of Mussolini the builder reveals one of the most extraordinary human figures of modern ages. He is rebuilding Rome, renovating and restoring Florence, Venice, Naples, Genoa and a dozen other cities—with a grandiose gesture, perhaps, but he is doing it all in the Roman tradition.

Again, he is a Roman. The word denotes the life force at its zenith. It "ebbed and sank and saddened" in those dark centuries. It rises again. Today's front pages give us no clue as to what is hidden in that long life stream. Immediate heredity and environment do not tell the full story of a Mussolini.

Foreign Propaganda Calls For Investigation

By James T. Williams, Jr.

HOW much money is being expended by foreign governments in the United States in an effort to control public sentiment?

How many Americans are taking this dirty money to combat the will of the American people and thwart the leadership of true Americans?

The answers to these questions can be found if the congressional committee, under the chairmanship of Congressman McComick, of Massachusetts, will go after it.

The McCormick committee has made a good beginning by dragging into the light some of the propaganda activities in which German agents have been engaged. It has also unearthed some of the activities of Russian agents.

Both of these trails should be explored to the limit. And the names of all Americans and their alien allies, who are abusing the hospitality of American soil to ply their nefarious trade, should be put into the light of print.

But the McCormick committee will fall far short of its bounden duty, if it limits its investigation to German and Russian propaganda. What the American people want to know, also, is how much money the other debt-dodging governments of the Old World are spending in the United States to confound and confuse the American people, to influence legislation in Congress and to poison the mind of Latin America against men and things American by propaganda sent by wire and mail to the republics of the south.

* * *

French Aid Trade With Propaganda

IT was announced more than a year ago that a large sum had been appropriated by the French government to be expended for "trade propaganda" in foreign countries.

The McCormick committee should find out how much of this is being expended in the United States, how it is being spent, and just what is meant by "trade propaganda."

Does "trade propaganda" include the [illegible]ding of French news agencies with a view to distorting throughout Latin America American policies and American pronouncements and discrediting American aircraft and other American products?

Does "trade propaganda" include the incubating of sensational books, the sole purpose of which is to make gullible Americans believe that President Roosevelt's efforts to build up the Army and the Navy are prompted by the pressure of an American munitions trust?

Does "trade propaganda" include mendacious misrepresentations, under a Washington date line, to the Latin American republics of President Roosevelt's Secretary of War and his chief of staff and the Army general staff and the general board of the Navy and the Army Air Corps and the naval air force and American aircraft and American aviation in general?

* * *

Let the Facts Be Broadcast

ALL that the McCormick committee need do to put a stop to this violation of American sovereignty is to ascertain the facts and then broadcast them to the country.

Nobody who really knows the American people doubts that they will do the rest if the McCormick committee will lead the way by putting the light of a Congressional investigation upon all alien propaganda and alien propagandists and all so-called Americans who have contaminated themselves by aiding and abetting this alien abuse of American soil.

It matters not whether this alien propaganda against the United States is British or French, Russian or German, Italian Austrian, Polish, Belgian, Spanish, Japanese or what not. If it is propaganda on American soil to take the control of public sentiment from the American people themselves and turn it over to the hirelings of a foreign country it is a conspiracy against the United states. And the conspirators are either alien enemies or American traitors or both.

"There is no room for the hyphen in our citizenship," declared Theodore Roosevelt. "There is no place for a fifty-fifty Americanism in the United States. He who is not with us absolutely and without reserve of any kind, is against us, and should be treated as an alien enemy, to be interned or sent out of the country. We have room in this country for but one flag, the Stars and Stripes, and we should tolerate no allegiance to any other flag, whether a foreign flag or the red flag or the black flag."
